On the President's Train.
Fishing and Thinking.
Plans Ahead.
He Looks, Feels and Is Well.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS IS WRITTEN on a special train, carrying back to Washington President Roosevelt from his short fishing trip on Vincent Astor's boat Nourmahal.

The President, apparently not superstitious or a believer in "hoodoos," landed from the Nourmahal at Miami at 9 o'clock this morning, disregarding the unpleasant incident of about one year ago and advice of friends to board the train at Jacksonville.

He would not adopt a course that might seem to indicate lack of confidence in a friendly city. As a matter of fact the President does not waste much energy on being afraid of things.

He rode through the city, from the dock to the railroad station, in an open car, smiling and raising his hat as he passed slowly between the cheering crowds that lined the streets.

By the way, he saw a city happier, and one hundred per cent more prosperous than the Miami of last year.

VINCENT POSEIDON ASTOR (the middle name comes with the yacht) bade farewell to the President at the railroad station, not far from the water's edge, every well regulated poseidon being supposed to stay near the water.

The rest of the party are on this train, including General Johnson, the NRA "high muck-a-muck," and Donald Richberg, NRA's legal advisor and sworn enemy of all "stuffed shirts" that would hamstring, betray, belittle, and undermine the new era.

What Mr. Richberg says of those stuffed shirts reminds you of Villon's poem denouncing qui malvoudraient au royaume de France" "that would wish evil to the Kingdom of France." Villon did his best, but Richberg's style is the more vigorous.

GENERAL JOHNSON and Mr. Richberg, who came down to meet the President and talk to him on the trip north, were urged by the President to get off somewhere and catch a few fish, with fresh air and sunlight for themselves.

At West Palm Beach they had not made up their minds about that. Flaying stuffed shirts and "cracking down on chiselers" is more fun than catching sail fish.

The President's party caught one hundred and ten good-sized fish yesterday, which settles the question, "is the President a good fisherman?" He is, when he feels like fishing, but he goes to sea, first, because he likes the water. His mother's father used to run his own ships to China, under sail. He goes to sea, also, because out there no telephones ring.

AT THE STATION, cameramen, standing on high trucks, were grinding out moving and talking pictures, as the President turned 'round on the rear platform, good naturedly, smiling at an old lady who shouted:

"I want to see the President! Can't I see him?"

She saw him, and saw a man in good health, with powerful, wide shoulders, concentrated blue eyes, and a head so big that even the late Bourke Cockran's hat would probably sit wobbling on the top of it. Cockran wore a number eight.

All along the railroad, at every station, big and little, thousands of automobiles are lined up, whole populations gather, hoping for a sight of the President.

AT THIS MOMENT the train stops at Fort Pierce, and apparently every man, woman and small child has heard that the President is passing through.

One slender young mother hopes that her small six-year-old boy, with curly, golden hair, will have a chance to show the President his new cowboy suit and toy pistol, "worn especially." The President steps out on the platform, when the crowd calls and cheers, sees the small sized cowboy, held up in his mother's arms, and waves his hand to him. That boy and mother will have something to tell.

IN ATLANTA recently a businessman who was asked: "How do you feel about the President in Georgia?" replied:

"Anybody with anything to say against Roosevelt here might as well shoot himself, and save somebody else the trouble."

If you could see these railroad station crowds, the women especially, you would know how THESE people feel about the President.

COLORED MEN and women come eagerly to meet the train, including the old that probably never expected to feel enthusiasm for a Democrat. They have a reason. A little while ago, a majority of them were idle and worried about food for their children. Such unskilled work as they could get was paid twelve cents an hour, $1.26 for ten hours.

Recently they have been hired by Uncle Sam, digging ditches to eliminate mosquitoes, building roads, etc., with workmen scarcer than jobs, and getting forty cents an hour, $2.40 for six hours, which is better than $1.20 for ten hours.

They wanted to see the man who had arranged that kind of "bolshevik communism," as Mr. Richberg's stuffed shirts call it.

ON THE TRAIN the President talked to the regular newspapermen, young, eager, crowding around him, nine in a small room, with M. H. McIntyre, the President's secretary, as shepherd of the flock. The President answers every question, without stopping to think it over.

There is only one answer in direct dealing.

The rule is that a direct quotation, putting words in the

FINISH FIGHT FOR M'LEOD BILL OPENS

Petition Completed, Threaten to Bar Adjournment

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—House leaders today were notified that a determined battle will be waged to prevent adjournment of Congress until relief is voted for depositors in closed banks.

The threat came after a petition to force out of committee the McLeod bill for 100 per cent payoff of depositors in closed banks was completed in the House today.

Representative Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, was the one hundred and forty-fifth signer of the petition, which was initiated after the House Banking Committee had attempted to pigeonhole the bill.

Representatives Connolly, Kurtz and Ransley, all Pennsylvania Republicans, preceded Sirovich in signing the petition.

The signing was dramatic. Representative Michael J. Muldowney (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, driving from Pittsburgh all night in a snowstorm, came in under the wire while the opposition was trying to snarl the proceedings.

MAY DELAY VOTE

If the petition is held valid, consideration of the bill is assured on April 23. If backers of the McLeod bill are forced to seek another petition, the vote would be delayed until about the middle of May.

Developments came rapidly as revolt spread against the apparent determination of House leaders to

DILLINGER, PAL RAID JAIL

Bullet-Proof Vests, Guns Stolen in Indiana Town

WARSAW, Ind., April 13.—(AP.)—The search for John Dillinger, Indiana's notorious jail breaking bank robber, was concentrated in his home state again today following an early morning foray on the police station here.

Two men who took Jud Pittenger, veteran policeman, off his beat and forced him to accompany them to the station, were identified by the officer as Dillinger and Homer Van Meter, an Indiana parole violator and Dillinger associate.

They fled from the station after Pittenger had escaped from them. Four bullet proof vests and two revolvers were taken by the two bandits.

POLICE MOBOLIZE

Word of the police station raid was telephoned throughout the state and there began immediately a great concentration of law enforcement officers in an effort to round up the gangster who gained his greatest notoriety when he escaped March 3 from the Crown Point (Ind.) jail with the aid of a wooden gun whittled out in his cell.

At the time of his escape he was awaiting trial for the killing of Patrick O'Malley, slain during a bank holdup at East Chicago.

GUARD PAYROLL

Capt. Matt Leach, of the state police, quickly moved as many patrolmen as possible into the Northern Indiana district. Police of upstate cities took special precautions to guard banks and at New Castle, where disbursement of a $300,000 Chrysler payroll was scheduled, a heavy guard was established.

A report that Dillinger might have gone to a hideout near LaPorte caused a concentration of police squads there.

Police Trap Nine In Barrow Hideout

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 13.—(AP.)—Six men and three women were arrested by police here today in a reported hideout of Clyde Barow, Texas desperado, but Chief of Detectives Herbert Akers said Barrow was not among the prisoners.

'World' Court Just League Bait to U. S.

ACROSS the Atlantic, where the governments and peoples of the Old World know full well that the League Court is "the judicial organ" of the League of Nations, they make no hypocritical pretenses to the contrary.

These pretenses have been invented by our own internationalists for home consumption. They seek in this way to disarm American suspicion of this Court by contending that it has no connection with the League of Nations and is entirely independent of that entangling, political alliance.

This is the reason why the new drive to drag the United States into the League of Nations by the back-door of the League Court is camouflaged as an appeal to the American people to accept membership in a tribunal to which these internationalists have given the false but high-sounding title of "The World Court."

Any intelligent high school student in the United States can easily discover the indissoluable ties that bind this League Court to the League of Nations.

IN 1920, the Council of the League of Nations appointed a committee of experts to draft a plan for the organization of the Court provided for in Article 14 of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

This article reads as follows:

"The Council shall formulate and submit to the members of the League for adoption plans for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International justice. The Court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties thereto submit to it. The Court may also give an advisory opinion upon any dispute or question referred to it by the Council or by the Assembly."

In August, 1920, this committee of experts, appointed by the League of Nations, submitted its plan for the League Court in the form of a statute. And Article 1 of that statute reads as follows:

"A Permanent Court of International Justice is hereby established in accordance with Article 14 of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

This plan was adopted by the Assembly of the League on December 13, 1920. Later, it was approved by the member states of the League, who joined in a protocol of signature.

OF THIS League Court, thus established, the French member of the League committee of ex-

Joe Muldowney Among 34 Sentenced in U. S. Court

Thirty-five more election board members and workers, convicted in the government's vote fraud drive, were sentenced to penitentiary or jail terms by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, in Federal Court, today.

Joseph W. Muldowney, judge of elections in the Third District, Fourth Ward, brother of Congressman M. J. Muldowney, and lieutenant of State Senator James J. Coyne, was sentenced to one year and a day in a federal prison and to pay a $1 fine.

Like terms were imposed on virtually all judges and inspectors of election. Clerks drew four months in jail.

MOTHER WINS STAY

Mrs. Mary Wagner, mother of five children, an inspector in the same district as Muldowney, was placed on probation for three years.

The second woman convicted, Mrs. Mary Burns, also mother of five, inspector in the Seventh District, Fifteenth Ward, was fined $500 and sentenced to one day in jail. She is a candidate for the Legislature.

Mark Stanton, a clerk on the board of the Seventh District, Fifteenth Ward, described by counsel as being ill, was paroled for three years.

Attorney John R. Frankel made a plea for leniency on behalf of members of the Seventh District, Fifteenth Ward. He said:

"All have dependents. All were victims of a vicious system of factional politics."

LENIENCY ASKED

For Muldowney and other members of the board of the Third District, Fourth Ward, Attorney Edward G. Coll pleaded for leniency. The recount, he asserted, had shown Congressman Muldowney had not been given credit for as many votes by the election board as he had actually received.

Mrs. Anne E. Felix, the Democratic nominee, had been credited with more votes by the board than

PINCHOT URGES BANK PAYOFF

Expressing high approval of the McLeod bill, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today wired several Pennsylvania Congressmen asking their efforts in its behalf.

The Governor's telegram read:

"I urge very strongly your cooperation and vote to discharge the committee conside ing McLeod bill for federal payment of balances due depositors in closed banks. Especially I urge amendment to include all state banks and not merely those belonging to the Federal Reserve System. Passage of this bill will give deserved relief to thousands who really need it."

All Washington Turns Out to See Roosevelt Home

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The same Congress that sent President Roosevelt away from Washington two weeks ago with a smacking over his veto — and which since he has been away has been rebelliously kicking over administration traces—gave him a whooping reception upon his return today that was utterly without precedent.

Approximately 160 members of the House marched from the Capitol plaza behind the red-coated Marine Band to the Union Station to join there a group of Senators, cabinet officers and members of the Roosevelt family to greet the President upon his return from Florida.

Amusingly, enough, the most prominent paraders were those who helped to over-ride the veto.

The blase capital, which has seen all sorts of parades, never

Trumpet Player Sued for Divorce

After playing a trumpet all evening in Eddie Peyton's band, Earl T. McFarland would come home and relax by abusing his wife, Mrs. Willa McFarland, of 201 North Sprague avenue, Bellevue, she testified today in seeking a divorce before Judge John P. Egan.

Mrs. Willa Moore, her mother, testified Earl often became so enraged that he would rip off his shirt or pajamas, as the case might be. Judge Egan took the plea under consideration.

TRIES SUICIDE IN N. Y. CELL

A man carrying papers indicating he was Franklin Meade, of 3955 Bigelow boulevard, tried to end his life in the cell of a New York jail early today, New York police reported.

He had been arrested on a disorderly conduct charge after refusing to pay a $24.50 bill in New York's Stork Club, the same police said.

Until six weeks ago a man who spelled his name E. Franklin Mead was manager of the general industrial resale sales department of Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. His address was the Royal Yorke Apartments, 3955 Bigelow boulevard.

CARNEGIE BLOCK BURNS, 15 FLEE

Fifteen persons, including six children, were routed when flames swept a row of stores and shops, with apartments above, at 121 to 131 West Main street, Carnegie, early today.

One woman and her 15-month-old daughter were carried to safety by firemen, two of whom were injured slightly fighting the blaze.

After an investigation, authorities said the fire apparently started from an overheated coal stove in the rear of Simon's dry-goods store. Capt. George Ebner estimated the loss at $20,000.

Eli Moskowitz, 117 West Main, proprietor of a cigar store and news agencies, discovered the fire as he reached his store at 5:30

Mrs. Marie Abraham and her baby, Shirley, who lived above the Abraham & Son clothing store, were carried to safety. Gladys, 9, Bobby, 7, and Billy, 5, fled.

A. Simon, owner of the buildings and proprietor of Simon's dry goods store, escaped with his wife and family.

Firemen from East Carnegie and Glendale answered emergency alarms. Chief John Franko, of Glendale, and Fireman Milton Schulte, of Carnegie, were injured when they fell through a floor.

Family Prays as Holdup Victim Fights Blindness

Surgeons Operate, Hope to Save One Eye

Stratigos, victim of barbarous bandits who jabbed his eyes with broken glass, lay immobile on an operating table in Montefiore Hospital while surgeons, far from hopeful, tried to save the sight of one eye and gave up hope for the other.

Meanwhile, a chorus of prayer went up from his wife and four youngsters—Margy, 15; Peter, 12; Albert, 10; Theodore, 8.

The police announced they had obtained descriptions of the three fiends who stole into Stratigos' Stadium bowling alleys at 3808 Fifth avenue, Oakland, and pressed a gun against his back.

The thugs emptied the cash register of $15 and, apparently disgusted with the loot, two of them pinioned the victim's arms while the third twisted broken glass in his eyes. They escaped in an auto.

Stratigos collapsed. Recovering, he stumbled to the sidewalk and was found by the police.

Stratigos' operation today revealed nothing immediately. Surgeons said not for several days would they be able to determine whether the victim must go through life entirely blind.

Kresel Disbarred In Bank Expose

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Isidor J. Kresel, who prosecuted an ambulance-chasing investigation in 1928, and was chief counsel in the Seabury investigation into magistrates' courts, was formally disbarred today by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

The action resulted from Kresel's conviction last November 27 on a charge of misapplication of funds of the now defunct Bank of United States.

SENATE MOVES AGAINST TAX DODGERS

LaFollette Proposes Public Inspection Of Returns

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—Now that the Senate has boosted the tax bill to $480,000,000, Republican independents in that chamber sought today to hand the government a club which they said would frighten tax-dodgers into shelling out.

Publicity was the weapon they chose. Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, who won approval of a stiff increase in inheritance and gift levies, yesterday brought before the Senate an amendment to make all tax returns subject to public inspection. On the basis of past performances, this amendment looked like an easy winner.

This was the last major controversy to be settled before the tax measure—which once was the "$258,000,000 revenue bill"—is approved. After the Senate gets through with it, it goes to a conference with the House to adjust scores of Senate additions and subtractions.

STAMP TAX CUT

The Senate approved a Finance Committee amendment to the revenue bill to reduce from 5 to 1 cent per $100 the stamp tax on sales of produce for future delivery.

The committee reported the tax was "seriously interfering" with normal business transactions on the exchanges.

A final vote on the revenue bill was due before night.

This led Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, to assert the New Orleans Cotton Exchange was a "gang of rotten crooks that robbed the farmers."

SHOOT AT BONUSES

Senator Clark (Dem.), of Missouri, had planned tentatively an amendment to tax the income from millions of dollars of securities now exempt, but it was uncertain whether he would put it to a vote.

A step toward discouraging huge salaries for officers of corporations and banks and thus raising more tax revenue from these sources was taken yesterday when an amendment by Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, was approved. It would compel corporations to report annually to the Treasury all officers being paid salaries or bonuses, or both, in excess of $15,000. The Treasury would be required to send the list to Congress where it would be made public.

EXCHANGE BILL MODIFIED

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—A House Interstate Commerce Sub-committee today modified the stock market regulation bill by extending the time for registration of securities.

Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), of Texas, in announcing that the committee had extended for more than a full year the registration of securities provision, said it was done to allow corporations that time in which to adjust themselves to the requirements.

Under the bill as now written, the corporations would be allowed only until April 1, 1935. This was extended to July 1, 1935. This applies to both listed and unlisted securities.

JOHNSON DEBT BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—President Roosevelt today signed the Johnson bill prohibiting financial transactions with foreign governments which have defaulted in their debt obligations to the United States.

Going immediately to his desk upon his return from a vacation cruise, the President also signed 26 other measures, principally private relief bills.

Mr. Roosevelt lost no time in putting his pen to the drastic legislation offered by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, which puts up a wall around American financial reserves against defaulting nations.

AIR MAIL 'WIRE PULLING' BARED

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—Testimony that the Postoffice Department was "bombarded" by Democratic national committeemen and others who "keep the Democratic donkey alive," in the interest of the Hanford Air Lines of Sioux City, Ia., was given today to the Senate Air Mail Investigating Committee.

A letter containing this statement from A. S. Hanford, Jr., president, to W. A. Patterson, president of the United Air Lines, was identified by William I. Denning, Washington attorney for Hanford. The letter said:

"I have bombarded the Postoffice Department with all the Democratic national committeemen, state chairmen, Governors, Congressmen, all Democratic Senators and everyone else in this territory who materially helps keep the well known Democratic donkey alive."

"They all urge and indorse flying this route."

PRAISES IDEALS OF JEFFERSON

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.) — Observing the one hundred ninety-first anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, the House today heard Representative Shannon (Dem.), of Missouri, express the hope that the country soon would return to the principles of old-fashioned Jeffersonian democracy.

After reviewing the political precepts of the framer of the Declaration of Independence, Shannon said:

"We are familiar enough, no doubt, with the political principles for which Jefferson stood—principles, I fear, that for a passing moment in our national career have come to be honored more in the breach than in the observance.

"I am hopeful that the day of emergencies into which we were recklessly plunged by the followers of the (Alexander) Hamiltonian system, almost to the brink of national ruin, will soon pass, and that we shall again witness a return to those sound principles of government, of, for and by the people, which Jefferson deemed so essential and so vital in the perpetuation of a true democracy."

CLASH MARKS CANNON TRIAL

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.) —Government and defense attorneys engaged today in a sharp controversy at the trial of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., over testimony that the churchman had found $5,000 in 1931, he had forgotten about.

Lee P. Oliver, a Justice Department special agent, testified yesterday that the Southern Methodist clergyman told of finding the money at a conference in the District Attorney's office here.

Today Robert H. McNeill, defense counsel, sought to place in the record a transcript of the churchman's statement at the time regarding the money.

He described as an "outrage" government objections to the procedure, asserting:

"I'm going to defend the defendant's rights even if the heavens fall."

Justice Peyton Gordon, upholding the objection, replied:

WIRE MEASURE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—The modified Dill-Rayburn bill for federal regulation of communications was approved today by the Senate interstate commerce committee.

The bill, introduced by recommendation of President Roosevelt, would create a communications commission of five members to take over from the Interstate Commerce Commission supervision of telephone and telegraph companies and from the Radio Commission jurisdiction over radio communication facilities.

The modified bill would give the commissiona uthority to inquire into contracts between affiliated companies for services and equipment and recommend to Congress whether legislation should be enacted to permit them to void or modify such contracts.

The bill also would permit the President to take over the communications systems in time of war or on the threat of war.

Decision Looms In Kingfish Fight

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—With its decision in prospect for tomorrow, the Senate Finance Committee today ended hearinfis concerning Senate confirmation of Daniel D. Moore, whose appointment as Louisiana internal revenue collector has been fought bitterly by Senator Huey P. Long, of the Magnolia State.

Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, committee chairman, said the committee tomorrow would decide whether to recommend confirmation or rejection.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON SILVER

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—The House Banking Committee agreed today to take a final vote Tuesday on the Goldsborough federal monetary authority bill with its silver remonetization amendment.

Earlier Speaker Rainey told reporters he thought silver legislation would get through.

He did not elaborate on his forecast, but arranged for a conference with two leading House advocates of silver legislation, Representatives Dies (Dem.), of Texas, and Fiesinger (Dem.), of Ohio.

Dies was the author of the silver bill passed by the House under which the Treasury would pay a premium price for silver shipped into this country in payment for exported agricultural surpluses.

Fiesinger advocated Treasury purchases of as much as 1,500,000,000 ounces of silver in an effort to restore commodity prices to the 1926 levels.

POWER TRUST LINKED TO SCHOOLS

Plans for Co-Operative Activities Laid in 1929 Revealed

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Specific plans for "co-operative activities" between utility interests and public school educators of the nation were mapped out by the National Electric Light Association in 1929, the Federal Trade Commission revealed today.

The program was approved by the public relations section of the association at an executive meeting held in Chicago, minutes of the meeting showed, after much derogatory public comment had been aroused by revelations that some educators had been employed by the utilities.

J. F. Owens, chairman of the executive committee, was quoted as saying:

"There is, and should be, a definite relationship between industry and educational institutions."

"It is the opinion of the committee that, instead of weakening or withdrawing measures of co-operation with educational institutions, they should be further strengthened."

In predicting that the power industry "is going to play a dominant part in the nation," Owens urged that "some authoritative source" be called upon to clarify what "the proper ethical co-operation" between the utilities and the schools should be.

At another commission hearing, testimony was adduced that the Associated Gas and Electric Company endeavored to induce holders of $17,000,000 in secured debentures and mortgage bonds of the Lexington Water Power Company, to exchange these securities for Associated offerings.

1—Representative Dingell (Dem.), of Michigan, began circulation of a petition to block adjournment of Congress until relief is voted.

2—The petition of 145 members to discharge the House Banking Committee for consideration of the McLeod bill was completed, thus assuring action on April 23 unless Speaker Rainey rules that the banking committee had nullified it by reporting the measure.

FILES RESOLUTION

3—Representative McLeod filed a resolution with the Rules Committee asking that the bill reported out of the Banking Committee be given preferred status on the House calendar.

4—Backers of the bill announced that if the Rules Committee fails to act in seven days they will again invoke the House "anti-gag" rule and seek 145 signers of a petition to discharge the Rules Committee.

Dingell said:

"Members are determined to see that relief is given to bank depositors before adjournment. My petition to block adjournment has already been signed by several eager members. I may temporarily withhold it to give the leaders a chance to bring the bill to the floor."

M'LEOD ENTHUSED

Representative McLeod was enthused by completion of his petition signed by one-third of the House members. He said:

"It was a remarkable exhibition of the determination of House members to aid closed bank depositors. The petition was completed in four days. I think that is the record.

"Members resented the action of the House Banking Committe in an effort to side-track the bill by a parliamentary trick. I am confident that we will get action for depositors' relief."

The House parliamentarian gave an informal ruling to the effect that the banking committee had nullified the McLeod bill petition, but Speaker Rainey was to make the final decision.

CHARGES TRICK

Under the "anti-gag" rule of the House, 145 members—one-third of the membership—can discharge a committee from consideration of a bill and bring it to the House floor for action if the committee has failed to act on a bill in 30 days' time.

The petition to force consideration of the McLeod bill was initiated by Representative Weideman (Dem.), of Michigan, when it appeared that House leaders were determined to stifle the bill.

As the petition neared completion yesterday, Chairman Steagall (Dem.), of Alabama, hastily summoned members of the Banking Committee and favorably reported the McCleod bill with its provision, excepting the number and title, stricken out and a similar bill of Representative Brown (Dem.), of Michigan, substituted.

Backers of the McLeod bill charged that this was a trick to nullify their petition and kill the bill.

Representative McLeod, whose bill provides for the RFC taking over assets of closed national and Federal Reserve member banks and paying off depositors in full, was prepared to attack the banking committee's action as illegal.

RAPS ACTION

Two Banking Committee members favoring the bill, Beedy of Maine and Wolcott of Michigan, were not notified of the hastily-called meeting yesterday. Wolcott said he had assurances from Chairman Steagall a meeting was not to be held at the time. Representative McLeod declared:

"This is one of the rawest things I've hear of. It shows the leadership doesn't want to give the House an opportunity to vote on my bill. The House would pass it."

A sharp debate rocked the House over the bill immediately after the chamber convened. Members protested because the Hearst papers had published the list of signers of the petition before the 145 names were obtained.

URGES PROBE

Rep. Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, and others demanded "punishment" of those violating house rules. Blanton shouted:

"This violation of the rules of the House was by the Hearst newspapers. They do not care anything about the rules of the House."

At this point Blanton suggested Rainey should appoint a committee to find out how the Hearst papers obtained the names and "see how the Hearst newspapers try to make monkeys out of the members of the United States Congress."

Amid the confusion Blanton shouted:

"William Randolph Hearst ought to be sent to jail for 30 days."

The remark, though heard all over the chamber, was eliminated from Blanton's statement appearing in the official report of the debate.

McLeod Bank Bill Held 'Most Fair' By Congressman

By RAYMOND J. CANNON
U. S. Representative from Wisconsin.
(Written for the Hearst Newspapers.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—I am emphatically behind the McLeod bank payoff bill because to my mind it is probably the most fair and just legislation propounded by the Seventy-third Congress.

The measure concerns the ultimate welfare of all the people in every state in this nation. Passage of this bill would mean that over night the rank and file of our citizenry would realize a purchasing power would be a major and potent factor in alleviating the financial stress now prevalent.

SPUR TO RECOVERY

The remarkable progress made by the recovery program would be further enhanced, with the release of so much currency in the hands of those who would be certain to spend it, and thereby keep it in circulation. The timidity and uncertainty which now grips industry and business would be shaken off and a renewed confidence restored.

But, more than that, passage of this bill would mean a new faith and hope in bankers and the banking business. It could not be otherwise, since 2,000 millions of dollars would be released by those very agents which retained them.

Of course, considerable opposition against the McLeod bill has been evident from the ranks of the big business men and high financiers.

URGES SUPPORT

Naturally, if the bill fails, all of these frozen millions in securities and other assets of the now defunct institutions will be dumped upon the markets at miserably low, distress prices, and the great masses of the people, owning the securities and collateral, will be forced to sell to the bankers at these shameful distressed prices.

This measure is a simple, nonpartisan piece of legislation, designed to lift this nation out of the economic morass and financial stagnation. It deserves the whole-hearted support of all legislators here in Washington who have the interest of their honest and long-suffering constituents at heart. Here is their chance to give the cards "another shuffle." Let the average citizen get a break from the "dealers" as well as the privileged.

I, for one, am not only announcing my support of the McLeod bill, but am also doing my best to convince my colleagues of their duty and vote "yea" when the roll is called.

FIRED CITY AIDE LINKS POLITICS

Dismissed as a city meat inspector, William P. Kane, brother of State Legislator Leonard P. Kane, today blamed politics for the loss of his job at a hearing before the Civil Service Commission.

Dr. Moyer, who attended the hearing, admitted that he might have made the statement, but denied Kane's dismissal had any political significance.

Similiar hearings are to be held for Albert L. Schleiden and E. L. Workmaster, other meat inspectors who lost their jobs. Joseph W. Farrell, another inspector, was given a hearing yesterday.

Ex-Senator Blaine Battles Pneumonia

BOSCOBEL, Wis., April 13.—(Universal.)—John J. Blaine, former United States Senator, is critically ill at his home here with pneumonia.

Blaine, who is 59 years old, has been given oxygen and a slight improvement is reported. He is a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

AUTHOR LAUDS EFFORTS IN STATE

Allegheny County Members Praised For Support

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 13. — Three veteran Pennsylvania congressmen today signed the petition to bring the McLeod bill to aid depositors of closed banks to a vote in the House.

Their signatures and that of Representative Sirovich, Democrat, of New York, brought the total number attached to the petition to 145—the number necessary for discharge of the banking committee.

The Pennsylvanians signing were Representatives Kurtz, Connally and Ransley.

M'LEOD LAUDS BACKERS

Commenting on the signers of the petition this morning, Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, author of the bill, said:

"I am grateful for the help that has come from the Pennsylvania delegation. Both Democrats and Republicans from the Keystone State have done noble service in this cause. When the necessary signers were needed this morning, three Republican veterans from Pennsylvania have put over our cause."

McLeod called attention to the fact that 18 members of the Pennsylvania delegation had signed his petition. He said:

"Pennsylvania members are standing up for the wishes of their constituents where there are thousands of depositors whose lifetime earnings are still tied up in closed banks. They have done yeoman service in the cause.

PRAISES FISHER

"I acknowledge gratefully the support which has been given by the people of Pennsylvania and by the business men of that grand old state, especially former Gov. John S. Fisher. This last-minute rally is due to the efforts of the Hearst newspapers, especially the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which has done especially effective service in bringing the attention of this memorable campaign for bank depositors to Pennsylvania congressmen.

"Representative Clyde Kelly has worked constantly for my bill, and I am grateful to our cheerful colleagues, Matt Dunn, of Pittsburgh, and Mike Muldowney, who drove over from Pittsburgh in the cold and the snow against his physician's advice, to sign the petition.

"Representative Henry Ellenbogen withdrew any objections he may have had and signed up when signatures were needed, and Representative J. Howard Swick was one of the first in line. I know that we can count on these resolute friends of the bill through all the battles ahead."

STAND GIVEN

Pennsylvania, signed petition—Dunn, Boland, Edmunds, Swick, Wolfenden, Strong, Turpin, Kelly, Stokes, Ditter, Focht, Rich, Mul-Ransley, Kurtz, Connally, Ellenbogan, Brumm, Dunn, Boland, Edmunds, Swick, Wolfenden, Strong, Turpin, Kelly, Stokes, Ditter, Focht, Rich, Muldowney.

Against—Harter and Lamneck.

West Virginia, signed the petition—Randolph, Ramsay, Johnson.

Dr. Wirt Stands by Guns For Pot-Shots at Critics

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—Dr. William A. Wirt has been told he may go home now, but pot-shooting continues and the Hoosier schoolmaster remains to fire answering volleys.

Up to the dawn's early light today he had the last words—in both cases denials—to broadsides from Secretary Ickes and Chairman Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman of the committee that is investigating Dr. Wirt's "Red revolution" charges.

Ickes said Dr. Wirt sought Public Works Administration funds to develop a Lake Michigan Beach section into an amusement park. He said the Indianan paid several visits to the PWA on the matter and seemed "quite willing" to use "Communistic money" for an individualistic enterprise.

Dr. Wirt at once issued a statement saying no one connected with his company which owned the land had ever "asked for public works money" and that he himself had never mentioned the subject to either a state or federal official.

Dr. Wirt's attorney, James A. Reed, did the talking in the exchange with Bulwinkle, demanding an apology from the North Carolinian for his charge that the educator had been jailed during the war for "pro-German" activities.

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urges passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end I urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

SHEDS DESPAIR, LAUGHS AT PLIGHT

Captured Fugitive Now Wonders Why He Went to Turkey

PANDERMA, Turkey, April 13.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull turned jokester today on a little train chugging toward Smyrna, where a ship waits to return him to the United States for trial.

To the surprise of fellow-passengers, he cast off his appearance of despair during the night voyage by ship from Istanbul to this seaport. He even joked about the seven-man Turkish escort. He laughed:

"It is remarkable that I should need an escort of seven. I'm perfectly harmless."

The fact that he was beginning a journey against which he fought a year and a half before finally being jailed by Turkish authorities at Washington's request, did not disturb Insull's sleep.

SLEEPS SOUNDLY

He was sleeping soundly when the Adana docked here at 3 a. m. He was taken ashore at 6:15. Half an hour later he was aboard the train, Smyrna-bound.

The train was due at Smyrna, about 175 miles from Panderma, at 8:30 o'clock tonight. There, aboard the American Export liner Exilona, Insull will be handed over to Burton Y. Berry, of the American embassy at Istanbul. Berry was designated to accompany him homeward.

The gray-haired old man laughed frequently at dinner on the Adana. Nine of the ship's 11 first-class passengers dined with him. Berry and Maj. John A. Crane, military attache at the Istanbul embassy, did not appear at the table.

TURKISH GIRL ABOARD

Insull looked at the Turkish police commissioner, ail Bey, when he mentioned his escort. Others at the table were a detective, five newspapermen and a cameraman, besides young Miss Feriha, Turkish girl who formerly was a student at the University of Chicago. She sat at Insull's right.

The captured fugitive adroitly turned the conversation away from his world-famous case. Yet, when somebody jokingly asked why he ever went to Istanbul, he shot back in the same jocular vein:

"I am beginning to wonder myself."

Friday, 13th, Unlucky Day for Insull

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Many in official Washington who had commented on "Insull's luck" in evading capture, today noted that the one-time utility king approached the start of his unwilling Smyrna-to-New York tour on Friday, the 13th of April.

It will probably be noted as a "Black Friday" in the mind of Samuel Insull, Sr.

Many here believe Insull's luck changed when he fled from Greece on the freighter Maiotis, and lost what some contend was magic influence of the mysterious and beautiful Madame Lili Coyumjoglou.

Some of the superstitious noted also that the American ship upon which Insull will embark to face charges of fraudulent bankruptcy in Chicago, has the suggestive name of "Exilona."

So, say some, Insull's adopted country is doing better by him than he did for himself when he chartered the Maiotis for a month and sailed for nowhere.

It will take Insull a month to reach New York City. The Exilona will stop in Sicily, Algiers and Casablanca before it docks at Boston and finally at New York City.

Investments By Wales In Insull Stocks Denied

LONDON, April 13.—(AP.)—A high source in St. James' Palace today denied a report from Chicago that the Prince of Wales heads a list of prominent Britons who invested in Insull securities, profited, and sold before the crash.

It was said Wales never purchased any Insull or any other speculative stock and that his security investments are limited to gilt-edge lists and only handled by a well-known firm in the City of London.

WALES PET DOG LOST IN FOREST

WINDSOR, England, April 13.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales has lost his dog—Jigs, a little Cairn terrier with long black whiskers under his chin—and the police of two counties have been asked to assist in the search.

Jigs, who, with his girl friend, Cora, a little blonde Cairn, often accompanied the prince on strolls through Windsor forest, disappeared during the night from Fort Belvedere, the prince's country house.

Today, while employes of the royal estate were beating the bushes, thinking Jigs might have become lost there, Berkshire and Surrey police were combing the roads.

The prince was in Glasgow, but it was reported the telephone wires were kept hot by searchers informing him of their progress.

Friends of Nila Deny Separation

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Friends of Nila Cram Cook, the former Gandhi disciple, denied yesterday that she and her husband, Albert N. Hutchins, had separated. It was explained that the Iowa poetess merely desired seclusion to work on a book and that Hutchins had gone to Delaware for a brief visit with relatives.

LAST 6 RESCUED FROM ARCTIC ICE FLOE

100 in All, Marooned In Shipwreck, Saved By Soviet Fliers

MOSCOW, April 13.—(AP.)—Soviet aviators, after weeks of hardships and misadventure, have succeeded in rescuing 102 Russian castaways from their two-months' experiences on floating Arctic ice.

Flying through polar storms and effecting landings on a precarious ice floe, aviators brought the last six members of the Cheliuskin expedition to Cape Van Kahem last night. Altogether, 100 persons, including 10 women and two children, have been rescued since April 7. An aviator and mechanic had reached the mainland in their own plane.

LEADER ILL

Those rescued were members of a Wrangel Island expedition which was aboard the steamer Cheliuskin when it sank February 13. The commander of the Wrangel expedition, Prof. Otto Schmidt, was taken earlier this week to Nome, Alaska, by plane for treatment. It was feared he might have pneumonia.

Fifteen others have been sent by dog team to Cape Wellen, whence they will be taken to Providence Bay and placed aboard a steamer for Khabarovsk or Vladivostok. The remaining ones will be brought back as rapidly as facilities permit.

COURAGE PRAISED

The perils of the castaways were described by M. Ushakoff, one of a score or more of Russian aviators who took part in the rescue:

"When I arrived at the camp (April 7), surrounded by floating ice blocks, the Cheliuskiners were living in heated log barracks. But despite their reasonably comfortable quarters they existed as if on the slope of a volcano.

"The camp was faced with constant dangers. On April 9 drifting icebergs bore down on the camp with tremendous noise, crashing ice and destroying the barracks and a motorboat.

"They wrecked a landing field under the airplane of the Flier Slepneff, who had damaged a strut in landing two days before. The plane was moved safely, however.

"The whole party displayed courage and fortitude."

WINTRY SPELL ON WANE HERE

April's wintry flareback waned slightly today. The snow which raged yesterday and last night was over, Observer W. S. Brotzman said, but the cold hung on.

A high pressure area over the middle plains kept temperatures below freezing all the way to Iowa. The low mark here was 30, with prospect that tonight's minimum might be about the same.

Tomorrow should see slowly rising temperatures with clear skies, the weatherman said. Little damage to vegetation was anticipated from the cold. Fruit trees are not yet in bloom.

Hawks Leads Search For Missing Fliers

SHANGHAI, April 13.—(INS.)—Capt. Frank Hawks, American air ace, returned to Shanghai tonight after spending a second fruitless day in a search of the pirate-infested Hangchow Bay region for a trace of three Americans and a Japanese who became lost during an airplane flight.

ONIONS HURLED IN HARVARD WAR ON PEACE

Chowder Club Helps Convert 2,000 to Need of Battle

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 13.—(AP.)—Flying grapefruit and onions today turned an anti-war meeting of Harvard students into a burlesque battle.

There seemed to be a division of thought on the subject of war versus peace.

The meeting began as planned. More than 2,000 students gathered in the Harvard yard for the anti-war conclave, called by the National Student League and the Student League for Industrial Democracy.

Scarcely had the meeting got under way when members of the Michael Mullins Chowder Club and Marching Club of Harvard appeared. They very definitely favored warfare as an instrument to settle international and campus disputes.

They shouted:

"We want war."

They got it.

The pacifists were immediately converted to idea that war was all right in such an emergency.

One of the pro-war students was dressed as a Boy Scout and he sounded clarion and martial blasts from a trumpet. Another, dressed in Nazi grab shouted:

"Hail Hitler."

New York Students Protest Warfare

NEW YORK, April 13.—(INS.)—Under the watchful eyes of police, thousands of New York college and high school students struck for an hour today in a demonstration against war.

There was no violence, although police tried to break up the demonstration on the campus of City College, where 200 students defied the ultimatum forbidding them the right to assemble.

One thousand clustered at the steps of Columbia University's library while 20 police stood guard. There were boos and cheers for the speakers, but no disturbance as the demonstration got under way.

In DeWitt Clinton High School the "conservative element" rushed a student who challenged the principal, and the student was ousted from the assembly room.

In Brooklyn, a thousand or more students from Long Island University and Brooklyn College marched on Borough Hall, with a police guard sufficient to stem a Union Square riot.

Tomatoes, Eggs Fly In Anti-War Meet

BALTIMORE, April 13.—(AP.)—An anti-war demonstration by liberal students of Johns Hopkins University today turned out to be anything but peaceful.

Five minutes after the demonstration opened in a Hopkins assembly hall, the air was filled with oratory, catcalls, overripe tomatoes and eggs of undetermined age.

During the height of the disturbance a hose was inserted through a window and the speakers and front row spectators were drenched.

Three radio patrol cars responded to a call for the police but no arrests were made.

COLLEGE WARS OVER PEACE

One group of 102 students has sent President Franklin D. Roosevelt and United States Senator David A. Reed a petition announcing their refusal "to fight in any war."

Another group of 50 promptly signed another petition telling the President they will "uphold the good judgment of the government" in case war is declared.

The first petition was sponsored by the school's Liberal Club. The second was circulated by Jerome Lentz, a son of Lieut. Col. Barnard Lentz, an instructor at the war college in Washington.

The College Press Bureau points out that a poll taken last year showed a majority of undergraduates "ready to fight" in any war involving the United States.

ANGELA JOYCE GOING HOME

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—Declaring herself still in love with Lord Revelstoke, British peer whom she is suing for $518,000 heart balm, Angela Joyce, blonde English actress, today announced plans for returning to England next week.

She disclosed that her sojourn of several months in Hollywood had failed to net her a contract or even a screen test.

Winner of an English beauty contest, Miss Joyce came here in search of "international fame." She said:

"I am leaving without a screen test and without one screen role.

"But in England I plan to make at least one talkie in addition to appearing on the stage before the trial of my suit against Lord Revelstoke begins."

Miss Joyce insisted she will "always love" the youthful peer, who recently returned to England after a honeymoon abroad with a blue-blooded English society girl he married a few weeks ago.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the heavy snow flurries over this section yesterday and last night is now centered over Ontario, north of the Great Lakes, and it is still snowing over the lake region. The high pressure that covered the West yesterday morning has diminished considerably in intensity, and now extends from Manitoba southward over the plains states in the form of a narrow ridge. It is attended by clear skies, but it caused a further drop in temperature over the plains states. Centers of low pressure have developed over the far West. The weather is cold over the entire country, and there will be little change before Saturday afternoon.

River Conditions.

The rivers are now about stationary except at the headwaters, where they are falling. Stage at Franklin is 8.1 feet; Parkers Landing, 8.8; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 15.8; Pittsburgh, 16.9; Dam No. 4, 14.2; No. 6, 13.5; No. 10, 14.4, and No. 12, 14.7. The rivers will fall at Pittsburgh and above. At Dam No. 12 a stage of between 17.5 and 18.0 feet is indicated by late tonight.

CADMAN PLAYS AS MOTHER DIES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Caroline Cadman, 80, mother of Charles Wakefield Cadman, nationally known composer, died at her home here yesterday following a long illness.

Mr. Cadman is in the East on a concert tour. A daughter, Mrs. Mabel Cascino, of Los Angeles, also survives.

OIL CITY, Pa., April 13.—Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted composer, left for Pittsburgh enroute to California today to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Caroline Wakefield Cadman, who was a member of an old Pennsylvania family.

Learning his mother was sinking fast, Cadman decided to "go on with the show" here last night. At the conclusion of the concert, he was greeted by the sad news that his mother had died.

Mrs. Cadman was a former Pittsburgher. Her grandfather, Dr. Samuel Wakefield was a Methodist circuit rider of pioneer days and built the first pipe organ west of the Alleghenies.

TENNIS PLAYER SUED BY WIFE

Hilda Baker, 27, of 5210 Second avenue, an employe of the Federal Employment office, doesn't like to be manhandled by a strong armed tennis player, she told Judge John P. Egan today in seeking a divorce from Edwin W. Baker, former student at Pitt.

She charged that her husband frequently used to pick her up bodily and put her to bed, or bang her head against a wall, if he was in such a mood.

Sometimes, she said, he would sulk when they entertained company, leaving the room or dinner table without any excuse.

Judge Egan took her plea under advisement.

FILM DIRECTOR MAY APPEAL $5,000 BALM

Actress Wins Verdict From Husband of Sally Eilers

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—(AP.)—The disappointment in love which Marjorie Whiteis said she suffered when Harry Joe Brown, screen director, married Sally Eellers, film actress, brought her a judgment for $5,000 today from a Superior Court jury of seven women and five men.

Miss Whiteis, known on the screen as Marjorie Gay, expressed satisfaction with the verdict. She had sued Brown for $100,000, claiming he jilted her last fall after a four-year romance. Brown observed:

"The $5,000 will be just a little souvenir for Miss Gay. However, we will consider an appeal."

His counsel, C. E. Millikan, described the verdict as a clearcut victory "because of the small sum granted by the jurors."

As the salesmen filed out of the courtroom to begin deliberations, Miss Whiteis said:

"I don't care what they give me as long as they return a verdict that I was wronged."

The jury deliberated almost seven hours, reaching its verdict by a vote of 9 to 3.

The actress had asserted that Brown proposed to her in 1929 in his apartment and later they discussed plans for a home and made some household purchases.

Brown denied he had proposed. His attorneys summoned a small array of film celebrities—including Skeets Gallagher, comedian; Arline Judge, actress, and Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, mother of Bebe Daniels, screen star, to show none of them knew of the asserted marriage proposal.

TIME SAVING EDICT LIKELY

With the latest report on Mayor McNair's daylight saving referendum showing sentiment more than two to one in favor of advanced time, a proclamation by the Mayor appears certain. The vote now stands at 15,669 in favor to 7,879 against daylight saving.

The Mayor expressed his wrath yesterday at the Relief Works Division for not furnishing some men to count daylight saving postcards. His own clerks, according to the Mayor, are busy with other affairs.

As to signing a proclamation, he said:

"With sentiment the way it is, I think you can practically say I'll sign it."

Daylight saving is to go into effect April 29.

The Building Owners' and Managers' Association, the Knights of Malta and the Boy Scouts of America, through its executive board here, have indorsed the daylight saving plan. The Building Managers are distributing 10,000 postpards to tenants in downtown offices.

Demagogic Party's New Song 'He's a Couzens of Mine'

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

The lads slapped ten per cent on the income tax. That balances everything like a dancer with no toes.

It was the most glorious victory since the black prince whipped the blind king of Bohemia.

Senator Couzen's bill was rejected once and accepted once in the Senate. That's like running the Kentucky Derby twice around the track because the right hoss wasn't leading the first time.

They say the bill will be beaten in the house. And, if we can't beat it there, we will take it out into the backyard.

Well, it ain't changed relative conditions a bit. The only time you ever hear from your couzens is when they want something.

UNREST GROWS IN NRA COAL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—NRA'S next move in the bituminous coal wage and hour controversy was uncertain today while growing unrest and confusion caused grave concern throughout the industry.

Tension centered in the Alabama fields, where two men were shot by snipers firing on a group of miners entering a mine which operators attempted to keep running under a Federal Court injunction restraining the Recovery Administration from enforcing the seven-hour day and higher wage scale.

Representatives of the Alabama operators, who asserted they preferred "civil war" in the industry to acceptance of the wage and hour mandate, stayed in Washington and announced their intention of remaining here as long as there was the slightest hope of obtaining any revision or modification of the order.

RAPS JOHNSON POLICY

Speaking for this group, Forney Johnston, Birmingham attorney, caused a sensation last night at the closing of NRA's public hearing on the question by charging Hugh S. Johnson with "arbitrary, illegal and unwarranted" action in issuing the mandate.

Intent upon a study of the evidence assembled, NRA officials declined to comment tonight on the developments in Alabama, and they were equally silent on Johnston's demand that the national Bituminous Coal Industrial Board be assembled immediately to take over consideration of the subject.

There was no indication from the Recovery Administration whether any modification or revision of the order would be forthcoming. Officials conceded there was little possibility of any action in this direction until Johnson returns from the South, where he has met President Roosevelt. The President ordered Johnson and Donald Richberg, NRA's general counsel, to take a few extra days' vacation while they had the opportunity.

14,000 MINERS OUT

Meanwhile, approximately 14,000 miners were on strike in Northern West Virginia as a result of the operators' refusal to accept the terms of the new Appalachian wage agreement, which eliminated a 24-cent wage differential they had enjoyed over the Pittsburgh area.

Gov. Herman G. Kump appealed to the Recovery Administration to arrange an immediate truce in the strike.

Guns Wound Miners Returning to Work

JASPER, Ala., April 13.—(AP.)—Guns blazed from ambush at the Coal Valley mine of the Debardeleben Coal Corporation yesterday, slightly wounding two of the few miners in Alabama who returned to the shafts to work this week.

A few hours later Sheriff A. N. Barrentine had taken into custody one for investigation and announced arrests were to follow. Officials of the United Mine Workers of America in Birmingham announced they also would investigate the ambush.

Officials of the coal corporation said that from 50 to 60 shots were fired, but from such a distance that the only effect other than to wound the two men, was to scatter miners preparing to go to work.

Huntress to Head Appalachian Coals

CINCINNATI, April 13.—(AP.)—The resignation of James D. Francis, of Huntington, W. Va., president of Appalachian Coals, Inc., was announced yesterday by the company.

He will be succeeded by Carrol B. Huntress, of Washington, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, the announcement said. Francis will continue on the board of directors and executive committee.

Fayette Miners Reject Strike, Reds Accused

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—Union leaders representing approximately 15,000 miners in the coke region, ended a six-hour session early today with a decision not to strike.

The meeting, a special convention of District No. 4 of the United Mine Workers of America, was summoned after walkouts occurred at several mines.

District President William Hynes told 134 delegates from 67 locals:

"We are not enemies here," but I tell you there is a Communistic element in our ranks ready to call a strike tomorrow."

Hynes led the fight to keep the men at work and to meanwhile negotiate differences with the operators.

But Lee Burke, president of the Maxwell local, where the miners walked out last week, announced he would not tell his men to return to work.

Union men at Colonial No. 1 mine, who quit yesterday, decided to return to work at once. Both operations are owned by the H. C. Frick Coke Company.

A resolution was adopted asking Gov. Pinchot to furnish state police protection at mines where there are labor disputes.

Fairmont Operators Fight for Pay Scale

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Northern West Virginia coal producers remained in Washington today, continuing their battle with Western Pennsylvania coal interests over a wage differential before the Recovery Administration.

Members of the operators' committee for the region are scheduled to confer tomorrow with NRA officials, when they will bring new pressure for restoration of a 24-cent wage differential which the region has had over Pennsylvania since 1922.

The differential was eliminated in a recent code amendment approved by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, March 31. Since that time operations in the region have been virtually at a standstill with 14,000 miners idle.

Fagan Sees Increase In Mine Jobs Here

An employment increase which shows "excellent prospects" for peaceful operation under the new agreements calling for a $5 basic daily wage and a seven-hour day, 35-hour week, is reported in the Pittsburgh coal fields, P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 4, United Mine Workers of American, said today.

An agreements between the union and the Inland Collieries Company was signed yesterday, Fagan said. Its mine is located at Indianola, near Fox Chapel.

It was expected contracts would be signed today with the Consumers' Mining Company, subsidiary of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, and the mines of the Vesta Coal Company, subsidiary of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation.

Brush Makers Balk At Accepting Code

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 13.—(AP.)—The American Brush Manufacturers Association at a meeting today voted a 5-to-1 majority to reject the code governing their industry.

The convention declared that the code had been "arbitrarily amended" by Hugh S. Johnson, thus depriving the men in the industr yof their constitutional rights and the right to object if the President sees fit to modify the terms of the code.

Nun Feared Dead In Convent Blaze

QUEBEC, April 13.—(INS.)—Mother St. Charles could not be found when nuns who had fled early today from a fire in the convent of St. Gregoire near here checked their number. It is feared that she perished in the flames, trying to save the Blessed Sacrament.

TRUCES BREAK STRIKE RANKS IN DETROIT

DETROIT, April 13.—(AP.)—The strike of tool and die workers employed in job shops which for weeks had cast a threatening shadow over the automotive labor situation in Detroit materialized today in what appeared to be one of the quietest walkouts local industry has seen in many years. There was only a small amount of picketing and no disorders.

Estimates of the number of men who suspended work following a strike vote last night varied from 2,500 to 4,000, and the number dwindled steadily during the day as individual agreements were reached with employers on the workers' demands for a 20 per cent wage increase and a reduction of working hours.

90 SHOPS AFFECTED

Ninety shops were affected at the time of the strike call last night. They ranged from small plants employing half a dozen workers to larger ones with two-shift staffs. The strike hardly had been called, however, when executives of the various companies and the Mechanics Educational Society, the tool and die workers' union, began settling their differences.

This forenoon agreements were made with seven companies. Twelve others had signed agreements before the strike was called. The 90 shops affected included independent shops and 48 members of the Jobbers' Association.

UNREST IN INDUSTRY

While the tool and die makers' strike appeared to have turned out considerably less serious than had been expected, labor dissatisfaction in automotive plants and body works had not lessened. Last night in a meeting at Flint, union employes of the Fisher Body Company, plant No. 1, three times voted in favor of a strike, but the plea of an American Federation of Labor organizer that such action be delayed finally prevailed.

RELIEF BREAKS ALL RECORDS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—An all-time peak in the number of unemployed on relief rolls was reached on April 1, despite employment gains of the past year, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today.

Families on relief April 1 numbered 4,700,000, compared with 4,600,000 at the peak of last year, Hopkins stated. He attributed the unprecedented number to the exhaustion of family reserves, throwing on relief additional families who have never before applied for aid.

Hopkins emphasized that this increase was in the face of indisputable gains in employment. He issued preliminary reports for 140 cities, showing that the trend of relief from February, 1934, to March, 1934, was upward of 13 per cent, and that expenditures for relief from all public funds increased 20 per cent in this time.

The principal cause of the rise in relief rolls in March, he said, was the continuous reduction in the number of employes on Civil Works projects, many of whom transferred to relief rolls afterwards. They dropped from a peak of more than 4,000,000 in mid-January to slightly under 2,000,000 on March 31.

Early Motor Peace In Wisconsin Sought

MILWAUKEE, April 13.—(AP.)—Reopening early next week of the Nash Motor Company plants in Kenosha and Racine, and the Seaman Body Corporation plant in Milwaukee, a Nash affiliate, was the goal of mediators today as they sought an agreement between Seaman officials and their striking employes.

Employes of the two Nash plants, granted wage increases of from 5 to 17.2 per cent and other concessions, were ready to return to work, but they are pledged to remain on strike until the Seaman union has successfully completed its negotiations.

President's mouth, must be submitted before publication. Indirect quotation is not restricted, and the President knows he can trust the newspapermen, individually and collectively, as to accuracy.

THE NAMES of today's group of young men that feed the public with news are Hurd, Stephenson, Roddan, Storm, O'Donnell, Warner, Dure, Lockett, Elkins. Also there was Kermit Roosevelt, distant cousin of the President, first cousin of Mrs. Roosevelt; M. L. Annenberg, who owns the Radio Guide, the New York Daily Telegraph and some other publications, and guests from the Astor boat: William Rhinelander Stewart, George St. George, Dr. Leslie Heiter, Judge Frederic Kernochan.

AFTER HE had talked to the young newspapermen, the President talked to your reporter, now writing. As you would surmise, the President spent much time thinking while others were fishing, and has plans ahead that will interest you, as they develop.

Thousands that write to him will be glad to know that no letter is ignored. The President is like Francis Bacon, in that both in their wide interests can say with the ancient nihil humani me alienum puto.

Best of all, the President is well, full of energy, determined to get things accomplished, glad to hear from those that disagree with him, ready to change, if it can be shown that he has taken the wrong road.

Sophie Tucker Wins Third Divorce Secretly

Mate Slapped Her When Refused Cash, She Charges

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—Blonde, plump Sophie Tucker, husky voiced singer and night club entertainer, was disclosed today to have been granted a divorce last September 25 from a husband who she charged with slapping her when she refused him money.

The husband, Miss Tucker's third, was Abe Lackerman, New York dress merchant who she married at Newport, Ky., in 1928.

She obtained the divorce in the chambers of Judge Rudolph Desort of the Superior Court before the regular hour of court opening. A select audience of the judge, his bailiff, the clerk, two lawyers and Miss Tucker's secretary, Emma Goodman, was present.

The grounds were desertion, and Miss Tucker's testimony included the following:

"In our apartment in the Central Park Hotel in New York on September 25, 1932, he asked me for money and when I would not give it to him he slapped me about my face and head."

In their apartment in Chicago a year later, the singer related:

"He asked me for more money again. I refused, and he slapped me. Then he left me."

Miss Tucker asked no alimony. She gave her name as Sonia Lackerman and told of being divorced from Louis Tuck in 1913 and from Frank C. Westphal in 1920.

Roosevelt Posts Boy on Cherry Blooms

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(Universal.)—When 13-year-old Eddie Rich, of Williamsport, Pa., wants a little information on the nation's capital he doesn't fool with underlings. He goes directly to the President of the United States.

Eddie wanted to see the capital's famed Japanese cherry blossoms, but no one in Williamsport knew when they were in bloom. So Eddie just wrote Mr. Roosevelt a letter reading:

"You live close by the trees and I wonder if you wouldn't let me know the best time to come down."

Eddie's letter was dispatched by special messenger to the man in the Department of the Interior who looks after the trees and Eddie was notified the blossoms would be in the prime over the week-end of April 21.

BRICKS HURLED IN STRIKE RIOTS

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Renewed violence broke out on Philadelphia's labor war front today as police battled mobs at two knit goods manufacturing plants.

Today's first outbreak occurred before the gates of the Bergman Knitting Mills in Germantown, where a riot, resulting in injuries to 10 strikers, was staged yesterday.

Bricks and stones were hurled as the police waded in to engage the workers in hand-to-hand scuffles. Many heads were bruised by police riot sticks.

FAMILY DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

A 75-year-old woman, her husband and two children were driven from their home, a three-story double brick house, 1009 Western avenue, today when fire broke out in the adjoining house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cain, a son, Walter, and a daughter, Thelma, were ordered from their home by Patrolman Owen Mulvaney, who discovered smoke and flames coming from the rear of the adjoining house, the home of an aged attorney, Frederick Pickersgill, and his sister, Miss Lilly Virginia Pickersgill, also an attorney. Neither of the Pickergills was at home.

Battalion Chief Louis Spickel estimated damage to the Pickersgill home at $3,000. An overheated stove on the second floor caused the blaze, he said. He reported the Cain home was not damaged.

Allegheny Garbage Workers on Strike

Forty employes of the Herr's Island plant of the Allegheny Garbage Company, serving the North Side, went on strike today for higher wages.

Hay Walker, Jr., one of the partners in the company, after a conference with Robert Horton, plant foreman, offered the handlers an increase. They have not yet accepted. He said his employes did not come under the NRA because they are sanitary workers.

Democrats Serve 'Recovery' Dinner

ERIE, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—A "recovery administration" menu featured the Jefferson Day dinner attended by about 200 Democrats last night.

Dishes served included "recovery hors d'oeuvres," as well as NRA chicken, PWA dressing, CWA gravy, AAA vegetables, CCC scuffles, HOLC salad, congressional rolls and senatorial cream.

MEDIATOR SENT IN CODE STRIKE

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—Miss Charlotte E. Carr, Secretary of Labor and Industry, has assigned a mediator from the department to assist striking Shamokin garment workers in reaching an agreement with their employers. She said:

"The mediator has been empowered, at the request of the workers, to do everything possible to settle the strike and bring about compliance with the NRA cotton garment code."

Findings will be forwarded to Harry K. Sorensen, executive assistant to the state director of NRA compliance. The identity of the mediator was not disclosed.

John Dougherty, of the Shamokin Central Labor Union, and A. D. Greenstein, agent of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, as spokesmen for a delegation of 18, said they represented 400 striking employes protesting alleged code violations.

ENGLISH OPERA TO HAVE CAST OF NEGROES

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Opera in English, sung by Negroes, is planned for next season by Harry Moses, New York impresario.

Moses plans to retain as a unit the cast now singing the Gertrude Stein-Virgil Thomson "Four Saints in Three Acts," and to use it in performances of the standard operas after the road tour of that work is done.

It is the fifth step in the operatic revival which has seized New York in recent months. First was the resuscitation of the Metropolitan.

SECOND SUCCESS

Second was the success of the first popular opera venture at the Hippodrome; that company now is playing in another New York theater. Third was Pasquale Amato's entrance into production, also at the Hippodrome, which apparently is becoming the traditional birthplace of popular opera in New York.

The fourth step was the announcement a week ago that the Stadium concerts, which in eight weeks each summer draw audiences totaling 300,000 persons to Lewisohn Stadium uptown, will this season give two operatic performances weekly.

BALLET OF SIX

The nucleus of the proposed Negro opera company will be Beatrice Robinson-Wayne, Edward Matthews, and the others of the "Four Saints" cast. Even the tiny ballet (which consists of six dancers, three boys and three girls) will be used.

Operas so far suggested for their use are "Carmen" and "Madame Butterfly." Each would run for a week, instead of changing nightly.

LEADERS NAMED BY PITT GIRLS

The University of Pittsburgh Senior Court today announced the result of Wednesday's balloting for the presidents who will lead the eight major women's organizations on the campus during the coming year.

They include: Hazel Lincoln, Women's Self Government Association; Murile Dils, Pan-Hellenic Council; Frances Dent, Women's Athletic Association; Helen Milliron, Y. W. C. A.; Margaret Doescher, Women's Glee Club; Marguerite Swank, Women's Debating Association; Frances McLaughlin, Class of '35; Ruth Seitz, Class of '36; Elinor Scott, Class of '37.

The proposed new constitution of the Women's Self Government Association was passed and will be officially adopted. The name of the Senior Queen, also elected Wednesday, will not be announced until Spring Tapping Day, May 4.

JAMES G. BLAINE

BLAINE NAMED W.-J. TRUSTEE

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 13.—James G. Blaine, presidentt of the Marine Midland Trust Company, of New York City, has been named to the board of trustees of Washington and Jefferson College, it was announced here today. His grandfather, James G. Blaine, who served two Presidents as Secretary of State and was himself a candidate for the presidency on the Republican ticket in 1884, was graduated from Washington and Jefferson in 1847. His grandfather's cousin, Mary Blaine, was the first wife of Dr. Matthew Brown, first president of Washington College and fifth president of Jefferson College.

Mr. Blaine was graduated from Harvard University in 1911, and received a doctor of laws degree from W. & J. in 1933. He has long been active in philanthropic work in New York City, including the New York Association for the Improvement of the Poor, Stuyvesant Square Hospital, the American Red Cross, and was chairman of the 1933 Welfare Fund drive.

Largest Moving Day Since War in Berlin

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP.)—Moving vans worked overtime yesterday in the largest annual spring moving since the pre-war days. Their rumble emphasized the rise and ebb of private fortunes since the advent of the Nazis.

Those connected with the new regime flocked today to better and more extensive districts. Hundreds of thousands, chiefly Republicans who lost their jobs or their fortunes through the Nazification process, moved to quarters in keeping with their reduced stations.

BALL PLAYER 'OUT' IN LOVE

As a ball player, Regis Joseph Rushe was a great success, but as a husband—that's another story.

So, today, Judge John P. Egan has under advisement Rushe's plea for a divorce from Mrs. Dorothy Rebecca Rushe, of 1918 Larkspur street, Munhall.

Rushe testified that after he had been married a year, his wife told him:

"Get another girl of your own kind, I don't love you any more. I was just crazy about your baseball playing."

Although Policeman Charles W. Puhl, 936 West North avenue, was granted a divorce from Lillian Puhl, he was ordered yesterday to pay the costs of an appeal from the divorce decree and $100 for her counsel fees.

Divorce suits were filed by Mary Taylor against Kenneth R. Taylor, Louis T. Furlong against Margaret H. Furlong, and Marjorie S. Clarke against Harlow W. Clarke.

CABELL WRITING TO NOTED DEAD

Universal Service.

RICHMOND, Va., April 13.—James Branch Cabell, who has started a lot of arguments in his life and is now engaged in one with his wife over whether he was 55 on Easter Sunday or will be 55 Saturday, is going to write a letter to Pocahontas.

This Cabell disclosed today in an exclusive interview, in which he panned vulgarity in film or literature, faulty censorship of the movies, and insisted circulating libraries have hurt the book-publishing business. Cabell said:

"I am working now on a series of essays in the form of letters to distinguished people who cannot answer. Pocahontas, George Washington and John Wilkes Booth are among my characters."

The argument with his wife, Cabell said, is that he contends that he was born on April 14, while his wife says that, because that particular April 14 was on Easter Sunday, Easter is his anniversary.

Mayor Asks Council To Hear Him Debate

VOTE MACHINE PURCHASES FOUGHT

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—A preliminary injunction was handed down in Dauphin County Court yesterday to restrain Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, from purchasing 150 voting machines for Washington County.

The order, obtained by taxpayers, will be heard at 2 p. m., April 30, when the complainants will seek to have the injunction made permanent.

The suit was filed by William McK. Smith and R. L. Munce, of Washington, who state that on November 4, 1930 the voters approved the use of voting machines. Twenty-five have been purchased to date.

Beamish advertised for bids for 150 more, which the taxpayers assert will cost the county between $150,000 and $200,000.

Petitions are being circulated in Washington County seeking to have a vote at the general election on whether the use of voting machines shall be discontinued.

POISON HINTED IN WIFE DEATH

ONEONTA, N. Y., April 13.—(AP.)—Ernest Ellis, husband of Mrs. Mildred Ellis, 39, who died at Cleveland, O., April 4, after an appendectomy, told Oneonta police today he planned to go to Binghamton, where she is buried, to seek permission for exhumation of the body.

Ellis, who said he had been visiting in this vicinity since his wife's burial, declared he decided an autopsy should be made after he read newspaper stories that it was possible his wife had been the victim of a poison plot.

Youngstown Steel Output Near 60 Pct.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 13.—(INS.)—Youngstown district mills will, in all probabilities, cross 60 per cent of peak capacity by the end of this week, it was learned today. The operating rate Wednesday was 58 per cent, up 2 points from the start of the week, and three points above a week ago.

Another 15 per cent increase in Youngstown Sheet and Tube's volume will cause reopening of their Brier Hill works, it was revealed.

MARINE BAND, PARADE GREETS ROOSEVELT

PRESIDENT 'WISE-CRACKS'

To the members of Congress and officials who greeted him at Union Station, he said with a broad smile:

"I understand that while I've been away having a good time, Congress has been very busy.

"You people have been going from Wirt to work."

In the front rank marched Speaker Rainey, of Illinois; Majority Leader Joe Byrns, of Tennessee; Representative Arthur Greenwood, Democratic whip, and "Dolph" Sabath, of Illinois.

The Senate didn't join in the parade. The solons of the Upper House thought it all right for the members of the Lower House, the "popular branch," to parade, but as for the Senators—well, there is such a thing as senatorial dignity.

WOMEN IN LINE

Three women members of the House—Mrs. Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey; Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, and Mrs. Isabelle Greenway, of Arizona, were observed in the line.

At the station the paraders found a score or more of Senators, mostly Democratic, but including two Republican progressives, Nye, of North Dakota, and La Follette, of Wisconsin.

There were present, too, Vice President Garner, Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Commerce Roper, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and the President's son, Elliott, besides a host of lesser celebrities.

As the Presidential special backed slowly into the station and stopped, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Dall and Elliott went into the private car and greeted the President. Then he came out on the rear platform on the arm of his "little son Jimmy" (six feet, two inches.)

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE!

A broad smile broke across his sun-tanned face as he surveyed the platform crowded with the paraders and he waved gaily. He began:

"Well, well, good morning."

The band struck up "Happy Days" and they had to wait until that was over before there was any further conversation.

He said, when the last notes of his old campaign song died away:

"I'm glad to see you all.

"It is good of you to come down to welcome me. I can truthfully say I'm glad to get back."

He continued:

"The newspapermen on the way up tried to get me to say that I wanted Congress to go home.

"I wouldn't say that, because I hope you stay as long as you want.

"For you younger people in Congress, I want to point out that the Washington climate is fine—it rarely gets over 110 here, and there is no humidity. I don't care how long you stay.

"I have come back with all sorts of new lessons—learned from barracuda and sharks.

"Come up and see me, and I'll show you some of the tricks I've learned."

Then he concluded with a laugh:

"I'm really a tough guy."

The Congressmen laughed, too—some of them rather thoughtfully, perhaps, because there has been a good deal of speculation as to how much, if any, discipline is going to be meted out to those who have been jumping the administration reservation.

RETURNS TO DESK

From the train platform, the President was quickly shifted into his automobile, and it moved through lines of people on the concourse amid cheers.

The paraders wended their way back to the Capitol to resume their normal duties, thus ending the most unusual reception ever accorded a returning executive.

As for Mr. Roosevelt, he went immediately to the White House where his desk is piled high with accumulated work.

For the next few weeks, Senators, Congressmen, cabinet officers and bureau heads will beat a steady path to the White House to get decisions upon matters long held in abeyance.

Mr. Roosevelt probably will have need of his restored vitality in the troubled weeks ahead.

'Dignity' Keeping Senators From Parade Stirs Critic

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(INS.)—Some of the members of the United States Senate ought to be following a plow instead of grouching over "slights to the Senate's dignity" from marching behind a brass band to greet President Roosevelt on his return from tropical vacation, Representative Raymond Cannon, Wisconsin Democrat, declared today.

Miffed at the objections expressed on the Senate floor when the plan for an informal parade of the members of Congress to greet the President was broached, Cannon indignantly asked:

"Who the hell do they think they are?

"While it is barely possible their presence with members of the House would not subtract, nevertheless I am sure that it would not add to the occasion.

Bus Holdup Recalls Stage Coach Days

WEATHERFORD, Tex., April 13.—(INS.)—Stage coach days were recalled when two bandits held up and robbed passengers on a bus near here today. The bandits obtained about $350 in cash and valuable jewelry.

News Behind the News

Pecora Loses Job As Wall Street Prober

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Prober Pecora privately received his walking papers from the Senate stock market investigators the other day, but he is not going to walk very far. There is a trick in it.

The probers held a secret meeting and decided not to do any more probing. Present were Senators Fletcher, Glass, Couzens and two others. They agreed unanimously that the investigation had gone far enough for all useful purposes.

Pecora was told that he need not finish the current power company case unless he ran into something hot.

The matter of how long his salary will run was left to the discretion of Chairman Fletcher. The hearing was terminated for all purposes—except one.

SANDBAGS

It was whispered in Mr. Pecora's ear that he should hold himself in readiness (with or without pay) to put on his inquisitive nose glasses again at any time.

That means the game started by the administration before Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated is not yet over.

His original pre-inauguration idea was to use the committee as a perpetual sandbag over the fat boys. He has followed that idea out in practice. Whenever they showed signs of becoming obstreperous he passed the word to Capitol Hill to open up the show and drop a few more bags on their bald pates.

There is really no reason why the investigation should continue now that the market regulation bill is being framed. But apparently Mr. Roosevelt did not want to lose his sandbag.

So the inner situation is that the famous inquiry which trapped Mitchell, Wiggin, et al, is over—yet not quite over.

SILVER SKELETON

A certain Democratic senator is making a deep secret of certain data he has dug up concerning the holders of silver stock. He is getting ready to make an ado about it, if he does not change his mind.

His information indicates that the No.1 silver investor in this country is a former United States Senator, not now in public life.

The No. 2 man is a private citizen who has been in the forefront of agitation for silver legislation.

BOBBLE

The truth will out, even in Manchukuo.

Japan has tried every means to make the world believe that her puppet state in North China is not really hers, but a separate empire. A nice little diplomatic message was concocted by the Manchukuo foreign minister after the recent enthronement of Pu Yi. This message was addressed to State Secretary Hull and dripped with honey.

But the telegraph operator who sent it from Shinking, capital of Manchukuo, apparently made an error in the dateline. As it read on receipt here, the message came from Shinking, Japan.

MR. SNELL, REPUBLICAN FLOOR LEADER IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, SEEMS A NEW MAN SINCE CONGRESS GOT RAMBUNCTIOUS AND OVERRODE A PRESIDENTIAL VETO. ONLY TWO OF MR. SNELL'S PARTY STRAYED FROM THE FOLD WHICH IS SOMETHING OF A RECORD CONSIDERING THE DISSENSION USUAL IN REPUBLICAN RANKS. THE DISSENSION RECENTLY HAS BEEN IN THE MAJORITY'S RANKS AND HAS ACTED LIKE A SPRING TONIC ON MR. SNELL. HE WEARS A BROAD GRIN THESE DAYS. malone—Washington—'34.

HISTORY

Now it can be told that very few people knew how near we were to a flare-up with the Japanese in 1932.

You may recall that State Secretary Stimson cooled off suddenly in his arbor against the Japanese. The reason was that Admiral Taylor of the American Asiatic squadron sent a long message to Chief Pratt of naval operations which was strongly worded. It said the Japanese meant business in their campaign in China, that it was a matter of life or death in their eyes. He actually contemplated the possibility of the Asiatic squadron and all American vessels in the Far East being wiped out in event of a sudden war.

Pratt took the message to the White House and Stimson was called off.

COLD FEET

Any one in close touch with Congressmen can see they have no heart for this stock market regulation bill in any form. Fewer than 2 per cent of them are agitators for it.

In the first place it is a technical subject of which most of them know little or nothing. Voters in the country are in about the same fix, if the incoming mail is any hint as to their bewilderment. There is no political pressure for it, except that organized by the little inside clique of Liberals, and the White House.

A fair analysis of the underlying situation indicates that the question of whether there will be a bill, and what kind, is up to President Roosevelt.

Unless he assumes active leadership in the matter, the Congressmen will phenagle things around so the issue will fail to reach a conclusion. They are starting already.

NOTE

You can deal one of the New Dealers out shortly. He is genial Harry Payre, most colorful of administration figures, who left the State Department when his friend Prof. Moley did and took a foreign trade job in the RFC. The job did not amount to much . . . When the Russians go bouregeois, they do it in a big way. Their new embassy proved that it its first reception a few days ago. It will go down in history as one of the outstanding social events of many seasons . . . State Secretary Hull was frightened when he was routed out of bed by a long distance telephone call from Ireland the other midnight. His European traveling salesman, Richard Washburn Child, was there, and Hull has been privately worried about Child's flair for publicity. The call happened to be about another matter.

RFC MAN GOT RACKET AID

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Promissory notes for $6,500 signed by Guernsey T. Cross, lawyer, and secretary to President Roosevelt when he was Governor of New York, are listed as part of the estate of Max Greenberg, known as the "brains" of the Maxey Gordon liquor ring.

The loan was disclosed when the transfer tax appraisal on Greenberg's $200,000 estate was filed yesterday. Greenberg was shot down in an Elizabeth (N. J.) hotel April 12, 1933.

In an affidavit Mrs. Ida S. Greenberg, the widow, explained that only $200 of the series of loans to Cross had been repaid. She placed a value of $500 on the debt, but it was assessed at its full value.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP.)—Guernsey T. Cross, a Reconstruction Corporation attorney and a secretary to Franklin D. Roosevelt when the latter was Governor of New York, told reporters today he had borrowed money from Max Greenberg, New York racketeer, but had never seen him and did not know who he was until after his death.

Moley and Pecora On Priest's Program

DETROIT, April 13.—(AP.)—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower, will complete his series of addresses Sunday, when he will have as fellow speakers Prof. Raymond Moley, of Columbia University, and Ferdinand Pecora, chief counsel to the Senate Committee on Banking and Finance.

Two Pickets Shot In Cleveland Strike

CLEVELAND, O., April 13.—(INS.)—Special police reserves were stationed today at the Cleveland worsted mills plant here, scene of many disorders since a strike began there two weeks ago, after a company guard shot two pickets whom, he thought, contemplated violence.

The wounded men were John Hejmej, 23, shot in the leg and abdomen, and William Zivny, 36, shot in the hand.

Wheeling Bandits Rob Bank Runner

WHEELING, W. Va., April 13.—(INS.)—A trio of nimble-fingered bandits, who cunningly relieved John Lashley, messenger for the Half-Dollar Trust and Savings Bank, of a package of $182 in currency as he was about to enter the local clearing house, today were the object of a police search.

Lashley, police said, was jammed to the wall in a hallway as if by accident by the men, all seemingly unarmed, and the consignment was taken from his pocket during the untangling. The messenger said he did not discover the loss until they had fled.

HER DOUG 'NICE,' MARY TELLS WORLD

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP.)—Men, says Mary Pickford, "are like little boys—when they are tired of being naughty they are glad to come home."

Whether her remark has any relation to rumors that she will become reunited with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, the screen star declines to say.

Besides making six appearances in a Philadelphia theater, Miss Pickford expects to have tea today with Leopold Stokowski, noted conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Asked whether Fairbanks would join her when she goes to Hollywood in May, Miss Pickford replied:

"You know he is engaged on a picture in England."

She was asked:

"Will you say he is a nice fellow?"

She replied:

Fairbanks, Lady Ashley Reported at House Party

DUBLIN, April 13.—(AP.)—Lady Ashley and the man her husband named as co-respondent in his pending divorce action, Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., were reported today as being members of a house party at Luttrellstown Castle in Clonsilla, near Dublin.

They were said to be the guests of the Hon. Brinsley Plunkett, owner of the castle.

Residents in the district said they were expecting the party to go hunting.

POLA IN CHICAGO FOR 'LONG TIME'

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Pola Negri, glamorous Polish screen star of the silent days, arrived here by plane for a two weeks theatrical engagement. But will remain "oh, ever so much longer" for radio work and to visit friends, she announced.

Her friends include Harold F. McCormick, International Harvester magnate, who once was wed to another Polish beauty, Ganna Walska. Said Pola:

"I shall see Mr. McCormick very often while I am here, and as for romance, well, one never knows.

"Mr. McCormick and I are old friends, oh very, very old friends, and no doubt we shall have some time to spend together, for I sall be here two whole weeks for personal theatrical appearances."

Her secretary interjected:

"But next week you have to start your radio work."

"Yes, I know, but that will not take much time, and I am feeling as if I shall want to be here a long time."

Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Prof. Floyd H. Carson, principal of Wilkinsburg High School, will speak today.

Birds Feast on Fish As Everglades Dry

MIAMI, Fla., April 13.—(AP.)—While hundreds of birds rest in gorged lethargy, millions of tropical fish are dying in slowly drying pools in the Everglades.

Tropical biology society members, who returned here after a survey trip into the 'glades west of Miami, reported the vast area of sawgrass, prairie and cypress to be almost tinder-dry.

SAKLATWALLA EXHIBIT AT INSTITUTE

By PENELOPE REDD

During the next month, the Carnegie Institute will have on view the private collection of contemporary paintings owned by Dr. B. D. Saklatwalla. The group includes probably the most handsome modern American painting privately owned here in "Bareback Rider" by Walt Kuhn. Indeed, the list of American painters is the roster of the high lights during the past decade. Alexander Brook, Glenn Coleman, Arthur Davies, Ernest Fiene, Anne Goldthwaite, Samuel Halpert, "Pop" Hart, Marsden Hartley, Stefan Hirsch, Bernard Karfiol, Joseph Pollet, Maurice Sterne, and Max Weber represent the group.

Miss Redd

Dr. Saklatwalla's example of Max Weber, "The Old Barn," is by a wide margin the best of Weber's canvases to be exhibited in Pittsburgh.

SHOWS INDEPENDENCE

The French painters about equal in numbers the Americans. This section which exemplifies the artists favored by cosmopolitan critics also shows Dr. Saklatwalla's personal independence in acquiring the work of artists not known as fashionable painters. Thus we may compare the beautified winners of the Carnegie International awards such as, Derain, Freisz, Menard, Segonzac, and Vlaminck, with Dr. Saklatwalla's own choice of tantalizing "originals," in Crotti, Genin, Lascaux, Le Molt, Riera, and others.

The British painters, Sydney Lee and Francis H. Newbery, acquired perhaps 15 years ago are thoroughly representative of the men included in the Carnegie shows since the beginning.

The little recognized but virile Austrian painter, Anton Faistauer, projects all the monumental quality procurable in paint in an imposing still life. This may be heresy, but we prefer this canvass to many by Cezanne.

The super-realist Italian, Giorgio de Chirico, is included in a small but potent "Les Caresses Mistiques" in which he uses his symbolic horses to resuscitate the classic and to superimpose upon it the overtones of contemporary nervous sensitivity. That other one, the Scandinavian, Per Krohg, does the same in a savage way in an urban landscape, "L'Ile St. Louis."

New Fracture Brace Speeds Up Walking

HERSHEY, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—A way to brace a broken leg so that the victim may walk the same day he fractured the limb has been described to physicians of Dauphin, Lancaster and York counties.

Addressing the Tri-County Homeopathic Medical Society yesterday, Dr. E. O. Geckler, of Philadelphia, said that a coating of plaster, a stirrup and then more plaster are applied to the leg. As soon as the cast has hardened the stirrup sustains the weight of the limb.

Nesbit Estate Case Payments Ordered

Judge James H. Gray of Common Pleas court has directed that the Fidelity Trust Company be paid $15,183 as accrued interest on the $480,194 decreed to the trust company as administrator of the estate of the late Harrison Nesbit.

Judge Gray also directed that $9,603 be awarded to the Union National Bank for its services as trustee.

Wife Makes Search For Missing Mate

Mrs. John Charles Gruchow, of 105 Maryland avenue, Brentwood, today asked the Sun-Telegraph to aid in locating her husband, who left his home Monday morning and has not been heard of since. Gruchow, a barber, had been unemployed for some time and left home in search of work, Mrs. Gruchow said. He is 47, and is five feet seven inches tall.

WRESTLER HELD IN KILLINGS

CINCINNATI, April 13.—(AP.)—Indictments charging second degree murder against three persons in connection with the double killing in a cafe fight here last March 11, were returned today by the Hamilton County grand jury.

Those indicted were Jack Reynolds, 38, of Covington, Ky., claimant to the welterweight wrestling championship, his wife, Alice Reynolds, and David Polinsky.

The indictment of Reynolds came as a surprise. He had been detained, along with several other persons, after the cafe fight in which James Meyers, small-time politician and proprietor of the cafe, and Philip Citron were wounded fatally, but Reynolds subsequently was released.

Polinsky has been in jail since the shooting, and Mrs. Reynolds has been free on bond pending grand jury action.

TRACTION JOB UP TO COUNCIL

Mayor McNair today said Council must first act on his selection of Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith as a member of the Traction Conference Board before anyone else would be suggested for the $5,000 job.

Council last week delayed action on the appointment. In event of Council's rejection of Smith, the name of Attorney Andrew G. Smith had been mentioned. The Mayor said many protests against the possible appointment of Attorney Smith, champion of a nickel street car fare, had been received, because he lives in Mt. Lebanon.

McNair added:

"If he moves into the city we might consider him."

Pension and Pay Slashes Stir Paris

PARIS, April 13.—(AP.)—Week-end strikes and demonstrations in protest against cuts in the pay of government employes and reductions in war veterans' pensions began today.

A Communist one-hour postal strike failed to make itself felt, but the menace of disorders grew with a new call for a "general strike" of miners beginning April 16 against "Fascist assassins," as a result of the riot and slaying of a miner at Henin, Lietard, Wednesday night.

CRAZED, SHOOTS 6 IN SCHOOL

International News Service.

INSTITUTE, W. Va., April 13.—An instructor was slain and five Negro pupils of the West Virginia State School for Negro Deaf and Blind were critically wounded today when James L. Hill, 46, Negro superintendent, went temporarily insane and opened fire with a shotgun on 500 pupils seated at breakfast in the school's dining room.

The instructor who was killed was W. B. Ellison, 28, Negro. The five pupils wounded ranged in age from 7 to 14 years. Three of them were not expected to recover.

After pouring the shotgun blasts into the crowded dining room, Hill turned the weapon on himself and blew out his brains.

Pianist to Tell Of Music in Soviet

Children to Share Mother's Estate

Five childsen will receive equal shares in the income of the $20,000 estate of Mrs. Adele T. Heeren, according to her will filed for probate today. The children are Harry H., Albert W. and Ralph B. Heeren, Mrs. Nellie H. Brown and Gretchen H. Wedd.

Ex-Bank Cashier Jailed Second Time

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—Discharged from a Petersburg (Va.) jail yesterday, L. M. Irwin, former cashier of the closed Lincoln National Bank, of Avella, was returned to Washington and lodged in the county jail.

Prior to his arraignment in Federal Court, where he was sentenced to three years for violation of the federal banking laws, Irwin had pleaded guilty here to misappropriation of $30,000 of Cross Creek Township funds.

CWA ART RUNS TO MODERNISM

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP.)—The struggling artists of these troublesome times are modernists.

That, at least, is the experience of Philadelphia, where the public now has its first chance to see what it got for money invested in the Public Works art project, a CWA enterprise.

More than 600 exhibits went on view, the work of 100 needy artists. Few are the portraits of leading citizens, pictures of sail boats and visions of nymphs in filmy drapings; in their place is plenty of machinery, angles and color.

Hungry Club to Hear Economist

Dr. Arthur Feiler, author of numerous books on economics, and lecturer on economics relations and problems at the New York School for Social Research, will address the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Hungry Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel Monday. His topic will be "The Future of Economic Nationalism."

Artists Renew 'War' in New York

Independents Open Biggest Exhibit In Years

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—A bit late but triumphant, the Society of Independent Artists entered New York's "art war" today with roaring colors and the biggest exhibit it has had in four years.

"No controversy with Rockefeller Center," murmured several of the directors, but the hit of the show promises to be a painting of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and Diego Rivera shaking hands, each with the thumb to the nose. It is by Charles Goeller and is called "Reconciliation."

Undaunted by an opening on Friday the 13th, the independents proudly announced themselves as "the only one of these big shows that has a historical tradition," and the father of art exhibits by physicians, dentists, bricklayers, Indians, prisoners and what-nots.

HITLER 'POPULAR'

There are 1,234 works of art and 530 artists, ranging from a Wall street attorney to a "nice blacksmith" upstate.

As always, the independent show is full of virile workers downing bloated capitalists, large pink nudes, women holding starving babies, and topics of the day. This year the topics of the day are Hitler and the San Jose (Cal.) lynchings.

Hitler, pointing a finger at Einstein haloed by light, is painted by M. Califano as "The Ignominy of the Twentieth Century." Another Hitler painting, "The Nazi Whip," shows the German dictator straddling a procession of refugees, with Einstein in the foreground.

NUDISTS GET SHARE

"Fascist Salute in a Nudist Colony," by Charles Logaso, proved an ingenious way of killing two birds with one canvas. Early spectators also gurgled over "Conspiracy," a neat arrangement of question marks, a broomstick, and sausage links by Edith Branson, wife of Prof. Young Smith, dean of the Columbia University Law School.

Jos de Creeft, Spanish sculptor, who thinks that even an artist should be funny now and then, entered his "El Picador," the horseback rider made of stovepipe, steel wool, rubber tubing, and a shoehorn.

The John Reed Club of Communist artists had a crowded canvas in which the municipal art show was represented as a circus sideshow, with Rockefeller and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia as the barkers, the latter holding up a canvas of a fat nude.

ART EXHIBIT 'ALL WET'

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—The art exhibition of the Artists' League of America, said its manager today, is "all wet," for every picture is about alcoholic beverages.

Said Manager Marchal E. Landgren:

"We're neither for nor against. The Currier & Ives pictures on the pitfalls of liquor get equal prominence with those that treat the subject with more levity."

PWA FUNDING FOR COUNTY LIKELY

By E. W. PRENDERGAST

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The clamor of thousands of workmen building Allegheny County bridges, developing the Pittsburgh wharf, digging a new tunnel through the South Hills and building roads—visioned by hopes of a $30,000,000 Public Works Administration loan, came nearer to realization today.

County solicitors and engineers remained with attorneys for the PWA to iron out the remaining difficulties, prior to petitioning the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to grant a hearing on the constitutionality of the Allegheny authority bill.

HOPES HIGH

But Col. C. C. McGovern and more than a score of public officials and citizens who yesterday obtained a hearing from PWA officials, left last night for Pittsburgh with high hopes that the county would secure a loan.

The question of constitutionality of the Authority Bill, and the necessity of new appropriations by Congress were all that remained to block it.

County Solicitor J. P. Fife has hopes that the hearing by the State Supreme Court on the Authority will be prior to May 21.

NEW PLAN PROPOSED

But if a plan being discussed here now gets favorable Congressional action, the PWA may not need further appropriations. It has been suggested that Congress guarantee PWA bonds, and the money from these, so easily saleable, would form a revolving fund.

Thus there would be a constant stream of bond funds available for refunding over a period of years. Financial reports have been approved and the delegation from Allegheny County were told that the approval of the Administration Board might have been given months ago had the Authority Bill been signed in time. The bill was received the day the last of the $3,300,000,000 federal lump had been allocated throughout the nation.

REPRESENTATIVE GROUP

Speakers who described the need of such public projects to Col. E. W. Clark, representing Administrator Harold L. Ickes, included McGovern, Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, Controller Robert G. Woodside, Walter Rosenbaum, Fred C. Schatz, Ralph Flinn, Joseph C. Trees, J. Rogers Flannery and others.

The projects, to be self-liquidating, which are to be built in the event the loan is granted, include:

Pittsburgh-Homestead high level bridge; Highland Park bridge; Southern inter-district traffic circuit; Fort Duquesne bridge and tunnel; river front improvement; Liberty tube; Plaza-Banksville road; Saw Mill Run boulevard; Blenwood bridge; Dravosburg bridge; Jerome street bridge; Jerome street improvement; North Park improvements, and Rankin bridge.

RWD PAYROLL 8 DAYS LATE

Allegheny County's thousands of workers in the Relief Works Division, successor to the Civil Works Administration, will receive their pay checks tomorrow—eight days late.

First of the checks arrived this afternoon by plane.

Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board, announced today in Harrisburg that planes and autos were rushing the checks throughout the state. The delay, Biddle explained, was due to difficulties in switching from one organization to another.

James L. Stuart, director in the Pittsburgh office, estimated that approximately $200,000 will be distributed to 8,000 workers Saturday and Monday.

BIG SEWER JOB UNDER WAY

Work on the St. James place sewer, one of the largest sewage jobs undertaken by the city with Civil Works funds, was under way today after two weeks of idleness following the end of the CWA.

Seventy men were re-employed on the project yesterday. According to supervisors of the job, two shifts containing that number of workers will be hired for three days each until the sewer is completed.

Though the project was approved by state relief work officials April 6, delay in the assignment of employes until yesterday hindered its resumption.

Faces Hearing in CWA Check Forgery

Lawrence Alvin Wells, 26, accused of stealing and forging two government checks issued to Cecil Gribble, of Uniontown, for Civil Works Administration work, was committed to jail last night in default of $1,000 bond, pending a hearing before the United States Commissioner. The checks for $9.60 were said to have been taken from a mail box in Uniontown.

Overcome in a fire caused when his cigaret ignited bed clothing last night, Thomas McCann, 37, of 136 South Eleventh street, was rescued by a passerby who saw smoke issuing from the house.

Tony Gardner, 120 South Eleventh street, dashed into the two-story brick house, groped to the second floor and found McCann surrounded by the flames. He carried him to the street and police took him to South Side Hospital.

VOTE OFFICIALS SENT TO PEN IN FRAUDS

the recount showed she was entitled to, Coll argued.

Today's sentences boosted the total of those drawing prison or jail terms to 54.

The courtroom was crowded with wives, children and friends of the defendants when First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh moved for sentence.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

All defendants were found guilty of conspiracy to falsify ballots in the Congressional election of 1932. Most of those sentenced today filed appeals to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and were released on $2,500 bond.

The high point of the government's crusade will come in the May term when Senator Coyne and many of his Republican chieftains are listed for trial on like charges.

Today's sentences:

Second District, Third Ward—Dewey Budwey, judge, Richard Burgandy and John J. Juliana, inspectors, one year and a day each in a Federal penitentiary and $1 fine; Michael Cozza, Francis Haeck clerks and H. S. Mahfood, each four months in jail and a $1 fine.

Eighth District, Third Ward—James Maori, judge, and James A. Ventrone, inspector, one year and a day; James Collins inspector and M. J. Ventrone, clerk, four months in jail; Sam Mattes, county employe, one year and a day; John Stabile, former Republican district chairman, one day in jail and $1 fine.

Sixteenth District, Third Ward—Joseph F. Fahey, judge, Martin A. Kenavy and Walter Joyce, inspectors, one year and a day; Thomas Monroe, Jr., and Lee L. Van Maele, clerks, each four months in jail.

MULDOWNEY'S FATE

Third District, Fourth Ward—Joseph W. Muldowney, judge; William Maher, inspector, a year and a day; Mrs. Mary Wagner, inspector, paroled for three years; Edward Bauerheim and Francis Gunshall, clerks, four months in jail.

Seventeenth District, Fourth Ward—James R. Shields, judge, James McTighe and William A. Nordheim, inspectors, one year and a day; Thomas Holleran and John J. Whalen, clerks, four months in jail.

Nineteenth District, Fourth Ward—Joseph Tortorelli, judge, Malachy Tiernan and Irwin Braun, inspectors, one year and a day; John F. McNally and Bernard Grossman, clerks, four months in jail.

Seventh District, Fifteenth Ward—Clement Wessell, judge, and John W. Stanton, inspectors, one year and a day; Mrs. Mary Burns, inspector, $500 fine and one day in jail; Martin L. McTighe, clerk, four months in jail; Mark Stanton, clerk, paroled for three years.

Robbery Suspect To Be Returned

William Mahoney, 28, of East General Robinson street, said by detectives to be wanted here for a series of holdups, will be returned from Wilmington, Del., probably tomorrow.

City Detective Guy M. Dailey left for Wilmington last night after learning that Mahoney, arrested Wednesday, was waiving extradition. Detectives said he was wanted as the accomplice of William Iseft, of East General Robinson street, who was held for court for robbery last week after his capture by North Side police who opened fire on him.

REGISTRATION APPEAL UP

The Registration Commission has been ordered to appear before Judge John P. Egan in Common Pleas Court tomorrow in Charles P. Betters's appeal form the action of the commission which struck his name from the registration lists.

Betters' name was stricken from the lists following his conviction in the election fraud cases in Fedeeral Court. He was an election official in the Third ward.

C. J. Margiotti, counsel for Betters, obtained the order for the commission to appear before Judge Egan, contending that Betters has a right to register and vote until his appeal from his conviction has been acted on by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Under the law, persons convicted of vote frauds are disfranchised for four years.

Man in Hospital After Fighting Arrest

A man who gave his name as "Frank Quinty, 42, of 216 McClurry street, Beechview," was in Allegheny General Hospital today with a laceration on the head suffered in an encounter with Patrolman Frank Messmer at Penn avenue and Sixth street last night, according to a police report.

Patrolman Messmer said he was compelled to use force while arresting Quinty on a disorderly conduct charge. At the hospital, three stitches were required to close the cut in Quinty's head.

JAP WAR PLOT CHARGED BY SIROVICH

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Secret war plans of Japanese militarists—unfolded to him by Russian officials—call for a quick defeat of Russia and war on the United States the next year, Representative William I. Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, said today.

The New York member of Congress, who startled the House Merchant Marine Committee by relating the purported Japanese plan of strategy in the event of war with the United States, expanded his narrative of the secret information he said was given him by high Russian officials.

The entire Japanese plan, he said, was told him when he visited Russia last fall. He declared:

"I do not seek war—I am for peace. I urge in the name of peace that the United States fortify Alaska and the Aleutian Islands."

TELLS ALLEGED PLANS

It is on Alaska and the Aleutian Islands that Japanese militarists plan to move, he said adding:

"Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States undoubtedly prevented war between Japan and Russia this spring.

"Russian officials and officers understand that the plan of Japanese militarists is to strike at Russia and then the United States the very next year."

Sirovich said that high Russian officials insisted that there was a secret treaty between Japan and Germany. When Japan struck at Russia on the east, Germany would strike in Europe, Sirovich asserted:

"Japan would bottle up Russia and then grab the great prize—the Saghalien Islands, off Siberia, north of Japan. Here is the greatest oil prize of the world. Under treaty, Japan has one-third, Russia one-third and the other is divided between them.

RELATIONS HELPED

"Russia was eager for recognition by the United States when I was there. They felt that by joining hands with the United States Japan would not dare to carry out the plans.

"Vladivostok, the Russian port, is a cancer in the eyes of Japan. This is because Russia could, with airplanes, strike from there.

Japanese houses are chiefly of cotton and wood. Vast damage could be done by planes.

"Russia needs another year before she is ready. She has already concentrated 400 to 500 of the finest bombing planes to meet Japan."

SPY PLOT CHARGED

Sirovich asserted that Japan is already making maps and charts in the Alaskan area. He said that salmon canning firms have imported Japanese and coolie labor there, and among them are Japanese agents, declaring:

"In Russia they know that the Japanese aim is to dominate the Pacific and the Orient, and Russia and the United States only stand in the way.

"Fortification of the Aleutian Islands is prevented by treaty but the mainland of Alaska should be immediately fortified and naval and airplane bases established.

"It is possible that Japan might consider this an overt act on the part of the United States. We do not want war, but we must not blind our eyes to the situation. We should fortify Alaska in the name of peace."

He said he would lead a fight in Congress to strengthen American defenses.

'Cowboy' Lassoes Passing Auto, Hurt

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP.)—Raymond Brown, 13, lassoed a motor car and no cantankerous steer could have treated him so rough.

Raymond forgot that the other end of the rope was tied to his neck, and the passing car dragged him 175 feet.

LIQUOR PRICES LIKELY TO SLUMP

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 13. — Liquor prices are probably going to come down.

Treasury experts were today nearing the completion of an investigation of the effects of the present high tariff rate on imported liquors—$5 a gallon—on domestic prices.

It is believed that the tariff is going to be lowered, either by direct congressional action, or by presidential edict if Congress enacts the bill to give the President power to adjust tariff rates within a 50 per cent range.

Despite relatively high prices for domestic liquor and the F A C A permitting unlimited quantities of beverages to be brought in, relatively little liquor has been imported. The tariff has acted as a barrier.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau believes that the tariff rates on liquor have had a pronounced influence on prices charged for domestic beverages.

Morgenthau declared that not only did the government desire that liquor be furnished the public at reasonable prices, but that a good quality should be offered.

The question of the domestic tax on liquor is also being studied. The present tax is $2 a gallon as compared to $1.10 before prohibition. Dr. James M. Doran, head of the Code Authority for the distillers, said under the federal and the states taxes there was little probability of domestic prices of less than $2 a quart even on blended products, to say nothing of properly aged liquor.

Some Treasury experts believe government revenue could be increased substantially by a reduction in the tariff and domestic tax on liquor.

Brewers in War On Beer Signs

SEATTLE, April 13.—(AP.)—A resolution asking that beer parlors take down most of their beer signs was placed in the hands of the State Liquor Control Board—from the Northwest Brewers' Association.

Henry T. Ivers, general counsel and secretary of the association, explained:

"Some city blocks are covered with beer signs. We believe this is bad policy and that the public doesn't like it any more than we do. Too much emphasis is being placed on beer."

NEW DRY GROUP TO FIGHT FOR BLUE LAWS

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—Dr. O. Bruce Poulson, Huntingdon, secretary of the new Pennsylvania Men's Dry League, said yesterday that repeal of the Sunday sports act will be sought in the 1935 session of the Legislature.

Dr. Poulson, attending a meeting of the league's executive committee in Harrisburg, said the league will fight not only against further liberalization of the Sabbath to allow "other sports and shows" on Sunday, but will "strive" to repeal the existing law.

At the same time, officers of the league said they are collecting data concerning all political candidates, national and state, and will publish their attitudes on the liquor question. He said:

"The league proposes to be strictly non-partisan, but to give active support to dry candidates regardless of party affiliation."

The object of the league, a statement said, is "to inform the men of the commonwealth concerning current civic problems especially as they shall relate to the entire liquor question and to encourage the league officers and membership to enter aggressively into every situation where civic, moral and religious ideals are involved."

"I'm Representative T. Alan Goldsborough."

Moore's friends said he got the job.

MUSIC

Shapiro Quartet
College Club

PROGRAM

Quartet in D Minor.....Zitterbart
Intermezzo.....Korngold
Music of the Spheres.....Rubinstein
Scottish Dances.....Pochon
Quartet in D Major.....Borodine

The Shapiro String Quartet gave its closing concert last night in the College Club auditorium, a fine setting for intimate music and for this audience.

Mr. Lissfelt

It was a novel program, including none of the classics, but some Pittsburgh-made music that was well worth hearing, that is the Quartet in D Minor of Fidelis Zitterbart. This is a score brilliantly written for each instrument and making virtuoso demands upon each of the players as well as the ensemble. There are unusual themes, fine melodies and well balanced contrasts, and harmonic progressions that might have been written in our own day. It would be interesting to hear this work again after the quartet had known it as long as it does its Beethoven. It is gratifying to know that Zitterbart's works are gradually being brought to our hearing so that he might hold his well-earned place among American composers.

The Intermezzo of Erich Korngold revealed the same piquant qualities that we first heard in his earliest ballet, "The Snowman," and in his operas. Rubinstein's music is a good sop for melody lovers and Pochon has arranged the Scottish Dances for everyone's liking.

The Borodine was probably the best played music of the evening. Like most Russian music it sings itself into the audiences good graces without much ado, but had an excellent reading last night. As encores the quartet played Hennessy's "Serenade" and an "Allegro Grazioso" of Gretry.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

BECOME A CHARTER MEMBER OF THE Junior Birdmen of America

The Junior Birdmen of America, a new nation-wide organization sponsored by William Randolph Hearst, through the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers, for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 is now ready to enroll membership.

Mr. Hearst originally sponsored the American organization of the Boy Scouts in collaboration with his friend, Sir Robert Baden-Powell. He believes the Junior Birdmen of America is now just as important and even more interesting to boys and girls of America.

This new nation-wide youth movement will be conducted through the medium of a daily newspaper column to be published in the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers beginning Sunday and appearing every week day and Sunday.

You can become a CHARTER MEMBER of the Junior Birdmen of America now by clipping the attached coupon and forwarding it to the Junior Birdmen of America, care of the Sun-Telegraph, giving your full name, age and address, and enclosing a dime (10 cents) in cash for your Junior Birdmen wing-pin and membership card. Be sure you state your age so that you can be placed in the proper age group, and, of course, don't forget your 10 cents in one coin, which covers the cost of your membership materials, including postage and mailing.

Full information will be given in this column about model plane building activities and competitions, aviation features, flying articles by prominent fliers, annual banquets, popular pilot polls, contests, trips to airports and airplane factories, and all sorts of live wire activities for the boys and girls, to be conducted under the sponsorship of the Junior Birdmen of America.

Boys and girls sending the attached coupon with their name, address, age and 10 cents in cash will have "charter membership" stamped across their membership cards. Wing-pins, gilt for the Group A members (16 to 21), and silvered pins for the Group B members (10 to 15), will be enameled in red, white and blue. Membership cards will be gold or silver, corresponding to the age group to which you belong.

Membership cards and Junior Birdmen wing-pins will not, however, be mailed to charter members until after the daily Junior Birdmen column begins in the Sun-Telegraph. But you must send for your membership—using the attached coupon—before the column starts—if you want to become a CHARTER MEMBER.

The daily column, in addition to publishing Junior Birdmen news, feature articles and club activities, will tell you how every boy and girl will be able to organize a Junior Birdmen FLIGHT SQUADRON in his or her city, town or neighborhood.

BECOME A CHARTER MEMBER OF THIS GREAT NATIONAL ORGANIZATION!

Inebriates to Get Ride Home for $1

CARLISLE, Pa., April 13.—(AP.)—Automobile rides will be provided in Carlisle for those who drink too much—but the passengers will have to pay $1 for delivery to their homes, including police escort.

The Borough Council made this decision last night. Action followed one Councilman's suggestion that inebriates found on the streets be fined $1, the amount of the fine to cover home delivery in the new car.

COUNTY RELIEF PROBE WILL GO ON SECRETLY

POLITICS

Statewide Candidates Open Headquarters

By MARK SHIELDS

Headquarters for state-wide candidates are beginning to blossom in Pittsburgh, and by the first of the week all of the contenders conceded a chance for nomination will have established posts from which Western Pennsylvaia operations will be directed.

Mr. Shields

Maj. W. T. Rees took charge today of headquarters for Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon in the Magee Building, the site occupied by Gov. Pinchot in 1930 and Gen. Smedley D. Butler in 1932. Maj. Rees formerly was chief clerk to the County Commissioners and director of elections until he earned the dislike of Commissioners Charles C. McGovern and C. M. Barr.

The regular Democratic organization, backing George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, for Governor and Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, for the United States Senate, will establish headquarters in its old stamping ground, also in the Magee Building, a few steps down Fourth avenue from the Shannon post of command.

County Chairman David L. Lawrence pointed out that the successful Democratic campaigns of 1932 and 1933 had been fought from this spot, and looks on it as a lucky location. Active operations will begin the first of the week with Lawrence actually in charge of the campaign, even though some other man may bear the honorary title of chairman.

Davis Aide Associated With Margiotti Fight

Headquarters for Charles J. Margiotti will be established in the William Penn Hotel, with Fred Jones as office manager. Mr. Jones has been associated with Senator James J. Davis in Moose activities, and has served as Davis' secretary in Pittsburgh. The association of Jones with the Margiotti campaign lends some color to reports that the junior Senator from openly back the Punxsutawney attorney.

So far Davis has given no open expression as to his preference among the gubernatorial candidates, though Margiotti's announcement of his candidacy was preceded by a long conference with the Senator.

Margiotti opened his campaign last night with a statewide broadcast from Punxsutawney, admitting he could not solve all the difficulties of the Commonwealth, but promising to do his best. He said he would pervent "selfish interests" from fashioning the policies of the government and would place the greatest burdens of economic life upon those most able to bear them.

Raymond D. Evans, campaign manager for Senator David A. Reed, has appointed William M. Furey treasurer and Howard J. Cassidy secretary of the Allegheny County committee. Mr. Furey is a former president of the Chamber of Commerce and the Amen Corner, is a bank director and is in the insurance business. The Reed headquarters are in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, opposing Senator Reed for the Republican senatorial nomination, will have headquarters opened for real business next week. The Governor has selected former Judge Paul S. Lehman of Lewistown as chairman of his state campaign committee, but local pilots have not yet been picked. It is assumed that Judge Ralph H. Smith will be the real directing head of the Pinchot campaign in this section, though he will have no official connection with the headquarters.

Philadelphia Official Will Back Copeland

In Philadelphia Register of Wills Harry V. Dougherty, elected in the Democratic landslide last year, declared for the anti-organization ticket headed by Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, for Governor and Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, for the United States Senate. He said that if Senator Reed and Mr. Guffey should become the party nominees for the Senate, the election of either would be satisfactory to utility interests and former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Dougherty said he had been one of the original Roosevelt men, and denied Earle and Guffey had a monopoly on this loyalty.

Philadelphia registration figures, like those of Pittsburgh, are giving politicians great concern. First returns in the eastern city indicate an extremely narrow difference in the enrollment of Republicans and Democrats in a city where Republicans have always been predominant.

The growth of Democratic registration, making inroads into Republican ranks, is particularly marked in South Philadelphia, where the regular Republican organization always has been certain of swollen majorities. The controlled wards of South Philadelphia have usually been good for 100,000 majority for any candidate the organization backed.

No Big Edge for Any One in Philadelphia

That will be far from true this year, a situation which lends color to the prediction that no Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination will come out of Philadelphia with a lead of more than 25,000 over the second man, and that four or five will be in a group separated by no more than 50,000 votes.

The situation is not encouraging to any candidate who bases his chief appeal on Philadelphia aid, and who lacks vote-getting ability in the interior counties and the western portion of the state.

American Legion Leader Scores League

The address of Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, broadcast last night over a nation-wide network, follows:

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen:

TIME PERMITS of but brief pleasantries; yet, despite the magnitude of the subject to which I shall address myself this evening, I must express to the National Broadcasting Company, and its associated stations, my thanks for the use of their facilities. I desire also to express my gratitude and appreciation, as national commander of the American Legion, to Mr. William Randolph Hearst, who not only made possible this opportunity for me to talk with you, but who has enlisted the full influence of his newspapers in support of the Legion mandate which is to be the subject of my discussion this evening.

More than one million men and women who served in the World War gave me certain orders last fall at our national convention in Chicago. One of those orders was to oppose the entry of the United States into the League of Nations, and to oppose the adherence of the United States to the League Court, either with or without reservations. Mr. Hearst has thrown the full force of his newspapers into the fight on the side of "keeping our hands out of other peoples' quarrels, and of minding our own business."

He is supporting the Legion mandate, and I express on behalf of all the Legion our appreciation of his ever present alertness against the ill-advised attempts of the internationalists who would involve the United States in foreign entanglements. Yes, into virtual submersion in the cesspool of European politics and intrigue.

A CONCERTED effort, evidently backed by unlimited resources, is at work in a renewed effort to entice the United States into the League of Nations court. Already the proponents of this vicious scheme have had an inning before the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate. The wheels of their propaganda mills are turning. I say to you, with all the power and sincerity at my command, that again the battle is on to embroil the United States into the politics of Europe.

While you, my friends, are concentrating upon protecting your homes and your loved ones, efforts are being made jeopardizing the national safety of the United States. On all sides we read of the spending of gigantic sums of money by foreign nations to arm themselves to the teeth. We hear of governments overthrown, of dictators, of revolution, of riot and of the possibilities of war itself.

Europe is a seething cauldron of danger, so ominous that one dare not predict its day-to-day future. Yet, in the face of this great peril, the internationalists would plunge us into the very middle of this maelstrom of hate and intrigue. They would again expose the United States to the possibilities of war. This, I say to you, must not be done. With your help and the help of all patriotic leaders of the United States, it shall not be done.

NOW, IF ENTRANCE into the League Court is inimical to the welfare of the United States, then wherein lies the way to national security? How shall we protect ourselves from the contagion and contamination of the virulent political diseases of Europe? The American Legion's answer to that is adequate national defense. America will never seek a war and we believe a war will never seek a prepared America. We want peace, and to insure peace, we believe our nation must be strong enough to discourage aggression against us.

The administration at Washington has been particularly responsive to the national defense requests of the American Legion. Those of you who have studied the Vinson bill know that its provisions will make it possible to build a Navy up to London treaty strength. That is exactly the recommendation of the national convention of the Legion in Chicago when it insisted upon a "Treaty Navy and men to man it." We do not seek to have the strongest Navy in the world, but our position in world affairs justifies our maintaining a navy equal to that of any other nation.

But national defense involves a greater principle than mere men and munitions. Behind them must be ardent support of the patriotic fundamentals of our Republic as embodied in the Constitution of the United States.

EDWARD A. HAYES SPEAKING OVER KYW ON NBC NETWORK

WHEN, ON THEIR return home a short fifteen years ago, the representatives of the American armed forces created the American Legion as the vehicle for their organized effort, they spontaneously adopted as their highest purpose this declaration:

"For God and country we associate ourselves together to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States."

That pledge of faith of the American Legion shall never be forsaken. To those who advocate the destruction of that great keystone of our government, as laid down by George Washington and our valiant forefathers, the members of the American Legion will cry "Stop!" in no uncertain terms.

It is being said across this broad land of ours that we have entered upon a new era or a new theory of government. A new era or a new theory of government is no license for any individual or group to dodge or change outright the Constitution of the United States. If any such there be, the American Legion, I repeat, stands ready to remind him or them in such emphatic manner as it must, that it was for the purpose of establishing and preserving the rights and liberties of the people as a whole that our form of government, as conceived by its founders, was placed in the hands of chosen representatives. There it must remain.

Our forefathers gained that purpose at the price of blood and treasure. Only fifteen years ago we defended it at the same ghastly cost. Any movement to destroy those principles upon which this country was founded, for which members of the American Legion offered their lives, will again be resisted to the fullest degree.

OF LATE we have been hearing and reading in the public mind of those who warn of a Stalin in our midst; of those who have it in mind to subvert the Constitution of the United States. To employ a homely old expression, "Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire." Great clouds of smoke have been belching forth from fires kindled by nauseating un-American doctrine called Communism.

In the midst of all this talk of Communism having crept into high places in the government of the United States, may I sound again the warning given by Daniel Webster in his speech at the centennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington, when he said:

"Other misfortunes may be borne, or their effects overcome. If disastrous wars should sweep our commerce from the ocean, another generation may renew it; if it exhaust our treasury, future industry may replenish it; if it desolate and lay waste our fields, still, under a new cultivation, they will grow green again, and ripen to future harvests. It were but a trifle even if the walls of yonder Capitol were to crumble, if its lofty pillars should fall, and its gorgeous decorations be all covered by the dust of the valley. All these may be rebuilt. But who shall reconstruct the fabric of demolished government, who shall rear again the well-proportioned columns of constitutional liberty, who shall frame together the skilful architecture which united national sovereignty with state rights, individual security, and public prosperty? No, if these columns fall, they will not be raised again. Like the Coliseum and the Parthenon, they will be destined to a mournful, and a melancholy immortality. Bitterer tears, however, will flow over them than were ever shed over the monuments of Roman or Grecian art; for they will be the monuments of a more glorious edifice than Greece or Rome ever saw, the edifice of constitutional American liberty."

That ends the quotation from Daniel Webster, whose words are just as applicable today as they were the day he uttered them.

I WAS ASTOUNDED the other day to read in a newspaper a statement attributed to a former United States Senator, now one of the advisors in a large activity of the government. This statement, if it reflects the exact state of mind of the man who made It, contains utterances from which the only inference that can be drawn is that he desires to see another form of government in the United States of America. I refer to the statement of Smith W. Brookhart.

If the utterances of Mr. Brookhart, as given in the press, are true, then I claim that it is high time that an investigation is made to determine his motive and that of all other men of his ilk high up in governmental affairs.

And I say to the Congress of the United States that the investigation recently undertaken of specific charges along

PETITION AGAINST U. S. JOINING LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND WORLD COURT

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign affairs," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

'World' Court Just League Bait to United States

"The new Court, being the judicial organ of the League of Nations, CAN ONLY BE CREATED WITHIN THIS LEAGUE."

The then Secretary-General of the League of Nations, Sir Eric Drummond, had already written to the committee of jurists charged with drafting the plan for the Court, this admonition:

"The Court is to be THE MOST ESSENTIAL PART of th organization of the League of Nations."

This was the mandate under which the League committee drafted the plan for the Court, which the League of Nations adopted and the member states of the League accepted. This mandate was reinforced by even more explicit instructions from a greater authority than the Secretary-General of the League. This greater authority was none other than M. Bourgeois, the then president of the Council of the League, whose instructions to the committee of experts read as follows:

"The Court must have at hand a political organization to supply it with the law, which it is to apply, and second, to give it the necessary authority, and, if need be, sanction. Similarly, the League itself must have at hand a court of law for the administration and interpretation of its laws and regulations. The political phase of the League will be as dependent upon the legal phase AS THE LEGAL PHASE IS UPON THE POLITICAL."

THIS is the League Court which began its sessions in September, 1921.

It is obviously a League tribunal.

Its organization was provided for in the Covenant of the League.

It exists and functions under a statute which was originally framed and adopted by the League.

Its jurisdiction was clearly defined by its own statute and by the League Covenant.

It is subject, in part, to the League's direction.

Its legal counsel, its judges and its deputies are elected by the League.

Its expenses and the salaries of its officials are fixed and paid by the League.

THESE are some of the reasons why Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of California, in a radio address to the American people on December 20, 1930, asserted:

"It is an amazing intellectual stultification to assert that the so-called World Court—which is in reality the League Court—is not a part of the League of Nations."

No member of the committee on foreign relations before which the scheme to make the United States a member of this League Court, is pending, has yet been able to refute this charge of Senator Johnson or deny the facts upon which this charge is based.

The proof that the League Court is in reality the back-door entrance to the League of Nations is available to any high school student under the flag who will compare the Covenant of the League of Nations with the protocols of the League Court.

FIRST SESSION APPROACHES MELEE

Legislative Probe Near Riot; Rectenwald Defers Action

An investigation into relief costs in Allegheny County, launched by Joseph A. Rectenwald and other members of the State Legislature, is to be continued in "about a week" behind closed doors.

The probe, which Rectenwald declared was inspired by the Lynch resolution in the Legislature, threatened to develop into a riot yesterday in City Council Chamber, borrowed for the occasion to accommodate a large audience.

One group insisted that relief is being distributed to persons who do not need it, and this brought a chorus of "boos" from a faction, the spokesmen for which declared there is not enough relief.

Rectenwald and Representative Joseph G. Steedle charged that too much is being spent in relief administration costs. George P. Mills, Allegheny County Relief Director, replied that his office is being audited by Douglas P. Falconer, appointed officially by the Legislature, and that he will abide by the report that will be out soon.

Rectenwald told reporters that the "hearing" was a voluntary contribution by the local legislators toward the relief problem. He said:

"I did not realize the crowd would become so unruly. The next hearing we have will be private and we will call witnesses."

BUNDLE DRIVE DATES SET

Plans have been completed for the Bundle Drive which is to be conducted throughout the county in the interests of the Goodwill Industries. The dates have been definitely set as April 16 to 20, inclusive. Many of the boroughs will co-operate. In Pittsburgh, the public schools will help by serving as receiving stations. In the boroughs the schools will assist in the same way.

A final plea was made today by J. C. McQuiston, president of Goodwill, to the residents of the county to prepare at once their bundles of unwanted clothing, so that, the day the drive starts, their bundles will be ready to be given to children to take to school.

Every school will have a special committee of students.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, Mr. Roosevelt gets back tomorrow, and suppose his fishing trip will be followed by an investigation, for the Democrats claim he caught some fish, and the Republicans are equally insistent that he didn't. Its like all the investigations, its absolutely necessary, its going to have a big bearing on the future of this country. If there is men in this country that claim they caught a fish, when they didn't catch one, it should be known by the people of this country (no matter how high up the investigation has to reach). So appoint your committee, three Democrats and two Republicans, so we can have a fair investigation, and see if this country is going Russian, and catching fish for caviar purposes.

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

We have been housecleaning (as we told you the other day) . . . and you know what that is! So that you can well imagine our frame of mind when we see lovely, fresh new things! And you can appreciate our finding a sale of paper parchment lamp shades in a variety of bedroom and living room colorings . . . from plain to striped.

In sizes to fit most lamps—from 8-inchers to 14-inchers . . . fluted nicely like so many good lamps are nowadays. And priced . . . hurrah! . . . at 79c.

If the pillows in your living room look anything like those we've just finished throwing out of ours . . . then you'll want to hear about these new ones that are so smart looking and so fresh for only 59c and 79c.

The 59c ones include a large number of novelty weaves in shot-by-lightning zigs and zags in colors . . . as well as some glazed chintzes.

And the 79c-ers are grand heavy quality glazed chintz that will wear and wear—in smart colorings like oxblood with cream and maize flowers . . . lipstick red with white florals . . . and other equally good combinations. Gives a living room that come-hither you hear so much about!

Oh sing a song of spring bonnets! Of all the brims that have bloomed out like so many mushrooms popping up through the night!

We have been whirling through hat-dom lately like the proverbial dervish! Whirling past hats with 18-inch brims . . . past bonnets with coal-scuttle-shaped brims . . . on by straight little sailors with a neat and natty band to the droopy afternoon charmer with a knot of field flowers! And each one is lovelier than the last!

We even saw a bonnet with an apple on the front—Adam's Apple the buyer called it! Imagine! And the nice part of it is that prices begin as low as $2.95 . . . and clamber all the rest of the way upwards until they even hit as high as $35 (if you're a $35 girl!)

Personally . . . we just up and bought ourself a black felt sailor of scooped brim type . . . we couldn't resist it! And do we feel la-de-da! And are we bowling people over! (At least . . . we hope so!)

No sleeves . . . a ruffle 'round your shoulders (it should be a rainbow, but a ruffle is the best they can do!) . . . and little side ties to snug them into your slim and slender waist. Of course, they wash like nobody's business (didn't we just say so?) . . . and they wear just about forever. And they're collegiate in every sense of the word—gay, spirited, smart, fun to wear! And not just for you campus-lifers either . . . because a school teacher can appreciate their tricky daintiness as well as their low-priced practicability and endurance! $1.25.

Events Varied At P. T. A. Meetings

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Addresses on various topics, music, here and there reoprts of nominating committees, and many other features make up a varied assortment of interests for the current meetings of nearby Parent-Teacher Associations.

Quaill Parent-Teacher Association is having a get-to-gether meeting at 12:30 today. Members will bring their lunch, but coffee and tea will be served, this part of the meeting being an informal reception for 153 new members. At 2 o'clock the nominating committee will present its report and the Rev. Basil Murry will speak on "Mental Hygiene."

Emsworth P. T. A. is also having its regular monthly meeting today in the school auditorium. Mount Rushmore Ruled Monument to United States

Not Memorial To Leaders Of Nation

A MONUMENT TO AMERICA! That is the Mount Rushmore National Memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota. It is not a memorial in memory of the four Presidents — Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt—whose figures are being carved in the mountainside.

It is a monument that will bespeak America's epic in 600 words —tell the glorious history of the nation to generations through a million years. It is the text of that 600-word history for which the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers are conducting the nationwide inscription competition.

Many participants in the competition have failed to read the rules with care. Some think the monument is in memory of Washington. Others write out each of the nine episodes of history, as sort of subtitle, before writing about the episode. That is a waste of words. Tell about that episide in plain and simple words. It is not necessary to write the date of each episode before telling about it. When Gutzon Borglum is ready to carve the text into the granite, the dates will already have been carved. Remember, do not exceed the 600 words.

The rules of the competition appear every few days in the Sun-Telegraph. They were published yesterday and will again appear Sunday. Important pointers in the competition appear daily in the paper. A special folder giving full details can be obtained free at the Sun-Telegraph downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street. It will be mailed if a stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies the request to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Memorial Editor, care of the Sun-Telegraph.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Removal of Warts and Moles

A correspondent asks, "Is there any truth in the statement that warts are a sign of cancer, and even though the warts are completely removed, the victim will eventually succumb to cancer?"

Dr. Copeland

I hasten to correct this unfounded and unscientific statement. Warts are described by the doctors as simple, benign tumors of the skin. The word "benign" is used to describe a tumor or growth that is harmless.

A "malignant tumor" is one of a cancerous nature. It is true that certain benign tumors, if neglected and constantly irritated, may become cancerous. This is rarely, if ever, the case with warts.

It is probable that a great deal of confusion exists regarding the difference between the wart and a skin "mole." The latter is a pigmented or discolored spot. It may be present at birth, when it is commonly spoken of as a "birth mark." Many moles appear after birth, varrying in size, shape, color and consistency.

It is dangerous to tamper with certain types of moles. I say this because many a person, anxious to rid himself of this disfigurement, repeatedly resorts to crude and harmful measures of removel. This is dangerous, because continued irritation of certain types of mole leads to cancer formation.

For the reasons given, it is never advisable to attempt the removal of a mole except it is done by a competent physician. Moles are best removed by electrolysis, freezing, or a simple surgical operation. The treatment depends entirely upon the type and size of the mole.

Like the mole, a wart is often disfiguring and its owner is anxious to remove the unsightly tumor. The most common method of treatment is by the application of a strong acid. This should only be used after necessary measures have been taken to protect the surrounding skin. Carelessness may result in a severe and serious burn.

Warts are also successfully removed by the application of the high frequency current of electricity. This is a painless procedure. Of course it can only be applied by a physician trained in this work.

Please bear in mind that the methods of relief I have referred to are for adults. Children afflicted with warts should not be subjected to any strenuous form of treatment. I say this because warts in children usually disappear without treatment. Adults should take medical advice before attempting to remove these growths.

SCOTTIE PATTERN 675

Striking Toy or Mascot

Scotties, enjoying great popularity 'in the flesh,' have endeared themselves equally to young and old when they are made of gingham or other gay material and stuffed to be nice and cuddly. This Scottie—a very easy one to make—does for the youngster or, when made in some startling material or a plain black velveteen does equally well as a mascot or a striking decoration. His woolly whiskers and eyebrows are simple to make and give him that shaggy appearance that every full-breed Scottie should have.

Pattern 675 comes to you with a pattern of the Scottie (the finished dog measures about 13 inches without the tail), complete directions and yardage requirements for making the animal.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Presents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is getting married within a few months and I am at a loss as to what to give her as a wedding gift. Is it customary to give the bride something personal or something for the home? Which would be most proper in my case, being her sister? Does one usually give one's brother-in-law a personal gift, or one gift for bride and groom? I.

Even though you are the bride's sister, the proper thing for you to do is to give her a wedding present of something for her home. The gift of "something personal" is often given for an engagement present or for some other occasion before the time for the wedding present. But the wedding present is "something for the new home." You may, if you wish, give your brother-in-law-to-be some personal gift, but this is not necessary or customary. All wedding gifts are given to the bride, addressed to her.

Acknowledging the Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been corresponding with a young man in a distant city for a year or more. I received a present recently from him. He didn't want me to accept it from him, but from his mother. She lives abroad and it was sent to him from her to give to his girl friend. I've never met his mother. What acknowledgment should I make? J.

First write the young man a letter of thanks for his sending you the present, chatting about your appreciation both of his kindness and of his mother's generous thought, and telling of your enthusiasm for the gift. Enclosed in his letter will be your letter of thanks to his mother, which you will ask him to be good enough to forward to her. Don't seal this letter to the mother, but do affix the postage on it.

EXPERT PLEADS FOR MARRIED TEACHERS

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Emotional starvation of the nation's school teachers is a growing menace to the youth of America, says Margery Wilson, well-known psychologist and authority on charm.

Pleading with the parents of school children to co-operate in providing a normal social life for teachers, Miss Wilson said this afternoon:

"American mothers are thoughtlessly entrusting their children during their most impressionable years to neurotic, embittered spinsters whose narrow outlook on life may permanently mar the mental health of the child.

URGES MOTHER-TEACHERS

"No mother should want her child under the influence of a woman whose personality is tense with hope, brittle with bitterness or vague with hopelessness."

Commenting on the recent report of Dr. Emil Altman, chief medical examiner for the New York Board of Education, that 1,500 teachers in New York's public schools are either emotionally unbalanced or insane, Miss Wilson continued:

"The married woman and the mother is the ideal teacher, and it is the duty of American parent to see that the school teacher has the opportunity of meeting, or enjoying a normal social life and finding a husband."

AGREES WITH THEORY

Miss Wilson agrees with the recent statement of Mrs. Roosevelt that "a woman who has become a mother is better fitted than ever to understand children."

She pointed out that of the more than 1,000,000 school teachers in America, only 12 per cent are married, leaving some 880,000 unmarried women molding the futures of the youth of the land.

Miss Wilson decries the narrow attitude of many small towns which denies normal social activity to the school teacher, and frowns upon masculine companionship. She says:

"Nature has planted deep in the feminine nature the desire to be wanted, the hunger for admiration and the capacity for devotion. When denied expression too long, psychological tangles result in inhibitions which endanger the normal point of view.

PLEADS FOR MARRIAGES

"There are, I know, many high-minded, noble women in the teaching profession who have remained single from choice that they might devote their entire lives to guiding the young.

"But for every inspired, career-teacher, there are many of the 'failure-in-living' type. It is to protect our children from the psychological impression of these personalities that I make this plea for married teachers.

"Even if a woman has failed in marriage she usually has none of the tight-lipped acidity and unwieldy mental and physical prudishness that characterizes so many of those unfortunate women we gaily call 'bachelor girls.'"

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Speaking of rackets as I was babbling the other column, here's one of the favorites in Hollywood, although it has been worked here . . . A lovely and well-dressed young lady appears at one of the leading jewelers and starts pricing gems, bracelets, pendants, etc. . . After an hour or so she selects several thousand dollars' worth and starts to pay from a stout roll of bills . . . Unfortunately, she finds she is several hundred dollars shy of the total . . . So she suggests that the store send a trusted employe with the jewels along with her to her home, where she has the rest of the money . . . They get into a cab and she gives the driver the address . . . At the fine-looking home, she rings the bell, and an attendant in a white coat answers . . . "Here he is, doctor," says the lady, pointing to the employe with the bag of diamonds . . . Quickly two strapping assistants come forward, pin the fellow down and drag him to a padded cell . . . It is a private hospital for the insane—where the lady racketeer has previously made arrangements for the care of her "poor, demented brother"—who has only one hallucination . . . And that is—the belief that she is a stranger, trying to rob him of his jewels.

Love knows no reason, as the sage argued decades ago, which best explains the torture of a continental who adores his young wife . . . She is a local deb and they patronize the sassier places . . . The other night, frinstance, they sat at a table for two. His back was to the group of young gallants at a nearby table—his bride faced them . . . One of the group, who knew the wife long before she went to the altar, smiled in greeting . . . She smiled in acknowledgment . . . The groom loves her so—he cannot stand the thought of her looking at other men—and when he saw her smile over his shoulder—he reached across the table—and crushed her dainty hand, which contained a tiny cordial glass . . . He kept crushing her hand until the glass shattered in it and cut her fingers until they bled . . . "I love you so—and you stick knives in my heart!" he said . . . She smiled sweetly and comforted him as her blood stained the cloth on the table . . . She made no scene . . . And those of us at the next table concluded that she thrilled at his gesture—knowing the intensity of his love.

President Roosevelt, it appears, has stopped autographing people's albums, etc. "Business pressure" is the reply all receive now from his secretaries . . . Interesting fairy tale dealing with Frank Fay and his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, the movie star . . . They recently purchased a new home in California—fashioned after the Spanish Mission pattern—and because they want to keep it all very Espanol they are keeping awake nights wondering whether to call it Santa Barbara or Santa Fe . . . I like this devastating form of criticism of a ham who flounced all over the stage, because it best described his flop . . . "How did he do?" a critic was asked . . . "Well," was the retort, "first he bunted, then he fouled and then he struck out."

Not long ago it was front paged that an ex-millionaire committed suicide . . . The tragic story behind the case comes to me only now . . . He was 43 and happily married. He had one child that meant everything to him . . . Though times were difficult he still managed to maintain his half-million dollar insurance policy for his wife and tot . . . Premium time was due and it became necessary for him to seek a loan to pay it. He tried several friends here to no avail . . . He decided on a trip to England where he felt certain an old pal would give him the needed currency . . . One of the richest men in London gave him that well-known chill and refused him . . Though he could have promoted a cash refund on the policy and lived modestly, he chose to have his family get the entire half-million . . . And so he killed himself on the S. S. American Trader three days before the annual payment on the policy was due.

Talk about tunes that tingle and jingle—there's the one christened "True" . . . I thought I was weary of "Carioca" until I heard the show-stopping Saxon Sister swingy-thing it . . . The long-heralded Joseph Schenck - Norma Talmadge divorce is almost here. He may sign the papers for a Mexican melting. If he won't, she will go to Reno, although she dreads the six-weeks' delay . . . I like Jack Berger's description of Broadway—"Main Street with a lot of strangers" . . . The height of cheap-skates: The guy who couldn't pay a $4 bill at a gay place and left his lady friend as "security" while he went for money. She waited for two hours and he never showed . . . How can a guy be that phoney? . . . Izzy Elinson says these days the cab driver is the one who's having trouble—getting the change he wants . . . Walking down a ladder is bad luck, too. I know a feller who eloped that way.

Reverberations Swell As Actress Dons Judge's Robes To Please Cameramen

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 13.—Hello! Quite unwittingly, Helen Vinson, who flew here from New York last week for a role in Ann Harding's RKO flicked, "The Life of Vergie Winters," got a big town judge in a jam—and to square the political squawk she may be forced to airplane it back to the land of the bright lights.

About two weeks ago in New York, Helen visited one of the night courts. After the session was over and the presiding judge had retired, several newspaper reporters and cameramen asked Helen to pose on the bench. One thing led to another. At the suggestion of one of the newshawks, Helen donned the Judge's robe. Flashlight bulbs flashed and later the publicity photographs were printed in various newspapers.

Helen, obviously an innocent person in the so-called muddle, may have to do considerable explaining to square things.

Wanderings around Hollywood . . . Edward Ellis, clever stage actor who never quite received his break with Hollywood roles, gets his "big moment" with a featured part in "The Thin Man," that SENSATIONAL mystery y a r n, starring William Powell at M-G-M . . . Gene Raymond received a fan letter which requested an autographed photo "not to be signed by secretaries, butlers or directors!" . . . Mitchell Leisen, directing "Murder at the Vanities" for Paramount, is getting PLENTY of squawks from the chorus cuties for working them through the lunch hour and not giving them ANY time off! . . . Jack Santoro, self-appointed "mayor" of Palm Springs, is positively PINING away for Clara Schiffmann, the Pasadena gal . . . Dick Bennett and Leo Carrillo cut quite a SPLASH at the Friday leather-pushing stadium when they appeared in 10-gallon hats and cowboy outfits . . . SCOOP! Peggy Green, in the cast of "The Stooge," the Claude Binyon and Joe Mankiewicz play which opens this Wednesday at the Threshold Theater, is really the daughter of Irene Franklin. Few in Hollywood were aware of the fact that Irene had a daughter.

Doris Duke, the tobacco heiress, managed to slip into town very much incognito this time—and is she having fun!

Danny ("How to Commit a Murder") Ahearn scribbles in a note—"Two Thousand Park Ave. gigolos went on a strike—they want that five-cent piece the wives have been giving their husbands for carfare."

"Another thing—Garbo is SUPPOSED to have muttered to a couple of newshawks that she would have LIKED to see Katharine Hepburn in 'The Lake'—which might be taken literally."

* * *

When Virginia Peine Lehman was visited by burglars t'other eve their haul was practically nothing—but the inspecting officer politely consumed a quart of gin while making the report. Virginia can't figure out which causes the real loss . . . Hugh Williams is doing a "male Garbo"—hiding out from news snoopers . . . Four hours before Director John Dillon dropped dead of heart failure, he tried to borrow $2,500 on diamonds which once cost him $8,000.

* * *

Movieland meanderings . . . Arthur Aylsworth is catching his first vacation since entering the flickers with a glimpse of Palm Springs . . . Ann Dvorak is making payments on a $40,000 ranch near Hollywood . . . Van, of Ward and Van, is now living in a two-room shack about 10 miles from the movie village . . . Jim Cagney will ape Al Jolson with a blackface routine in his new picture.

AGE OF OFFICE SEEKERS LOW

The average age of all Pennsylvania gubernatorial aspirants is 45, according to Miss Katherine Warren, one of a group of Civic Club workers busy compiling the Voters' Directory.

Brief biographical sketches of candidates for leading state political positions are contained in the directory, an annual publication of the Civic Club of Allegheny County. It will be ready after April 30.

The committee on compilation reports that an overwhelming number of platforms register social legislation as their principal plank, with a few coming out for the city manager plan.

Candidate Favors State Income Tax

Favoring a graduated state income tax for incomes over $5,000, Milton Watzman is a candidate for Legislature in the Third District. Watzman also wants tax reduction for the small home owner, abolition of the gasoline tax, and general social legislation.

By MARK HELLINGER

The Cork Case

LAWYER Blotsky sat down in the parlor. He weezed like an old church organ bellows. His chest was down in his lap. His thick, pudgy hands fumbled with papers. The short, wiry woman with the apron eyed him suspiciously.

"Now, Mrs. Mansfield—"

"Well, what trick is it now?"

"Mrs. Mansfield, if that's going to be your attitude—"

"It is."

"Then I might as well leave."

Lawyer Blotsky reached for his hat feebly. Mrs. Mansfield laid no restraining hand on him. Lawyer Blotsky sighed ponderously. He tried to smile.

"Mrs. Mansfield, I want you to understand that my client wants to be fair with you. He realizes that you have suffered in injury"—he made a deprecating gesture—"however slight, and he wishes to make amends.

"As I understand," he wheedled, "you were in the act of uncorking a Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame bottle. The cork, under the pressure of stored-up energy, popped. It struck you a glancing blow on the left eye, which left a slightly purplish tint. You weren't blinded, and you suffered no other physical injuries. Now, Mrs. Mansfield, what do you think would be a fair offering?"

"Are you finished?"

"Yes," said Blotsky uncomfortably.

"Well, let me tell you something, you fat shyster. In the first place, it was no glancing blow. It walloped me square in the eye. In the second place, that 'purplish tint' was all over my eye for more than a week.

"In the third place, I can't even do my own shopping any more. Everybody is talking behind my back about how my husband beats me." The tears started to come at this juncture. "What am I to do? I'm ruined. I'll sue the company for every nickel they've got."

Lawyer Blotsky grimaced.

"Mrs. Mansfield. You're making a mountain out of a hole in the ground. You suffered a plain, ordinary, unadulterated black eye. Whether it was from Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame or from your husband's fist, I don't know. At any rate, because my client wants to keep you as a customer, I'm authorized to offer you one hundred dollars in settlement for all real or fancied injuries. What do you say?"

Regretfully, I must say that I cannot publish what Mrs. Mansfield said in reply. The last five words were: "And so is your father!" . . .

On the day the suit opened, it was warm outside. Inside, it was warmer. The judge slumped deep in his robes and dozed. The lawyers mopped their brows, ruffled a lot of papers and searched their briefcases for more. Mrs. Mansfield wore a patch over her eye . . .

The First Day: "We submit, Your Honor, that it has not been established that the Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame cork caused the alleged injury." . . .

The Second Day: "I was there when it happened. We were getting ready for bed. My wife uses that cream every night. Suddenly, I heard a pop." . . .

The Third Day: "In all my years as foreman of the packing department, I've never yet heard of a Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame cork popping. It's impossible."

The Fourth Day: "That shyster liar came to my house and offered me a hundred dollars. I said no. My eye still hurts. I can hardly see sometimes." . . .

On the sixth day, the courtroom was jammed. The ruffle of starched dresses and the buzz of whispers mingled. Late comers stood in the rear and the attorneys had to shoulder their way through. Mrs. Mansfield was regal in a new hat. The patch was still over her eye.

Then the buzzing grew a bit louder.

"She's got a nerve . . . Ten thousand, she wants. The pair of 'em never had a cent . . . If you ask me, it was quite another type of cork . . . Of course, I don't like to talk about anybody, but . . . Well, as my husband was only saying at supper last night: 'Mag,' sezzee, 'Mag, she's no recommendation for that beauty cream.' I almost dropped the soup. Ha, ha! He's a card, my old man is. A card."

The judge swept in. The bailiff rapped for order. The buzzing died. The lawyers ruffled the same papers. They spoke in whispers across the counsel table. Mrs. Mansfield's lawyer looked worried. So did Mr. Mansfield. So did Mrs. Mansfield.

She began to wish she had taken the $100. Mr. Mansfield couldn't wait until he got home to belt her in the other eye for not taking it. The lawyer had told them at his office that the case looked pretty bad. The judge was one of those strict, sour "show-me" boys. No imagination, the lawyer had said. No imagination.

Lawyer Blotsky was all smiles. He rubbed his hands briskly and bowed to one and all. His case was won. The plaintiff had failed to show how an innocent bottle of Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame could harm even a baby. The defense had a list of several witnesses to call, but Lawyer Blotsky decided against it.

"What's the use?" he had said. "We're a cinch."

His final gesture was to exhibit a bottle of the innocuous lotion. His pudgy hands held the bottle delicately between the finger tips.

"If it please the court," he said unctuously, "I wish to offer this bottle of Hi-De-Ho Lotion Creame in evidence. It is exactly the same as that which the plaintiff alleges"—he sneered—"marred her beauty." It naturally follows," he continued fingering the top of the bottle, "that this is the same type of cork."

In the next moment, the entire courtroom broke down in convulsions. For the cork suddenly popped like a toy gun, and landed right in Lawyer Blotsky's eye! . . .

TEXAS WOMAN SENDS HOPEFUL MESSAGE TO ALL FAT FOLKS

51 Pounds Gone—How Happy She Is Her Flesh Is Firm—Feels Like New Person

Mrs. J. B. Scruggs of Gainesville, Texas, writes: "I weighed 153. I started Kruschen and now weigh 102—my flesh is firm—I feel like a new person. I lost about 2½ lbs. per week. Am still taking Kruschen as it keeps me feeling fine."

You can and will lose fat SAFELY by taking a generous half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Fat goes from abdomen, ankles, thighs, hips or wherever fat is most prominent. Physicians prescribe Kruschen because while losing fat, patients gain in health (read note below). A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drug store in the world.

NOTE: Get that superb Kruschen feeling of glorious physical healthfulness as millions thruout the world do by taking your little daily dose of Kruschen—only as much as will on a dime in your morning cup of coffee or tea (you can't taste it).

This little daily dose of KRUSCHEN increases physical attractiveness—keeps you feeling fit, fine and full of zest for the work you have to do—that tired feeling and shortness of breath disappear—old-time ambition soon returns.

SUGGESTS BEER AS BASTING FOR HAM

HAM BAKED WITH BEER—In baking a whole ham, first wash well and trim most of the fat off. It may be scored by barely cutting through the fat diagonally. Press a whole clove into each diamond-shaped cut and now make a paste of one cupful of brown sugar, one tablespoon of mustard and enough vinegar to make a smooth, thick sauce. Spread evenly over the surface of the ham, arranging it fatty-side up. One or two cups of cold beer is now put over the ham, keeping plenty of cold beer for basting purposes during the baking. Bake the ham in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees) until nicely browned on top.

If one wishes to boil ham before baking, a particularly savory flavor is obtained by boiling the ham in the cold beer (from one to two cupfuls of beer is added to small amount of water). The rich liquor is reserved for basting the ham while baking.

SPRING VEGETABLE SALAD—1 cup cucumber, diced; 1 cup red radishes, thinly sliced; ¾ cup scallions, thinly sliced; 1 large red tomato, cubed; ½ teaspoon salt; dash of paprika, ½ cup mayonnaise.

Chill each prepared vegetable. When ready to serve, combine ingredients in order given. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves eight.

TOMATO ASPIC WITH VEGETABLES—4 teaspoons gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes, 1 teaspoon scraped onion, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup cooked fresh string beans, ½ cup cooked fresh peas, ½ cup cucumber, diced; 1 teaspoon onion, finely chopped; ¼ teaspoon salt, French dressing, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Cook tomatoes and seasonings 10 minutes and strain off liquid. Dissolves gelatin in hot liquid. Pour

REICH DISAVOWS ARMS RACE

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP.)—The Diplomatische Korrespondenz said today that if Germany is spending more money for instruments of war—and she is—that's German's own business.

The newspaper is the mouthpiece of the German Foreign Office. It said:

"What right is there for astonishment in France or anywhere else that large increases in military appropriations feature the 1934 budget?"

Sixty-one naval craft are being built by Britain and 54 by the United States, the Diplomatische Korrespondenz said, so it again asked, "Why all this fuss about the German budget?"

The newspaper reassured the world that "Germany has no intention of engaging in an armaments race."

DEVILED HAM EGGS A LA BENEDICT WIN

Prize Recipe Easy To Prepare and Tickles Palate

Appetites tend too often to become a bit finicky in these sunshiny days when spring fever is forever tagging at our heels. We don't know what we want—nothing is ever right. We're tired of all the usual foods and wish somewhere, someone would think of something altogether different.

Plenty of you have these recipes which though they may seem very usual to you are quite unheard of to your fellow housewives of the Sun-Telegraph. Probably you've never eaten deviled ham eggs a la benedict, yet Mrs. Robert E. McAlister won the $5 prize with them today.

And Mrs. J. Allison Reed offers you a whole meal, from appetizers to dessert, in sandwich form. She tells you:

"This is an entire meal in sandwich style and you begin at the top and eat down. A splendid suggestion for a party or bridge luncheon, you might also try it on the family one of these warm evenings."

Decidedly different this recipe of hers, wouldn't you say so?

Be sure to send in your "different" recipes to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, so you, too, may win one of the daily $5 or $1 prizes. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. ROBERT E. M'ALISTER,
Box 416, Turtle Creek.

MRS. W. A. SCHEUNEMAN,
418 Fruithurst drive, Mt. Lebanon,
PITTSBURGH SUPREME

The sandwich is made up in a tower succession of thinly-sliced rounds of bread, tapering toward the top in minaret fashion, and capped by a tiny chop frill on a toothpick on which is impaled a small piece of pimento and fragment of anchovy. This dainty appetizer is eaten from the toothpick. Next a tiny round of cottage cheese, pressed into shape with spicy seasoning of salt, paprika and dash of cayenne. Two discs of buttered bread about one inch in diameter filled with chopped olives, another large round of cottage cheese sprinkled with minced parsley. Next two discs of buttered bread put together with wafer-like sections of cucumber dipped in mayonnaise, with a ruffle of lettuce about the edges. Vegetable and protein courses; two buttered discs, slightly larger, with sliced ripe tomatoes and chopped nuts, spread with French dressing and surrounded with lettuce. Place these discs and the next pair, a layer of chicken. The last layers of bread form the dessert, spread with butter and jelly, preserve or jam. You might substitute thin slices of cake. The sandwich is surrounded by olives and balls of cream cheese, with celery, radishes or pickles to suit your individual taste.

MRS. H. T. HUDSON,

Eggplant Lends Variety And Zest to Diet

Lime, Phosphorus and Iron Contained in This Vegetable Are Necessary Aids to Body Repair

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator from New York.

Few persons appreciate the great variety and wide assortment of foods available to everyone. The markets glisten with attractive foods. Daily newspaper advertisements acquaint the housewife with bargains in foods, seasonable foods, rare foods, and foods which have just arrived in the market. Many fruits and vegetables are offered at all times. The eggplant is in season nearly all year round.

The eggplant is a vegetable which lends zest to the diet. It may be used in many ways, boiled, broiled, baked, steamed or fried. Many delicious dishes are made from this vegetable. Breaded eggplant, fried in deep fat and served with cream sauce or grated cheese, will be a great favorite once it is eaten. Escalloped eggplant, with rice, tomato or chopped meat, makes an excellent main dish for lunch or supper. Some housewives soak it in salt water to remove the bitter taste.

NATIVE OF INDIA

India is the original home of this vegetable. Its popularity is increasing in all sub-tropical countries, the West Indies, Southern Europe and the United States. In Turkey and Syria, the eggplant is a staple article of food. There it is called the "white fruit," as it is light in color.

In this country, the best known type is egg-shaped, and dark purple to black in color. There are other varieties with different shapes and colors. The heavy and large eggplant has many seeds.

The eggplant, like the tomato and melon, is classified as a vegetable or vegetable fruit. It is the fruit of a plant, and contains a large percentage of water. For this reason, its fuel value is of little importance. But it contains valuable mineral salts, organic acids, small amounts of sugar and vitamin A and B.

NEEDED MINERALS

The minerals found in the eggplant are lime, phosphorus and iron. These food substances are essential in repairing the wear and tear on the body. They aid in the development of the bony structure of the body. They help in maintaining the acid-alkaline balance of the body. The vitamin content of the eggplant aids the body in warding off colds and infections. Eggplant, like other vegetables, may well be included in the diet of every child and adult.

The nutritive value of vegetables is high. They should be included in the diet at least once a day. Many mothers say that their children refuse vegetables. This attitude may be due to lack of variety in the choice of vegetables.

Some mothers serve spinach, day after day, and forget how tiresome the same food can become. Spinach is a healthful food, but it is not the only vegetable worth eating. Bear in mind, that variety in the menu is important. Your choice of vegetables is large and the eggplant should not be forgotten.

SHELL STEALING LAID TO JAPS

SYDNEY, Australia, April 13.—(AP.)—The increasing activity of Japanese poachers of trochus, a button producing shell, in the waters near North Australia and New Guinea, has led the government to take steps to drive the interlopers out.

Since protests had already been lodged through London to Tokio without effect, the government now is planning to use fast motorboat patrols with which to chase the poachers, who come in large numbers from the Caroline Islands in heavily-engined sampans.

ICEBERGS PERIL ATLANTIC SHIPS

WASHINGTON, April 13. — (AP.)—The biggest iceberg threat in years is drawing extra Coast Guard precautions to protect North Atlantic shipping lanes.

Lieut. Commander Edward H. Smith, a recognized authority, predicts about 630 bergs will cross northern ship paths between April and July. The average is around 300. Last year no iceberg of any size reached the shipping lanes, but in 1929 a record of 1,000 was set.

The cutter Mendota has been ordered by Rear Admiral H. G. Hamlet, cammandant, to sail from Boston to join the cutter Gen. Green in studying ice movements in the North Atlantic.

into individual molds. Chill until firm.

Toss vegetables, salt, and French dressing together lightly and chill 30 minutes. Drain thoroughly. Add mayonnaise and blend. When jelly is firm, unmold rings on crisp lettuce. Pile vegetable mixture in each. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and watercress. Serves six.

* * *

STRAWBERRY SALAD MOLD—1 package strawberry flavored gelatin, 2 cups boiling water, 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2 cups strawberries, quartered and hulled; 1-3 cup mayonnaise, 1-3 cup cream, whipped.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill. Sugar the strawberries. Fold mayonnaise into whipped cream. When gelatin mixture is slightly thickened, fold it slowly into mayonnaise and cream mixtures until entirely smooth. Fold in strawberries. Turn into mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve on crisp lettuce with additional mayonnaise, thinned with whipped cream and lemon juice. Serves six.

If loose strawberry seeds appear on the turned-out mold, they are easily wiped off with a soft cloth.

* * *

CUCUMBER MAYONNAISE—½ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup sour cream, ½ cup cucumber, finely diced.

Fold mayonnaise into slightly whipped cream. Add cucumber and blend. Makes 1 cup mayonnaise.

Equal quantities of chopped pimiento and diced cucumber may be used instead of all cucumber.

* * *

DATE PUDDING—½ cup suet, 2½ cups finely rolled graham crackers, ½ cup sugar, 2¼ teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup chopped dates, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs.

Chop suet fine and mix with crackers, sugar and baking powder. Stir in dates and orange rind; add milk combined with beaten eggs. Fill an oiled mold two-thirds full and steam two hours, unmold and serve with orange sauce made by heating 1 cup marshmallow whip and adding ¾ cup of orange juice.

* * *

CARROT PUDDING—3 cups raw carrots, grated or put through food chopper, 2 cups chopped suet, 1 1-3 cups soft bread crumbs, 1-3 cup cleaned currants, 2-3 cup raisins, ¾ cup sugar, ½ tablespoon nutmeg, grated rind ½ lemon, 1 egg, 2-3 cup flour, ¾ teaspoon salt.

Combine dry ingredients and add the fruits and suet. Rub together well with the hands and then stir in the carrots and egg. Transfer to a well-oiled mold and steam four hours. Serve with any fruit sauce.

* * *

STEAMED CHERRY PUDDING—1 egg, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup flour, 1 cup cherries (stoned), 3 teaspoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt (level), 1 level teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup sweet milk.

Steam one-half hour of doubling mixture, then double time of cooking.

* * *

STEAMED CHOCOLATE PUDDING—3 tablespoons butter, ⅔ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2¼ cups pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2½ squares chocolate, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour with baking powder and salt, and add alternately with milk to first mixture, then add chocolate, melted. Turn into buttered mold. Cover, and steam 2 hours. Serve.

* * *

SUET PUDDING—3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon grated nutmeg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup suet, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup raisins.

Sift flour, then measure; mix and sift dry ingredients, keeping ½ cup flour, sifting it over the raisins. Chop suet fine and add it to milk and molasses. Combine mixtures and add raisins which have been dredged with flour. Grease pudding molds or baking powder cans and fill two-thirds full of the mixture. Cover and steam for 3 hours. Serve with foamy sterling sauce.

* * *

FOAMY STERLING SAUCE—½ cup sugar (white), 2 teaspoons butter, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons plain cream, 1 egg, well beaten; 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped.

Cream butter until soft; add sugars mixed together and vanilla. Mix thoroughly with plain cream, a little at a time. Add well-beaten egg and mix again. Lastly fold in

* * *

SWEET CIDER PIE—1 pint sweet cider, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-3 cup cold water, vanilla wafers, whipped cream.

Bring cider to boil, add sugar and spice. Blend cornstarch with cold water. Into it stir a little hot cider, then stir cornstarch mixture into remaining hot cider. Cook over hot water 15 minutes. Line a pie plate with wafters, cutting to fit and standing upright around side. Fill with cooked mixture. Chill. Top with whipped cream and serve. Makes one 8-inch pie.

* * *

EGGNOG PIE—2 teaspoons gelatin, 3 tablespoons cold water, ¾ cup unsweetened evaporated milk, ½ cup water, 2 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, rum flavoring, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ cup cream, whipped, 1 package orange wafers.

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Combine milk and ½ cup water and heat in double boiler. Beat egg yolk with sugar and salt, and stir hot milk into them. Return to double boiler and stir until thickened. Remove from fire, add gelatin and flavoring. Cool, beat with rotary egg beater, and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and cream. Line pie plate with orange wafers and fill with above mixture. 6 portions.

* * *

JUNGLE SOUP—1 cupful dry split peas, 3 pints water, 1 can bouillon, 1 can tomato soup, salt and pepper to taste.

Place peas in a large saucepan without a lid (well washed) and add 3 pints of cold water. Bring to the boiling point. Allow to simmer until the water cooks down and the peas are cooked to soft, wet paste. Now add the two cans of soup, stir and simmer for a few minutes. Submitted by Mrs. J. H. Asthalter, Latham street.

CITY INVITES NEW BIDS ON GARBAGE

The City Health Department will today advertise for new bids on the North Side garbage and rubbish collection and disposal contract, according to Health Director Ray P. Moyer.

All bids for 1934 on the contract, including that of the Allegheny Garbage Company, which has been doing the work under the 1933 schedule, have been rejected.

In the meantime, the Allegheny Garbage Company has been told to clean up the dump on Herr's Island, which was inspected recently by Director Moyer. The company, it is reported, is complying with his request.

Dr. Moyer also said that no license has been granted by County Commissioners to the Allegheny Garbage Company. The lack of a license is the obstacle which prevented the award of the 1934 contract originally to the Spiniello Construction Company, low bidders.

The decision of commissioners in refusing a license to the Spiniello Company has been appealed in court.

Dr. Moyer announced that he has rejected bids with the hope of improving service and general health conditions. Before an award is made on the new contract, he declared, the bidder must have a license.

Dr. Moyer's action was taken after he received a written recommendation from three bureau officials, Dr. H. J. Benz, Dr. C. Caskey and George W. Schusler, who described the Allegheny Garbage Company's plant on Herr's Island as "dangerous to health."

The American Reduction Company, which holds the contract for the larger portion of the city, may bid on the North Side contract, it is reported. The new contract will be for eight months.

Legion Leader Warns Against Joining League

these lines, in all fairness to the President and to the citizens of the United States, should be broad and comprehensive, thorough and complete. If there are those rapping at the door of the official household who would destroy it by tearing down the Constitution upon which it is founded, then it is the duty of the Congress to give the President the benefit of definite knowledge of their existence.

WE ARE NOT at this time vitally concerned with the individual who stands on a soap box and orates. But if there are people of influence within the inner circles of government who preach tenets inimical to the very basis of our government itself, then, without any partisanship, without any intention of undermining anyone's political influence, the American Legion says:

"Drag them out into the open for all to see."

In so doing let us see to it that no one is allowed to be crucified unfairly. Fair-mindedness dictates that anyone accused is presumed innocent of the accusation until proven guilty, but when a man as high up as Mr. Brookhart, who draws a salary from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of this government, makes the public statement from a bureau of our government, that he is in favor of what amounts to a communal state, then, so far as that gentleman is concerned, there is very little investigation needed, and his removal from the payroll and influence in the government is clearly indicated.

An adequate investigation should be made. Sincere effort should be expended to determine who are advocates of Communistic activities in our government, destructive to our Constitution. When this is done, it is my firm conviction that among them will be found men who are ardent advocates of this new effort to gain American adherence to the League of Nations and its World Court.

LET ME warn you, my firends, that you must not be lulled into a sense of false security just because Congress in the past has refrained from approving the entry of the United States into the League Court.

The situation is serious. I call upon you, the home-loving, Constitution-supporting, patriotic people of the United States, to join with the American Legion, to again shoulder arms, and form a united front continuing the battle to uphold and defend the Constitution of these United States; to crush into defeat those internationalists who forsake the advice of George Washington and who would bring our beloved country to the brink of another war by entangling our national affairs in foreign complications incident to adherence to a so-called court, the majority membership of which represents other national interests.

Thank you very much.

PEACE REIGNS IN TOWNSHIP

Peace reigned today in Baldwin Township, where for three months bitter warfare has been waged by new and holdover members of the Board of Township Commissioners. Several times it has led to court action.

At a meeting of old and new members in the municipal building last night William E. Armstrong, a holdover member, was named president, and Peter Kuenzig, a new member, was named vice president. Others named were:

Solicitor, Irwin I. Tryon, succeeding Henry A. Jones; road supervisor, James Stokes, succeeding William Uecker, and building inspector, Elmer Nordsiek, succeeding Charles Heinen, all new members.

Friction among the commissioners broke out when the old members of the commission wanted Armstrong as president, which was opposed by the new members who wanted Kuenzig.

GARDEN HOSE SAVES HOME

A small garden hose was successfully employed early today to extinguish a fire which threatened the home of J. F. Boyce, at Boyce Station, Upper St. Clair Township, after calls had been sent to five fire companies, including the fire department at the City Home at Mayview.

The damage was slight.

Members of the Boyce family said aid had been asked of Mt. Lebanon, Canonsburg, Bethel Township, Bridgeville and the Pittsburgh fire department, but for some reason, unexplained, they refused to respond.

Doom Mathematics As Graduation Bar

MINNEAPOLIS, April 13.—(AP.)—There was a time when the "dunce" in mathetmatics could not get a college degree. That time is gone, educators said today.

They commented on the fact that Northwestern University has abolished mathematics as a specific requirement for the bachelor's degree. Northwestern is merely one of the last stragglers getting into line, they said.

Man Who Married At 92 Dies at 96

CLARE, Mich., April 13.—(AP.)—Joseph Youman, who decided to run for public office when he was 90 years old, married his third wife at 92 and took a 14-mile walk when he was 95, died here today after a week's illness.

He was 96. His widow, Emma, 70, survives him. Only two weeks ago he had been re-elected township constable.

ASSERTS M'NAIR HURTS TAX PLAN

Dr. B. J. Hovde, new vice chairman of the League for Social Justice, declared at a meeting last night in the downtown Y. M. C. A. that Mayor McNair had made the single tax theory ridiculous. He added:

"Before the present Mayor was inaugurated, single tax theory might have deserved some consideration, but he has made it ridiculous."

Dr. Hovde spoke at the annual meeting of the organization, at which approval was given to the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill, the Norris-Lea constitutional amendment for the direct election of the President, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and the Tugwell pure food and drugs bill in original form.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS! :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

"A sweet little dexterous half way."

A phrase of my own origin, and it has gotten me into trouble.

I used it several days ago in answering Betty Lou in my Speak Up, Sister, column.

And I'm on the carpet for it.

The trouble with phrases, they are like paint and powder. They're all right when used with discretion. But the sinister quality comes in the day we go too far.

And evidently that is what Much-Chased Adolphus thinks I did when I wrote "a sweet little dexterous half way."

Between you and me, I really believe he is like most men. He is merely trying to save his own neck.

For he says the girls do not need such advice. They're all chasers, anyway. And the trouble is, to be able to keep out of their way.

FEELS LIKE BESSIE

But I'm swept under, all the same. I feel like a bug peeping from under the corner of the rug. Explaining one's words often falls flat. I can do considerable reading between the lines for my readers. But when it comes to unraveling the real meaning of one of my phrases, I'm something like Bessie, a little girl I went to school with, who slapped Norman.

The teacher called her to account. "Why did you slap Norman?" she asked.

"My hand jus' slipped," explained Bessie.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I read your advice eagerly. I'm a young man. And that's going some. Isn't it? We're supposed not to need your advice, like the girls. We're the naughty hoodlums of the world who go far, and return to have the fatted calf killed. But what's supposed to be, and what is, often are not born in the same manger. I disagree with you, Miss Brunot, in one thing. I don't think, girls of today need to be told to go "a sweet little dexterous half way" with boys. At least the ones I run around with don't. And I don't even have to put out a lump of sugar to coax them, either.

I'm no woman hater. In fact I have a soft spot in my heart all my own for the weaker sex, as they are called in literature. But there, again, I say, literature is all wrong.

AREN'T WEAK

Even the older women I know aren't weak. Take my mother for instance. She winds dad around her finger as if he was floss. And he can argue and be mad 'til doomsday, but she wins every time.

It's gotten to be at our house that dad just gives in before he starts. It's just a case all around of "Ask your mother."

So please, Miss Brunot, for the welfare of mankind, don't be putting tricks into the girls' heads. They know enough to make any Fido dance now. At my house at dinner time, the telephone buzzes continually, and it's always for me. And always some skirt. It gets under dad's skin terribly. For sometimes he has some hot business deal coming in over the wire. And it gets cold before he gets it.

Sometimes mother wants the line, too, to call up some bridge fiend or some club woman. Or sometimes she's expecting Aunt Annie to call her. And does she get it?

No, sir-ee, the girls have the wire. And it's for me.

Dad threatens to have our telephone taken out. But he won't. He wouldn't dare.

What dad calls these friends of mine couldn't be put in print. He says the girls of today ought to take a lesson from the girls when mother was young. I smirk silently at that. For I'll bet she gave him one lively chase. Knowing her.

SKEPTICAL OF WOMEN

Now, I'm not saying a word against my mater. She is one bully woman. And most everything I have I've gotten by way of her. Even so, don't give these fair creatures an ell, please. They'll take a mile every time.

Hoping you aren't mad. But that you'll explain the reason why, of such phrases as "a sweet little dexterous half way" that you handed out to Betty Lou. Hand her over to me, please. I'll trot her to that prom.

A sweet little woman who hasn't her mouth open all the time asking a fellow to go somewhere that he'd as leave not be. She'd be for me every time.

MUCH CHASED ADOLPHUS.

Well, Much Chased Adolphus, you've had rocky paths. Maybe the trouble is, you have no initiative. There are two kinds of men, an old poem tells us: The LIFTERS and the LEANERS. And if you are of the latter variety, you'll have to have somebody to lean against. Be it mother or sweetheart. And although you cry out against it, such will always be your lot.

NOT AGGRESSIVE TYPE

The phrase you mention that I used, I still consider a good one for Betty Lou. It is not one that I would have to give to all my girls, I admit. But Betty Lou is not an aggressive type. She would think twice before she hung on any young man's telephone line. Betty Lou is of the gentle, feminine variety of sisters. And invariably such girls are the LOSERS where the more aggressive girls are to be found. Secretly nearly all young men imagine they admire the Betty Lous. But when it comes to going out with the fair ones, and even marrying them, you are all liable to fall right into the arms of the sort who keep your telephone line busy at dinner time.

It is said, Much Chased Adolphus, that we are like magnets, and attract what we want. How about it? We also inherit a good deal. Maybe you inherited the sort of girls you get from your dad. He loved and married your mother, you know.

Wife Watches Husband's Response to Other Women—Fay King

THE ONE THAT HE NOTICES MORE THAN SHE OBSERVES HIM
I DON'T LIKE THAT WOMAN!
SHE DOES NOT FEAR SOME OF THE MOST PERSISTENT 'VAMPS'
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The wife of a husband who is attractive to other women is usually shrewd.

Other women observe how generous she is, without the least jealousy. She sits and smiles almost approvingly as other women persistently pursue her husband.

Because she well knows she has nothing to fear from silly women whose too obvious vamping only embarrasses her husband. He can't "see" them.

On the other hand, she may suddenly, for no apparent reason, take a dislike to a certain woman. One that has paid the least, if any, attention to her husband.

But she has observed her handsome husband cast a few oblique glances in that direction. This has been danger warning enough! It is only when HE shows the least interest that she worries.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Trump Management

When the Declarer finds at the very start of the hand that he is faced with an unfavorable trump distribution, the problem of making game, while perhaps not insoluble, at least can usually be solved only on the basis of a proper answer to the question of how to handle the trumps. If a satisfactory answer to this question can be found, then in all likelihood the Declarer will have the pleasure of making a contract by really interesting play—as Mr. Millard F. Bird, of Nutley, N. J., playing recently with Mr. Nathan Bowen as his partner, did on the following hand:

North—Dealer.

	♠ A 8 7 4 ♡ Q 5 ◇ 8 7 2 ♣ K 10 9 8
♠ 10 9 5 2 ♡ 10 4 ◇ A 9 3 ♣ 6 5 4 2	North West East South	♠ Q ♡ K 8 6 3 ◇ K 10 6 4 ♣ Q J 7 3
	♠ K J 6 3 ♡ A J 9 7 2 ◇ Q J 5 ♣ A

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 N T	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bid of one heart was, of course, entirely sound, and North's Takeout with one no-trump after his pass is equally obvious. South's effort to find a better spot at which to play the hand explains the two-spade bid. Mr. Bird's four-spade bid after North had raised to three spades was perhaps over-ambitious, but in this, as in some other cases, the result justified the bidding.

West's Opening lead was the club 6, East put up the Knave, and South's lone Ace won. Mr. Bird then led the three of spades, West followed with the deuce, and East's Queen dropped on Dummy's Ace. The next play was the heart Queen, East played low, Mr. Bird played the deuce, and the Queen held the trick. Another heart was led, and on East's low play the Knave was finessed. At this point Mr. Bird made a very fine play. He led the heart 7, and West was obviously in a difficult situation. To ruff with a high card would permit the capture of his remaining trumps later. He feared on the basis of South's strong bidding that South held the diamond King, which was a wrong guess, of course. Had he ruffed with the nine, returned the Ace of diamonds, and followed with another diamond, East could have won and permitted him another ruff with his remaining high trump. This would have defeated the contract instead of permitting its fulfillment, but West probably is not to be too severely criticized in view of all the bidding.

West actually played the nine of diamonds, whereupon Mr. Bird ruffed with the four, led two rounds of trumps, and then led the Ace of hearts. West again discarded, and when the heart 9 was led to the next trick, ruffed with his remaining trump and led diamonds. In this way East and West cashed three tricks—the trump 10 and the Ace-King of diamonds.

While, as was pointed out, East and West could have defeated the contract by more subtle defense, Mr. Bird's plan of play is deserving of praise.

Glycerine will remove tea stains from delicate fabrics if it is allowed to soak into the affected parts a little while before they are washed with soap and water.

Warm milk in which a little shredded soap has been dissolved is excellent for cleaning kid gloves. Pull the gloves on to the hands and apply with a pad or soft rag.

White of egg will relieve chapped hands. Also, if applied before doing housework it will protect the hands and leave them soft and clean after washing.

Knife handles that have become yellow can be restored to their original whiteness by being sponged with a strong solution of peroxide of hydrogen and cold water.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Has Grantland Succumbed to Lure of Youth?

As Mrs. Arlen rushed toward the motor car which had just come into the farmyard, with the cry "My baby's safely back again, thank God!" Lillian Underwood moved swiftly to my side, and I felt her reassuring hand firmly clasping my arm.

"Pipe the melodrama!" she murmured from the side of her mouth. Then in the same tone, but I knew with intensified meaning, she added, "Steady, girl! Old Phil is up to something. Don't let him score on you!"

I returned the pressure of her fingers.

"Never fear!" I murmured back. And indeed, whether from the knowledge of her loyalty and understanding, or from resentment at the motive behind Philip Veritzen's action, understanding of which had just flashed upon me, I felt suddenly strong—keyed up for any social emergency.

Hugh Grantland descended from his car before Fanny Arlen reached it, and turned to give his hand to Avis, who had not stirred from her seat. She was looking out over the group upon the lawn with much the same effect as if she were gazing at them through a lifted lorgnette.

AVIS IGNORES MOTHER

"Lady Vere de Vere looking at the populace," Lillian murmured. And then Fanny Arlen's voice sounded again.

"Oh! My baby!" she exclaimed emotionally. "I was so afraid you were lost!"

Avis did not reply for a second. She was too engaged in accepting Hugh Grantland's proffered hand, in descending from the car with what she evidently considered to be swaying grace and in lifting her eyes with their cleverly affixed artificial lashes to his in languishing gratitude.

"Such a heavenly drive!" she cooed. "I never can thank you enough for taking me with you in this marvelous car."

"The pleasure is mine," Hugh replied, with a banality which I never had heard from him, and then Avis replied to the plaint which her mother was repeating.

"Lost? Mother!" she said and there was a tang in her voice which savored strongly of the disrespect with which I guessed she treated her mother when no one else was around. "How could you think that, when I was with Maj. Grantland? He took such marvelous care of me! And the drive in this heavenly moonlight! Oh! I never shall forget the wonderful picture the breakers made, crashing in on the beach with their foam glittering in the moonlight! Didn't you think it was wonderful, Hugh?"

AUDACITY ASTONISHING

"Hugh!" I think the rest of the group caught their respective breaths in the same astonishment that swept me at her audacity. Or was it audacity? Had Hugh by any chance succumbed to the lure of her youth and her exaggerated femininity, to the extent of asking her to call him by his given name?

Harry Underwood effectually postponed any answer to that mental query until some later time. With a poorly concealed chuckle he crossed to Hugh and clapped the army officer on the shoulder.

"You're sure to be congratulated, you two," he boomed. "You've spotted a phenomenon of nature that ought to be chronicled by the scientists. It's a still, moonlit night, with hardly a breeze stirring, and yet you saw breakers crashing on the beach. You're sure, Hugh, that you didn't tote a flask along?"

"Very sure," Hugh said shortly, as Avis slipped her arm through his possessively.

EXPLAINS EXAGGERATION

"You mustn't rag Major Grantland because of my exaggeration," she said, with a possessive air that I had to admit sat prettily upon her. "I suppose it was ridiculous of me to speak of breakers crashing, but you see I am not very familiar with the ocean. I live inland, you know."

She had managed to inject a distinct note of pathos into her voice, an inflection calculated to make Mr. Underwood deeply ashamed of his ribald comment. And as she uttered the words, she cast a languishing glance up at Hugh, with the palpable expectation that he would rush to her defense.

But Hugh was impervious to her appeal. With a courteous, formal bow, he murmured a hurried excuse, then crossed the lawn to where my father stood near me.

"May I speak to you a moment, Chief?" he said deferentially.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

The spooks might be abounding today but that won't bother the Joyce family of Mount Washington. The son of the house, Ernest Patrick Joyce, made his first appearance on Friday, the thirteenth of November, 1931.

Friday the Thirteenth is their lucky day.

* * *

If there is anything to superstition then Domenic Mollica, McKees Rocks, has what might be considered a real Lucky Piece.

It is a half dollar that he presented to his young son to play with twenty-five years ago when the youngster was about two years old. The young man promptly dropped the coin in a crack between the baseboard and the floor of the kitchen.

Twenty-five years rolled by, the coin forgotten, and the Mollica family had moved to a new location.

Last week, feeling sentimental, Mr. Mollica decided to visit the old house where he lived when first he married, the house in which his son first saw the light of day.

He received permission to go through it and while standing in the kitchen he recalled the episode of the fifty cent piece and curiosity compelled him to see if it was still there.

He removed the baseboard, loose already with age and disrepair, and there, sure enough, was the half dollar hiding in the cranny where it had been reposing for the past twenty-five years.

Mr. Mollica says that he will never part with it.

It will be his charm to keep depressions away.

Radio Folk Scoff at Jinx

By AIRCASTER

Friday the 13th—two-dollar bills—spilled salt — stepladders — black cats—all those things mean nothing to radio people, except the two-dollar bills.

But it's a popular superstition in some parts of the South that whatever you are doing when you hear a cuckoo for the first time, you will do most frequently all through the year.

So mind your p's and q's during Ray Knight's program Wednesday nights.

* * *

"There's absolutely nothing in this jinx business." Ed Wynn insists. "Why, a fire chief has to walk under ladders all the time. The only thing I'm superstitious about is sleeping thirteen in a bed."

* * *

A curious superstition among the street urchins of Paris is that it's unlucky to pass a white horse. To break the ill luck, the passer must immediately touch a piece of wood.

My helper, Jimmy Gilfeather, scratches his head.

* * *

The Jimmy Murrays of WJAS and Frank Mulloys of WCAE have no fears. The stork is held in beloved reverence as an omen of good fortune.

* * *

NOTHING TO IT

"For years I've been going around on Fridays the 13th, scared to death," said Graham McNamee, "and all because my name has 13 letters, and it's time to call a halt.

"These stories about radio people being superstitious are the bunk. They're in the same class with the yarns about all policemen having flat feet, and all Englishmen avoiding the theater on Friday nights for fear they'll laugh in church on Sunday."

* * *

Walter O'Keefe doesn't care to take chances with anyones else life, he says.

"I wouldn't dare to sing 'The Man on the Flying Trapeze' on Friday, the 13th, blackguard that he is. I just can't do it. He might fall off."

* * *

MORE COMING

"Friday, July 13, is comin', too."

The Cap'n confessed that he had been worried all day because Mrs. Winninger had tossed her hat on the bed.

No Radio people aren't superstitious. Not much.

* * *

They say that when Stokowski led the Philadelphia Symphony from a prancing hobby-horse the other day, a fiddler squeaked a few bars of "We Love Mounted Music."

Poison Liquor Sign Ordered Removed

HARRISBURG, April 13.—(AP.)—Offices of the Liquor Control Board said yesterday that the "poison" placard adorning the window display of a state store in Johnstown was a device intended to discourage thievery. It will be removed.

As the result of an attempt to steal from window displays, the board directed a number of store managers to post signs announcing that the bottles exhibited were merely "dummies" and were filled with water. A board attache said the "poison" sign was the Johnstown managers' idea of complying with the intent of the order.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Team of four play is scheduled for today, and the pair championship tomorrow.

Defer Auction of River Steamboat

The public auction of the packet, Senator Cordill, scheduled for Tuesday in the Federal Building, has been postponed until May 17, Judge Nelson McVicar granted the postponement on petition of Attourney Ralfe O. P. Silverman, representing M. D. Meder, trustee, and John W. Hubbard, owner, of the vessel. The packet is now in the hands of United States Army engineers, who are holding it for reimbursement on the cost of salvage after the packet struck wickets at Dam No. 14, Ohio River, several months ago, and sank, interfering with navigation until moved by the engineers.

Aged Couple Seeks Farm Life Thrill

GREENLEAF, Kan., April 13.—(AP.)—Several years ago life on the farm grew dull for L. T. Stout and he and his wife moved here where they thought they would find plenty of activity.

This week the 85-year-old man and his wife, two years his junior, packed up and went back to the farm. They explained:

URGES FEDERAL CARE OF ILL

Government hospitals are overcrowded and so-called voluntary hospitals have not the money to meet costs of free care to the unemployed, Michael M. Davis, director of the medical services of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago, declared yesterday. He was speaking at the closing session of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania in the William Penn Hotel. He said in part:

"The hospital care of people on relief and of people too poor to pay even a monthly sum will have to be met mostly by the government. For the rest, the experience of millions of people in England and of several thousands in some American cities, shows that plans of voluntary hospital insurance are entirely practical and will enable most people to pay for their hospital care by contributing from 50 to 75 cents a month? Such hospitalization plans, of types approved by the American Hospital Association, are now under way in about 30 cities."

Other speakers were Homer Wickenden, New York; Dr. Bert W. Caldwell, of the American Hospital Association, and Gifford K. Wright, Pittsburgh attorney.

Indorse Candidacy of Attorney Zappala

The candidacy of Attorney Frank J. Zappala for state legislator from the Fifth District of the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Wards was indorsed by the Itamerica Club of Pittsburgh last night. One of the founders of the organization, Zappala is a former president and chairman of the board of directors.

Lawn Street Youth Freed in Killing

Walter Zera, 25, of 68 Lawn street, was freed today following a manslaughter trial in the killing of Elmer Jackson, 50 of Noll Hill street, in an automobile accident last November. A jury acquitted the youth yesterday but ordered him to pay the costs of the trial. Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff heard the case.

Workmen at the task of erasing the painted signs that three years ago proclaimed the candidacy of State Senator James J. Coyne for the County Commission. Motorists had to see the defaced walls daily all this time, but nothing was done. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

YOUTH JAILED IN KILLING

Rainard Malley, 20, of 1243 Grotto street, was in the county jail today awaiting action of the grand jury in connection with the murder of John G Reifenbach, 69, a bakery watchman, fatally beaten last February when, homicide detectives testified, he attempted to eject Malley from the baking plant where the aged man was employed.

Malley surrendered at the Coroner's inquest yesterday. When detectives attempted to obtain a statement from him, he refused to talk, the sleuths reported. Reifenbach's jaw was fractured when he was struck by Malley, the detectives asserted. He died March 24 in Pittsburgh Hospital.

COURT STUDIES LAWYER'S PAY

Whether the Court of Quarter Sessions, in an effort to save expense to the public treasury, has the right to stipulate with a lawyer to render service to the court, is up before the Superior Court of Pennsylvania for decision.

The question was argued yesterday on the appeal of George M. O'Hora from the order of Quarter Sessions Court of Venango County, which granted a motion to quash a petition and order granting O'Hora counsel fees.

The County Commissioners, after several demands on them had been made, refused payment. The appellant, who had been appointed by the court, then took an appeal.

Other cases argued included those of Mrs. Gladys Parkins against the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, who appealed from the judgment of Common Pleas Court of Somerset County, on a workman's compensation question; Somerset County against Paul Redrick and F. E. Trimpey, involving questions on a bond; Leo S. Friedline against Somerset Borough, appeal in an assumpsit case.

JUNIOR PATROL

The weather yesterday surely did surprise us, fellows

We have had snow many times in April before, but those snowflakes coming after so many mild days caught us off guard. We hurried to get an overcoat out of the cupboard, and put on our gloves again.

But we shouldn't have been surprised, we admit that. The smart fellow isn't often surprised no matter what happens. He tries to look ahead and see what is probably going to happen. But when he does, he has his reasons. If he thinks that it might snow in April, it is because he knows it has snowed in Pittsburgh in April many times before.

Many people try to look ahead in some mysterious way. They look into crystal balls, or they interpret dreams, or they play hunches. That is silly stuff, fellows. No one knows the future. No one knows what number is going to turn up—for certain.

But everybody can learn to know that when some things happen, others will happen, too. For instance, when the streets are slippy, automobiles skid. When automobiles skid there are usually accidents. And sometimes people are so badly hurt that they die. That is the way the first man figured who put chains on his tires. The rough chains gripped the wet road, or dug into the snow and ice, and kept the cars from skidding.

It took men a long time to realize that when you boil water you make steam and that steam power can drive an engine and a locomotive. But finally one man did it, and now there are thousands of engines. Today, steam engines do much of the work men and animals had to do with their muscles in old times.

Another man noticed that when gunpowder exploded it had force in it. He got the notion that he could put some of it in a tube—a gun barrel—and put a bullet or ball in front of the powder, and then explode the powder and the bullet would be shot out of the gun at great speed and force. And so firearms were invented, all the way from a small pistol to the huge cannon that guard our coasts.

Think about these things, fellows. Figure out for yourselves how things are done, and try to figure out something new—some way of doing a thing or making a thing that no one has thought about before. You can invent something yourself.

Hospital 'Raided,' Head Suspended

NEW YORK, April 13.—(Universal).—In a one-man "raid" on Cumberland Hospital, Brooklyn, Commissioner Goldwater looked around the institution for 20 minutes and then suspended Dr. Peter J. Johnson, medical superintendent, on charges of incompetency and insubordination.

He charged that in making appointments to the hospital staff Dr. Johnson was accepting dictation from Brooklyn politicians.

Old Bucs, Senators Gone Few Remain Since 1925 Hitting on Tip-Off Sign

Shellenback Sets Mark Panthers Help Schools Clinics Grow in Favor

How quickly even the strongest baseball clubs fade out will be clear to all eyes here tomorrow afternoon, when the 1934 Pirates make a preliminary appearance before the home fans in an attractive exhibition game with the Washington Senators at Forbes Field. That the life of a major league team is brief becomes evident when you scan the present Pittsburgh and Washington squads and recall how those clubs were made up when they clashed in the World Series of 1925. That was only eight years ago last fall, yet out of a total of 39 players who took part in that classic, Pie Traynor is the lone survivor among the Buccaneers, while the Senators retain just Buddy Myer and Ossie Bluege.

Buddy Myer

All the rest of the 18 players who played for Pittsburgh and the 21 used by Washington are with different clubs or have passed out of the majors. Bill McKechnie and Bucky Harris, the opposing managers, are now rival pilots in Boston. Walter Johnson has long since given up pitching and is managing Cleveland. The only Buccaneers of the 1925 derby still in the majors, aside from Traynor and McKechnie, are Kiki Cuyler, George Grantham and Eddie Moore, the last named picked up by the Indians recently in an emergency. The only Washington survivors in the big show, apart from Harris, Johnson, Myer and Bluege, are Goose Goslin, Fred Marberry, Sam Rice, Joe Judge, Muddy Ruel and Tom Zachary.

The others have gone out of the fast set—Max Carey, Clyde Barnhart, Glenn Wright, Carson Bigbee, Earl Smith, Stuffy McInnis, Johnny Gooch, Babe Adams, Vic Aldridge, Remy Kremer, Johnny Morrison, Lee Meadows, Emil Yde and Johnny Oldham, of the Pirates; and Roger Peckinpaugh, Joe Harris, Earl McNeely, Bob Veach, Stanley Coveleskie, Dutch Ruether, Harry Leibold, Alex Ferguson, Hank Severeid, Win Ballou and Spencer Adams, of the Senators.

MANY STARS REFUSE TO HIT WITH SIGNS

The usual attempts to detect what the opposing pitcher was going to throw and then to tip it off to the batter were in evidence in many of the exhibition games again this spring, but Harry Salsinger reports finding among the good hitters of the majors a growing disinclination to follow the system.

However, many of the best hitters in the game refuse to accept the signals. Charley Gehringer is one of the present lot declining to hit with signs. Rogers Hornsby always refused to let anyone signal him as to what was coming. Harry Heilmann was another. Numerous capable hitters believe that knowing what a pitcher is going to throw handicaps rather than helps them. Besides, there is a certain amount of danger. A signal snatcher may misinterpret the pitcher's move, read the catcher's sign incorrectly, or the enemy may suddenly cross him up, and many batters have been hurt severely by stepping into what they were told would be a fast ball, only to discover too late, that it was a curve, or vice versa.

COAST SPITBALLER SMASHES OLD RECORD

One of the greatest minor league pitchers in the country was kept out of the majors by adverse baseball fates. Frank Shellenback, now hurling for Hollywood, in the Pacific Coast League, was denied a chance for a career in the big show because he is a spitballer. In the very year that saw Shellenback start out as a professional, 1920, the majors locked the gates against any newcomers using the saliva pitch. Restricted to the minors for life, Shelly proceeded to make the most of his lot, and he has continued his labors to such good effect that he has now smashed all Coast League pitching records.

Frank Shellenback

When he won a 6-to-3 decision over Oakland recently, the Hollywood spitter established an all-time slab mark for the Pacific loop, as it gave him a total of 262 victories, and the highest previous total was 261, set by Spider Baum in a career of 17 seasons. Oddly enough, Baum is now secretary of the club for which Shellenback is pitching, and which, incidentally, includes two Pittsburghers in Jimmy Levey and George Susce. Shelly did the trick in a little more than 14 years. He spent six seasons with Vernon, one with Sacramento, and has worn a Hollywood uniform since 1926. Shelly has pitched 502 games and 3,650 innings. Against his 262 victories he has lost 150 games. In 1931 he won 27 and lost only 7. Five times he has won more than 20 victories, three times he reached 19, and twice he attained 18. In the last three years he won 74 games and lost only 29. He might have gone far in the majors.

PITT DOES MUCH FOR SCHOOL ATHLETICS

Few institutions have done, or tried to do, as much for the development of physical education in the high schools in recent years as has the University of Pittsburgh through the activities of its department of intercollegiate athletics in that field. At various times during the year, as the season of each sport reaches its peak in turn, Pitt athletic heads endeavor to give the high school coaches and players in the tri-state area the benefits of the knowledge possessed by the mentors of the different Panther teams.

Dr. H. C. Carlson started it four years ago with his basketball clinic, which has grown from an event commanding the attention of several hundred coaches and players to one drawing thousands. Dr. J. B. Sutherland followed one year later with his first football clinic, which attracted more than a thousand to start with, and at which the attendance is steadily increasing from season to season.

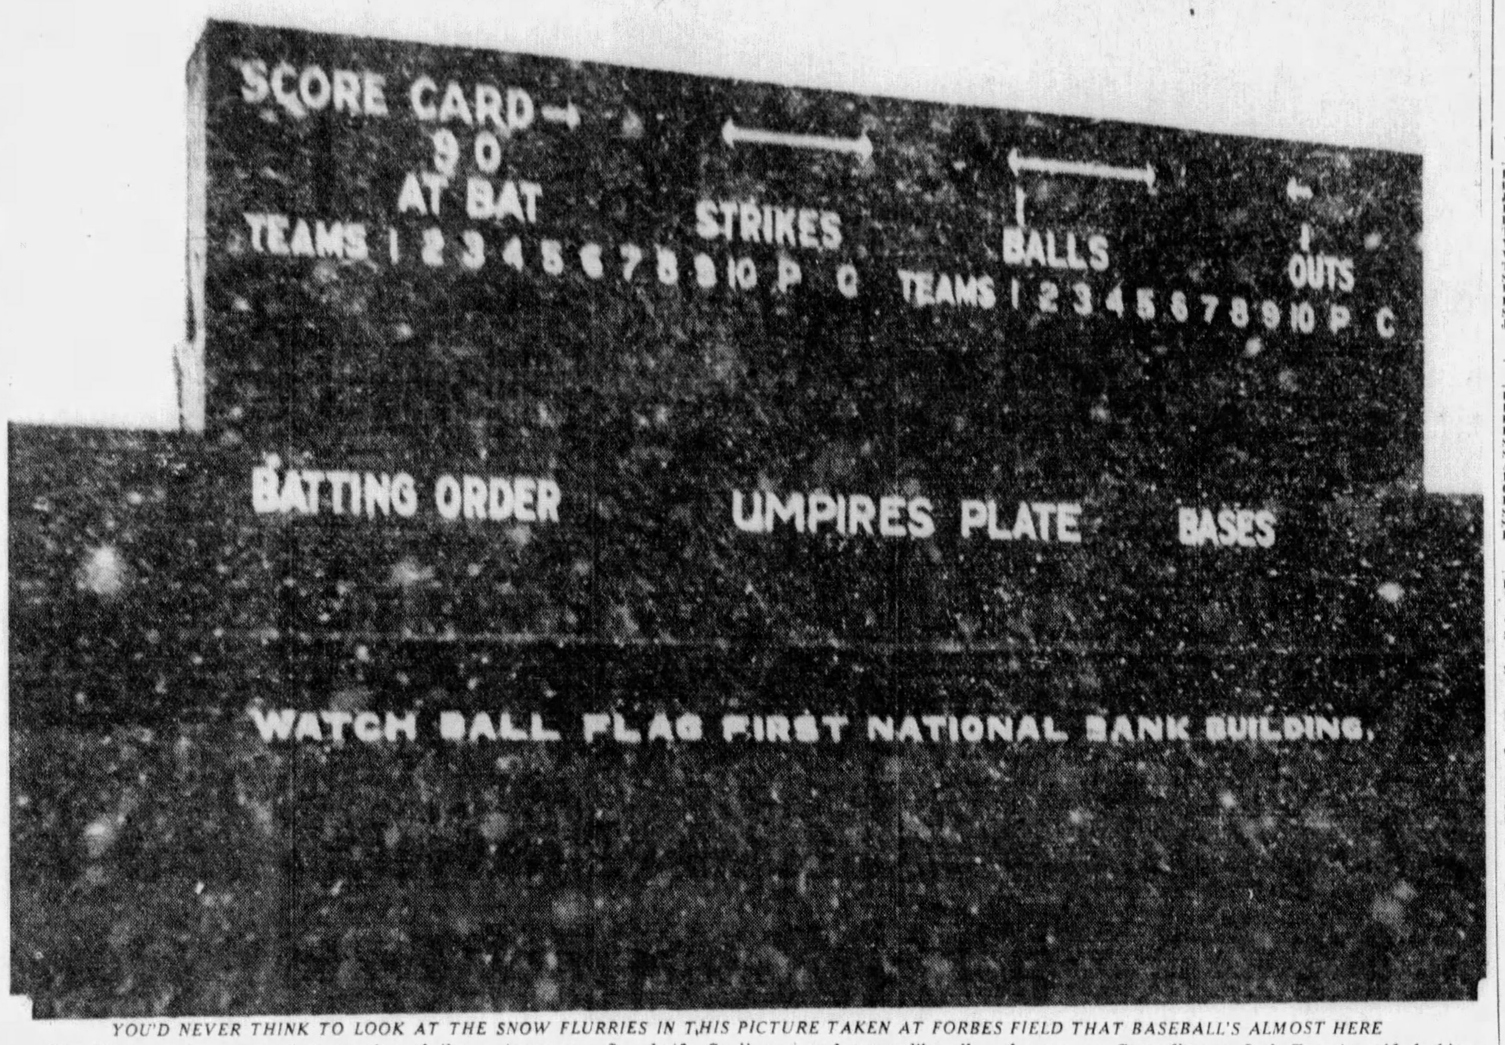
GRID CLINIC ON BIGGER SCALE THAN EVER

This year, three of the most famous football mentors in the country will preside at the gridiron clinic, and with Lou Little and Eddie Casey, head coaches at Columbia and Harvard, respectively, co-operating with Dr. Sutherland, Pitt plans to give in the course of a single day as much instruction as might ordinarily be given in three or four days at a coaching school.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

Patt Corr's swimming clinic in 1933 was a complete success, and tomorrow Carl Olson, with Dr. Sutherland assisting, will put on Pitt's first track and field clinic. That this will go over in fine style is assured by the large number of coaches who have signified their intention of attending. In addition to these clinics, there are the annual interscholastic track, swimming, tennis and volleyball meets conducted by the university, which make it possible for the best high school athletes of the region to compete against one another. Pitt's annual interscholastic track and field meet is one of the oldest sports events in this part of the country, this year's meet being the twenty-seventh of the series.

Snow, Snow—And the Pirates Due to Play Here Tomorrow



YOU'D NEVER THINK TO LOOK AT THE SNOW FLURRIES IN THIS PICTURE TAKEN AT FORBES FIELD THAT BASEBALL'S ALMOST HERE

The Pirates make a premature opening of the home baseball season with an exhibition game against the Washington Senators at Forbes Field tomorrow. So what? So it goes and snows like all git out two days before and also today, and there's no telling what the morrow may bring forth. That's April for you, as Groundkeeper Jack Fogarty said, looking sadly upon the scene of his patient endeavors. Well, here's hoping. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

CORUM WANTS SENATE PROBE OF ROBINS

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The Brooklyn Baseball Club is in Washington, D. C., at this writing, thus presenting what seems to us an unusual opportunity to the Senate of the United States.

We think the Senate should investigate the Robins now. It must be obvious to all readers of the daily prints that the Senate will eventually get around to investigating the Robins, if only on the grounds that the time cannot be far off when they will have investigated everything and everybody else.

As a basis for this proposed investigation, the gentlemen of the Senate are hereby advised that there have been some strange goings-on in the ranks of the Robins this spring. It has been days and days—if not, indeed, weeks—since the Robins tried to pull a doublesteal with the bases full.

And that is not all. The report has reached my ears from thoroughly reliable sources that the Brooklyn team is behaving just like any other team thus far this season. These well-authenticated reports even go so far as to hint that some of the players are keeping track of the runs and outs for themselves. For 15 years at Ebbets Field they have been leaving that to the boy at the scoreboard. If that is not revolution, then surely it is the first step toward it.

Why, don't I remember going down into the Brooklyn dugout before a game some seasons back and overhearing one Robin player inquire of another:

"Who are we playing today, Babe?"

To which Herman replied:

"I don't know. Let's send up in the grandstand and get a scorecard."

Yes, my dear Senators, that man Stengel, who took over the Brooklyn team this spring, is a dangerous radical. He is trying to surround himself with a brain trust over there in Brooklyn. Indeed your investigation may disclose that the Robins and the brain trust are now one and the same thing.

Big John Valenti Back as Tackle at Pitt

Former Sub, Scaling 260 Pounds, Is Great Prospect

By JESS CARVER

If you see the Pitt football team come scampering out on the field next fall looking like a mob, don't become alarmed. Don't rub your eyes. It will only be that John Valenti is at one of the tackles. Everything will be under control.

The 260-pound Philadelphian is back in school again, in tip-top shape and determined to make the Pitt varsity. Just how Big John behaves when he's determined remains to be seen. He's never been determined before . . . for any great space of time. Once in a while, back in '32 and '31, in practice sessions, when he did make up his mind to crash into the first team backfield from his spot on the second eleven, in he crashed, and there was no stopping him. If he's as determined to make one of the varsity tackle jobs, he'll make it.

Valenti has been somewhat of a problem at Pitt. He entered the university and was the biggest man ever to turn out for football, with amazing speed for his great size and with every physical attribute that goes to making a good footballer. But John didn't have the mental makeup. He wasn't stupid or a dumbbell, but he just could not get the idea of things into his coco. Besides, he took a razzing from some of the veterans and let it lick him.

OUT LAST YEAR

They couldn't keep him off the squad, and he did break into some of the 1931 and '32 games, but he never came close to becoming a regular. Last year, he was out of school and no one had any idea that he'd return, but he bobbed up again last semester, made up his class work and turned out for spring practice this year.

John came to Pitt with a fine reputation as a weight man. He still holds the state shot put record and on the few occasions he's taken time off from his social and other duties he's done a creditable job in heaving the iron ball for the Pitts. Unfortunately, those times have been few and even farther between.

It takes two men, and two good men, too, to stop Big John. The end playing against him has to beat the gun, thus running the risk of being offside, and hit him before he can start his charge to stop him. At that, the poor end takes a beating, for all John has to do is fall on 'em a couple of times and the bruises begin to pile up. Give him an even start and he'll be right in the opposition's backfield, which generally serves to cause said opposition no little embarassment. He'll batter the daylights out of one side of an ordinary line in one quarter of play, meanwhile taking little or no punishment himself.

MAY BE A GETTO

Dr. Sutherland and the other Pitt coaches are living in hopes that Big John comes through. Let him get one or two full games under his belt and helmet and Pitt may have another Getto or Quatse.

And if he comes through to a varsity position he'll go through plenty of opposing lines like a tornado through Kansas, or will you take Missouri?

TENNIS LOOP'S FIRST SECTION DIVIDED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A radical revision of the traditional Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League set-up was tentatively decided upon yesterday as President-elect Bob Schmertz met at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club with the executive committee for the initial session of the new governing group of the district net body.

Split of the first division of the loop into two sections, a move contemplated for the past fortnight or so since it has been evident that realignment is a necessity, was agreed upon after lengthy discussion and minute consideration of various possibilities.

DIVISION SPLIT

Under the adopted plan, five squads, P. A. A., Stanton Heights, University Club, Rockwood, and Edgewood, will comprise the upper bracket of the faster circuit, while six outfits—Belmont, Westinghouse, Stanton Heights, Washington Heights, College Avenue and Rockwood—will make up the lower bracket. It will be observed that Stanton Heights and Rockwood aim to place representatives in both loops, a fact contributing no little to the determination of the executive committee to effect the sub-division.

A place in the upper sector has been resedved for Edgewood, though present indications are that that ancient entry in local competition will be off the scene this summer. Several erstwhile suburbanites, however, are priming to band together as a team and probably will be in line whether they play in their old diggings or elsewhere.

Washington Heights and Rockwood Reserves have been drafted from the Second Division to round out the select contingent. Belmont breaks in through post-season playoff victory over College Avenue last year, while the latter delegation remains because it is too good a crew to be deprived of the opportunity of jousting with the top-fighters. Stanton Heights, with 17 able racqueters all duly listed and certified to as to talent by Capt. George Henderson, should take excellent care of its interests in each section.

SIX CLUBS SET

The Second Division roster stands for the present with six aspirants—Minnetonka, Westinghouse Seconds, College Avenue Seconds, Emsworth, United States Bureau of Mines and Consolidated Canoe Clubs. These troupes, with the exception of Consolidated, are holdovers from 1933.

While P. T. A. moguls convened in business session, Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace and top ranking West Penn luminary, beat the unseasonable weather by adjourning to the indoor layout of the Pittsburgh Golf Club and there taking on Dennis King, famous figure of the American and British stage and star of "Richard of Bordeaux" in a stiff three-set brush. King, a southpaw, has been a tennis devotee for many years.

After meeting O'Loughlin, King cantered three more frames with Mr. Ince, a confrere from New Zealand, who had earlier engaged the writer.

CANUCK NET STARS LOSE

PINEHURST, N. C., April 13.—(AP.)—Canada's Davis Cup stars, Walter Martin and Marcel Rainville, were ushered out of the North and South tennis tournament yesterday as four of America's ranking players reached the semi-final round.

Frank X. Shields, of New York, ranked first in this country and top-seeded for the tournament, eliminated Martin in straight sets, 6-3, 9-7, while Rainville won only five games as Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., turned him back.

The other players advancing to the semi-finals were Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, and George Lott, Jr., of Chicago. The Atlantan beat the veteran J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 6-3, 1-6, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4. Lott eliminated Anthony Latona, of Washington, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Taking advantage of his opponent's disastrous second shots, Lester overhauled Robert A. Stranahan, of Toledo, O., 5 and 4 and Topping scored a one-sided victory over Arthur Lynch, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the co-medalist, 7 and 6, yesterday.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 13—The long and oftimes gruelling training trip of the Pirates comes to a close here this afternoon as the Buccos clash with the Chicago White Sox in the fourteenth game of the barnstorming series.

A few hours after the conclusion of this afternoon's scrap, the Gibson clan will roll toward home. The Pittsburghers are due to reach town tomorrow morning at 8:45 o'clock to be ready to cross bats with Joe Cronin's American League champs of Washington.

Gibby will send more than half of his sharpshooters and half of his catchers to Louisville tonight. The Buccos are slated to play there Sunday. From the Kentucky metropolis they will head for St. Louis, where next Tuesday they will open the National League season in competition with Frank Frisch's revamped Cardinals.

BUCS IN TRIM

The Pirate argosy will sail into home water in splendid shape, although the Buccos are a bit weary of riding and sleeping in Pullman cars. Those who go to Forbes Field tomorrow to look over the Pirates are likely to get a thrill out of Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, the 19-year-old Italian lad who will play at second base has been a distinct feature of the Pirate training period. Cookie will be on the keystone post in the inter-league fight with Cronin's club.

Either Leon Chagnon or Clay Blanton will twirl against the Washingtonians. The latter has not been seen at the Oaklar Orchard. He is one of the young righthanders who is impressive despite some beatings received. Hal Finney and Tom Padden will do the catching trick.

The Pirates hung another convincing defeat on the Pale Hose yesterday at Tulsa. The score was 10 to 4. The contest was staged on a field swept by sand and wind. The playing field was in terrible shape in spots and the furious gale made the fans uncomfortable although almost 2,500 paid to see the windy spectacle.

BUC HURLERS STRONG

Bill Swift and Lloyd Johnson stopped the American Leaguers in the clinches, while the Pirates took picks on Recruit Stine, who worked six frames. The Pittsburgh batters, aided by errors and bad hops ran up eight tallies in the second and third innings. Pomorski finished for the Chisox.

The Pittsburgh triumph in Tulsa clinched the 14-game series in favor of the Pirates, who have eight victories to their credit as they made ready for the last clash.

CHILLYSAUCE

Pirate Manager George Gibson stated today he would make an eleventh-hour decision regarding the Buccaneer second baseman and pitcher for the National League opener slated for Tuesday at St. Louis. Gibby apparently leans toward Harry Lavagetto as the keystone fender in the inaugural. But the boss still has the dexterous Thevenow in mind.

The 19-year-old Italian kid has batted safely in the last 16 games in which the Pirates have participated. The Chicago White Sox pitchers have been unable to stop the swarthy skinned lad on the long jaunt across the country, and he shows no signs of weakening, as witness his performance of yesterday, when he rapped out two doubles and a single.

The consensus of opinion in the Pirate camp is that Lavagetto will start the season at second. His showing thus far has convinced them he deserves the chance.

The slight injuries sustained by Heinie Meine and Red Lucas have tended to upset Gibson's opening day slash plans. Gibby had a last-week schedule mapped out which he could not follow and he said last night he would not be sure of his choice before Sunday or Monday.

Meine told this writer last night he felt good again and would be ready if called upon. Heinie's wife has been ill for several weeks and the veteran dropped off the train at St. Louis early this morning. He will join his mates Monday. Gibby may wait to talk to Meine before he makes his final decision.

Gus Suhr has made 11 hits in the last three battles of the Pirates and White Sox. Included in the first baseman's offensive against the White Sox hurlers were a homer, a triple and two doubles.

It would be a great boon to Pittsburgh's flag chances if Gus could have a slugging year at the plate. The good-natured San Franciscan is such a hustler on the sacks a big hitting summer on his part would have a double meaning.

Suhr is a real champion among the endurance players. He plays practically every game through the season and as the long training grind he stays right at his post. Gibby thought he would do Gus a favor by giving him a little relief in a recent game, but that didn't make much of a hit with Gus. When he dressed he wandered around town like a lost sheep.

JACK IN HOSPITAL

DALLAS, Tex., April 13.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, is in Baylor Hospital here today undergoing treatment for what was described as "touch of ptomaine poisoning." His condition was not serious, hospital attendants said.

OPEN HEARTH WINS

MIDLAND, Pa., April 13.—The Open Hearth team won the Crucible League title here last night, winning the third and deciding game of the playoff series from the Service Floor quintet, 31 to 28.

WEST PENN GOLF BODY LAYS PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

TOURNEY DATES ALLOTTED FOR '34 SEASON

By TOM BIRKS

Dates were set for the nine major events and officers elected for the year at the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association held at the Duquesne Club last night.

The only change in the personnel of the executive officers was that George J. McKee, of the Oakmont Country Club, succeeded Robert Smith, of Greensburg, as president. Edward E. McCoy goes into a second term as vice president; George Ormiston, of Oakmont, as secretary, and James W. Barber, of the Alcoma Country Club, as treasurer, are serving in their respective capacities for the twenty-fourth consecutive year.

While the dates for the tourneys under the control of the governing body were set the sites will be announced by the executive committee, which meets within the next few days.

Thirty-five years ago John Moorhead, first president of the organization, held the annual meeting of the body at the Duquesne Club, and since that time many changes, both in the personnel of local golf and also in the game itself, have taken place.

TOURNEYS CARDED

There was an optimistic note throughout the meeting last night that augured well for one of the most successful seasons in the annals of local golf.

Allegheny invitation tournament, June 8 and 9; senior tournament, Oakmont Country Club, June 19; father and sons' tournament, June 25; team matches, first round, July 10; junior championship, July 23, 24, 25; West Penn open tourney, August 13; West Penn amateur, August 15, 16 and 17; team match finals, September 6; caddiemasters' championship, September 17.

The caddies' individual and team championship events also will be played in September.

Twenty-one clubs answered the roll call and many prominent golfers were in attendance. J. Rex Dunn eulogized the late Richard C. Long, past president of the organization, a silent toast being raised to the departed Oaklander, who played such an important part in Western Pennsylvania golf.

CHANGE IN MATCHES

The reports of the secretary and the treasurer for the past year were adopted. It was quite a boost for the administration of Smith when the financial report showed that for the first time in many years, the major tournaments had shown a profit.

A radical change in the playing of the team matches was announced. In the past, the teams have played foursomes in the morning and single matches in the afternoon. This meant the playing of 36 holes for the two rounds. This was changed to one 18-hole match, to be played in the afternoon.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE EXALTED CORNERSTONE—Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, was erected about 60 years ago. When the construction had reached the dome of the administration building the head carpenter called to the attention of the architects that they had forgotten to lay the cornerstone. It was decided then to construct a cornerstone containing the usual mementoes, coins, newspapers, etc., and to place it within the dome of the building.

MANOS, CLARK DEFEATED IN GLOVE UPSET

Semi-final frays comprise today's card of hostilities in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior doubles handball title tournament at the Keystone Athletic Club. Tilting is listed for early in the afternoon, with the hustling Keystoners, M. P. Hinnebusch and Bob Clark, engaging Lou Alman and Frank Altmar, crack Y. M. H. A. duo and second seeded array, at 1:30, and Dave Olbum and Sam Gladstone, likewise a dangerous Bellefield combine, meeting Frank Koubek and Parker Smith, brilliant young K. A. C. twain, at 2:30.

Olbum and Gladstone battled through to the penultimate bracket yesterday by eliminating Theos Manos and E. Curtis Clark, veteran Keystone hopes and defending premiers, in torrid quarter-final seance, 8-21, 21-9, 21-16. The losers got off to an impressive start, with Gladstone faltering under the brunt of their attack.

With the beginning of stanza two, however, the Y. M. H. A. stars braced. Concentrating the force of their assault upon Clark's portion of the court, particularly off Olbum's severe service, the Bellefielders turned the tables to annex the game. Manos and Clark rallied in the third canto and ran into a 14-8 lead. Here, though, Olbum moved into service to run some 10 points in a row and the rest of the affair was mere formality.

Hinnebusch and Clark also pulled an upset to enter the semi-finals, their victims being the P. A. A. performers, Eddie Roche and Vin McGuinness, and the verdict reading 21-20, 21-11. The splendid all-around work of Hinnebusch and the pretty right-hand kills of Clark swayed the issue. A large throng sat in on the struggle.

HOMESTEAD SWIMMERS LEAD IN RACE FOR TEAM TROPHY

LOCAL QUARTET TAKES A. A. U. RELAY TITLE

CHICAGO, April 13.—(AP.)—The "Miami Minnow" Katherine Rawls, and Doris Shimman, a total stranger to big time competition from Detroit, hit the waves of Lake Shore Athletic Club pool for women's national A. A. U. indoor swimming championships last night while a boy invader from Seattle gave the spectators an added thrill by bettering three American records in the men's field.

The extra thrill producer was Jack Medica, University of Washington sophmore, who made an official attack on three American records in the 880, 900 and 1,000-yard free style swims and came up with record-smashing time in each event. Medica swam 880 yards in 9:56.4, the 900 yards in 10:10.6 and the 1,000 yards in 11:18.5 to clip the marks held by Arne Borg, of Sweden at 10:12.4 in the 800 and 11:28.2 in both the 900 and 1,000 yards.

A victory in the 400-yard relay, in which Lenore Kight swam the final 100 yards in the remarkably fast time of 1:2.2, sent the Carnegie Library Club, of Homestead, Pa., ahead in the team championship race with 14 points as against 13 of the Miami Beach Club and 11 for the Washington A. C.

The Carnegie Library Club team was composed of Louise Clark, swimming first, Johanna Gorman, second, Mae Gorman third and Miss Kight as anchor. The Washington A. C. finished second to the Homestead stars, with the Women's Swimming Association team, of New York, third. The time was 4:21.

Miss Rawls successfully defended her second title by edging out Dorothy Poynton, Los Angeles, in the low spring board dive by the narrowest margin in the championship's history—.88 of a point; Miss Shimman scored the biggest upset of the meet by making a spectacular finish to win the 100-yard breast stroke championship with a yard to spare over Annie Govednik, world title holder from Virginia, Minn.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Mr. Lew Raymond, Boxing Matchmaker, Canton, O.:

Dear Lew—Well, Lew, here it is only a few days since you left for a week's stay in Canton to help Mike McKinney put over his big boxing show next Monday night with Teddy Yarosz fighting the main bout, and you have no idea how much the boys around here miss you. They don't know how to put in the time. Your headquarters in the Seventh Avenue Hotel are deserted and all of your pals are walking around looking as if they don't care what happens to them. Today most of them came into my office to kill time and I had to hide under my desk to get away from them long enough to finish reading that continued story in the magazine I was telling you about. Every place I go I fall over your pals and I'm afraid they'll start falling over me if you don't get back soon and do something about the matter.

In your absence they have stirred up a great hullaballoo about a Yarosz-Anson Green fight and so far only the cold imperturability of Ray Foutts, Teddy's manager, has prevented them from putting on the match. Somehow it seems that there is an impression abroad that all Anson has to do is to step into a ring with Teddy, wave his fists and say "boo" and Teddy will topple over in a dead faint.

I asked Ed Harvey, the WCAE man, what I ought to do about the housing problem for your pals and he said to send them down to the Variety Club and let Jimmy Balmer worry about them, but I'm sure Jimmy doesn't want to chisel in on your territory. I don't know what the NRA would think about the situation.

You certainly picked a swell time to walk out on the mob and leave them high and dry. I'm not one of those all-night guys like yourself and I can't entertain them 24 hours a day. I must take time out to eat once in a while.

I was talking with a fellow the other day who claims he paid his way into the Yarosz-Jeby fight last week, but, of course, nobody will believe him. He must be crazy. Don't you think so?

The baseball season opens next week. I hope you will be back by that time to take your pals off my hands so I can get some work done.

Sincerely yours,

HARRY KECK.

P. S.—Bunhy Buntach was just in and wanted to know when you are going to match Mike Barto with Barney Ross. Gus Camp sends his love.

THE POUNDS ERA

When we wrote of the death, the other day, of Murray Pounds, baseball and football star of a couple of generations ago in Western Pennsylvania, we connected up the names of many athletes who were contemporary with him, obtaining the information from a graybeard of those times . . . It seems there was a memory lapse, for read this letter from W. H. Hodgkinson, one of the men whose names appeared in the list:

"Dear Sir: Every once in a while even a sports writer goes haywire, and you certainly did in naming Bert Blue and myself as the star battery of the Punxsutawney team of years ago. The fact is that Blue, Jones and I never were with the Punxsutawney team, but played for Butler in '96 and '97. In justice to my old employers I think you should correct this error, as, although pretty old myself now, I still feel loyal to them. I was sorry to learn of the passing of Pounds, but "it won't be long now," for even ball players finally must pass out. Personally I am still as supple as a 10-year-old and in business in New Castle, Pa., but I don't think I could pitch a no-hit game without notice."

Well, anyway, Mr. Hodgkinson played on one of the teams of Pounds' time, and now the record is straight.

If you want to find out who follows sports closest and knows what is going on here, there and everywhere in the various games, just intrude upon a gathering of growing boys some time and start them to asking questions. This writer had that experience at a forum in the Irene Kaufman Settlement the other night, and before the evening was over was sorry he hadn't brought along his record books. This is an up-and-coming generation, and don't let anyone tell you otherwise.

THE REAL SPORTS FANS

Will the Pirates win the pennant?

Will the Pirates or the Senators win the exhibition game at Forbes Field tomorrow?

How many games will Larry French win this year?

Which club has the best outfield in the big leagues?

Is the outfield of the Chicago Cubs better than that of the Pirates?

Can Anson Green beat Ted Yarosz?

Will the livelier ball make the National League games this year more interesting?

It's a good thing they have a curfew hour at the I. K. S., otherwise we'd still be up there, probably going into the whys and wherefores of that famous sport of badminton.—HARRY KECK.

DALLAS, Tex., April 13.—(AP.)—An argument over one of the races at Arlington Downs yesterday ended in a shooting in which Ernest Conrad, 22, jockey from Covington, Ky., was wounded in his right thigh. He also received a slight laceration on the head.

The shooting occurred in Conrad's hotel room. At a hospital, Conrad said he would not appear against the other jockey, Floyd Halbert, who was arrested.

SPORT LEADERS NAMED BY PANTHERS

Four winter sport captains have been announced by the athletic department at the University of Pittsburgh and plans completed for the university's first annual track and field clinic, scheduled for the Pitt Stadium tomorrow.

Four more schools sent in notices that their coaches would attend the affair, the newcomers being Donora, Scottdale, East Huntingdon and Munhall.

GRAY DROPPED FOR WRANGLE WITH RAJAH

ST. LOUIS, April 13.—(AP.)—Sam Gray, 34-year-old pitcher with the Browns since 1928, was unconditionally released today after an argument yesterday with Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis manager.

Gray, who began service in the major league with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1924, came to the Browns from Philadelphia in a trade for Bing Miller.

In six seasons with the Browns he won 67 games and lost 82. Last year he won seven and lost four, appearing principally in relief roles.

Last season a deal was arranged to send him to the Washington Senators, but Clark Griffith called off the transaction when Gray notified him that he was suffering from a sore arm. The arm later recovered.

Jacobs Set Down At Bowie Meeting

BOWIE, Md., April 13.—(AP.)—Joe Jacobs, of New Orleans, leading the race for 1934 jockey honors, was suspended by the stewards for the remainder of the Bowie meeting yesterday for rough riding aboard George D. Widener's Cheka in the first race. The case was referred to the Maryland Racing Commission for such action as they deem fit.

muses the Epicure, "Remind me of life at The Warwick at all times. Celebrities in abundance, the atmosphere of glamour, the anticipation of something new (excepting that at The Warwick there's scarcely ever a whisper of criticism from the sophisticated). There's good reason for the choice of first nighters who call this home. And not the least of these is a famed cuisine and a genuinely whole-souled hospitality."

MARGIN SYSTEM HELD VICTORY FOR FINANCE

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Apparently politics is more concerned about the shadow than the substance.

The zeal to revise the Fletcher-Rayburn bill so as not to inconvenience brokers and speculators stands in contrast to the apathy over the rider in the bill dealing with federal regulation of listed corporations. Perhaps the explanation lies in the fact that the exchanges are better organized and more vocal than industrial corporations.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a matter of fact, those who take the trouble to read and digest the voluminous new bills drawn up to change human nature and the economic order, instead of accepting them blindly on faith, lay themselves open to criticism as "old fogies."

HELD VICTORY

The separate commission for supervising the marginal relationships between brokers and their customers rejects the suggestion of Federal Judge William Clark, of Newark, N. J., that lending on margins by brokers be discontinued and that the lending function be reposed solely in the hands of chartered banks. In London, as a matter of fact, much of the financing is done directly at the banks.

Of course, cynics, who look at the record of bank failures in the United States, will wonder why any one thinks bankers are more competent than brokers. As a matter of fact, the record of failures among brokerage firms, allied with the New York Stock Exchange, has been vastly better than that of national or state banks.

WEAKNESS CITED

Nevertheless, there is a seeming conflict of interest between the selling zeal of a customer's man in a broker's office and the lending function. It is difficult for the same man to tell a customer that a stock is certain to go up today, and to have to call upon him for more margin a fortnight later because it declined.

Early in the depression, this column pointed to the weaknesses in established systems of marginal loans. It was suggested that in the future no accounts be accepted by brokers without a personal introduction to one of the partners. It was further proposed that after margin accounts are opened a standard letter, approved by the stock exchange, be sent out pointing out the hazards in trading on borrowed funds.

It was also stated that brokers are inclined to look too much at initial margins, whereas the banker looks at the whole position of the borrower.

Broadly speaking, no initial margin is adequate, unless the customer has additional reserves on which he can call if necessary.

STEP FORWARD

From the standpoint of lending technique, however, it is a step forward to get away from the inflexible margin provisions of the first drafts of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill. It has now become recognized that lending cannot be taken over by automatic machines Discretion and judgment must play a part.

When stocks are undervalued, low margins are justified. However, when stocks are overvalued, high margins should be insisted upon.

The question of value is one of opinion. In the past, it has been left largely to the discreion of the lender. Now two government boards are to set the pace.

From a humane standpoint, it may be objected that the spectacle of margin speculation under governmental auspices was quite the uninitiated the idea that is such speculation is safer than it is.

As a matter of fact, speculating on borrowed sums is a highly hazardous activity, and over the long pull only a very small fraction of the practitioners succeed.

Irrespective of new laws, all except those exceptionally endowed with market intelligence and surplus capital should eschew marginal speculation, and instead make outright purchases of diversified securities of merit.

SENIOR ISSUES GAIN IN DULL MARKET

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—The ominous "Friday the Thirteenth" failed to cast any particular blight on the financial markets today, although trends were highly mixed and sentiment cautious.

With the exception of a wide variety of preferred stocks, which again responded to increased demand, the equities list was relatively dull. Most of the so-called leaders held to a fractional range. Speculative hesitation was attributed partly to the strike situation in Detroit, weakness of commodities and lack of stimulus from Washington.

Grains were again heavy, with May barley reaching a new seasonal low at 40 cents a bushel. Rubber, cotton, silver and copper lagged. Bonds continued to register quiet improvement. Sterling dropped about a cent in terms of the dollar.

Radio common was unusually active, one block of 17,000 shares changing hands at a small gain. There was a large turnover of Armour issues, but these later yielded most of their early advances. The automobile group was inclined to drift, as were the rails and utilities.

With the President back in the White House, Wall street was waiting for the Chief Executive's reaction to alterations which were made in the stock exchange control bill during his absence. Traders were wondering whether he will demand the restoration of the "teethy" provisions of the measure or will concur with most of the amendments.

Hopes were expressed of an early settlement of labor troubles in the Michigan tool and die shops, but it was realized that, if some agreement is not reached soon between the employes and employers, the difficulties might spread to departments of motor companies not now involved.

A revival of interest in preferred shares was seen as a "lap-over" from the bond market which, for several days, has been recording new high marks for the past two years or more.

The decline in freight loadings for the week ended April 7, of 50,556 cars was about in line with expectations. The drop was much more than seasonal and was attributed to a falling off in coal shipments. Heavy movements of coal in the last week of March were said to have been caused by anticipatory buying to escape higher prices as well as fears of strikes. The subsequent decline in the first April week, consequently, occasioned no surprise. The total of 557,887 cars, however, was 65,826 ahead of the same 1933 week and 12,264 above the corresponding period of 1932.

COTTON PRICES RULE STEADY

NEW YORK, April 13.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1c higher to 1c lower with sentiment divided on the Bankhead bill as passed by the conference committee. May, 11.92c; July, 12.02c; October, 12.15c; December, 12.25c; January, 12.33c; March, 12.42c.

The volume of business tapered off later in the morning, but after selling down to 11.95 for July with active months generally showing net losses of about 5 to 8 points, liquidating subsided and prices steadied somewhat on trade buying, or covering. At midday July was selling around 11.99 and the market was steady within 3 or 4 points of yesterday's closing quotations on most positions.

LIVERPOOL, April 13.—Cotton, 8,000 bales including 6,500 American. Spot in limited demand; prices five points lower; quotations in pence: American middling fair 7.40; strict good middling 6.95; good middling 6.65; strict middling 6.50; middling 6.35; strict low middling 6.20; low middling 5.95; strict good ordinary 5.75; good ordinary 5.45. Tax Boosts Should Be Stopped

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

"Our total tax imposts, $10,352,000, were equivalent to 30.4 per cent of net income, exceeded by approximately $2,250,000 the amount paid in dividends to the company's preferred stockholders and were more than 94 per cent of the full year's disbursements to its common stockholders."

THESE ALARMING figures are furnished by A. F. Hockenbeamer, of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, in his annual report to stockholders.

JUST WHO ARE the people who foot tax bills?

Of this company 96,824 stockholders, no fewer than 11,292 own only one to five shares, 13,011 own six to 10 shares and 56,803 own 11 to 100 shares, equivalent to 84 per cent of the aggregate number of stockholders.

Not only so, but "women continue to predominate numerically in the company's stock registers, having practically doubled in number during the past five years."

Against 34,999 men stockholders, the company has 40,841 women stockholders. "Joint tenants" (usually husband and wife) number 18,731," leaving only 2,260 "associations, insurance companies, corporate stockholders, etc.," to make up the balance.

Big companies are no longer owned mainly by rich men; they are owned very, very largely by individuals and families of modest means. In not a few concerns women stockholders outnumber men stockholders. Presumably the former include many widows dependent for their own and their children's livelihood upon the dividends they receive on their stock investments.

UNLESS A HALT be called, unless the rate of expansion in taxation of recent years be checked, it will become less and less possible for industry and business to meet tax burdens, maintain decent wages and earn sufficient margin of profit to permit of borrowing necessary capital.

Mounting taxes on corporations, therefore, are manifestly a menace, not to a relatively small number of wealthy individual or institutional investors, but to many millions of thrifty Americans who have exercised sufficient self-denial to enable them to save something. "Soaking" corporations doesn't mean punishing "soulless, impersonalities," but means punishing almost as many men, women and children as there are families in the land.

THAT IT WAS imperatively necessary for the federal government to take heroic steps to stem the debacle raging when President Roosevelt took office, no sane citizen will deny. Unemployment cried aloud for amelioration.

But has the time not come when Washington could advantageously apply the brakes on its spending orgy, spending never matched by any other government on the face of the earth?

Has the time not come when Washington could advantageously co-operate with industry and business and so encourage and hearten them that they would go ahead confidently with plans and activities which would absorb millions now idle, recapture prosperity, stimulate consumption, increase earnings available for the payment of federal, state and other taxes, the payment of reasonable dividends and the payment of generous wages?

ONE THING CERTAIN is that no government can continue to ladle out billions and billions indefinitely. No government ever before attempted to support as many people as the United States government has been attempting to support.

The sooner this staggering, impossible task can be transferred from Washington to industry and business, the better for all.

Business and industry normally are self-supporting. Governments never are.

THE FUTURE of America will not be entirely reassuring until the government comes within rational distance of being self-supporting. Five-billion and ten-billion-dollar deficits—additions to debts—cannot be long sustained by any government, not even ours.

Happily, most men of affairs are now prepared to incur greater responsibilities and risks if Washington displays a satisfactorily co-operative disposition.

FORCED CREDIT RESULTS FROM 'GREENBACKS'

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, April 13.—From a Detroit reader come certain questions about money, as follows:

1—In what respect are government "bonds" better than government "notes" or greenbacks?

Bonds are promises to pay at the end of a considerable period of time, and on a definite date—not "on demand" at any time. They do not circulate as money, but are held as investments for the sake of the interest they pay.

Thus bonds are in no sense "currency," and they do not affect prices as currency circulation does.

Notes such as greenbacks, are payable at any time on demand, if they are any good. If they are good, they constitute a "current" obligation of the government, and are thus a dangerous kind of debt. Otherwise, they are not redeemable and, not being secure, tend to lose their value.

They circulate as money, and pay no interest. No one wants to hold them. (Not being self-liquidating, they are "inelastic" and cause the worst kind of inflation.)

2—Should the government not force bondholders to take greenbacks in exchange, thus (1) eliminating interest and taxes to pay bond interest, and (2) increasing circulation to aid recovery?

In part, this question answers itself. The government should not repudiate its promise to those who lent it money by buying its bonds. It promised to pay money of a certain kind, and to pay interest for a certain time. If governments don't keep promises to citizens, what can we trust?

MORE DOLLARS NOW

Such action would ruin government credit. It could not borrow anymore. It would then have one of two recourses: (1) It would have to increase taxes to pay all expenses on a cash basis, or (2) pay all its expenses in greenbacks. In the latter case, everybody would be taxed, because prices and cost of living would rise.

Do you think the government can borrow without paying? Is it not better to borrow on bonds at low interest than to borrow (by force) on "greenback" issues which compel everyone to pay the tax of high living costs and of having their money depreciate in value?

As to aiding business, just note that we now have 50 per cent more dollars than we had at the peak of our greatest prosperity.

3—Are greenbacks not backed by the wealth and resources of the nation, just like bonds?

No. Of course, the wealth and resources are the same. But bonds have to be redeemed and so they can be issued only as the national resources permit. They have a definite tie-up with the resources, but greenbacks are not redeemable and have no definite tie-up with the nation's resources.

And let me ask you: What resources to pay has the nation but taxes? How then could taxes be reduced by substituting greenbacks for bonds? If the nation were to raise less taxes, it would have less resources. Then where would the "backing" for the greenbacks be?

DUE DATES ARRANGED

4—Is it not a fact that the gold payment obligations of the United States were so many times in excess of the gold held that they could not be paid in gold?

No. The obligations to pay gold did not fall due as a total at one time. Banks and governments always have more credits outstanding than they have gold reserves to cover. They simply arrange the due dates of their various obligations so they can meet them separately.

They also count on confidence in their credit standing, knowing that people will not all demand gold at once. Thus they are (or should be) careful not to issue so much paper that people will mistrust the adequancy of the gold reserves they hold.

If a nation or bank issues more paper promises than it can pay when due, in something which has a definite value, it does a great wrong.

The great beauty of the gold standard is that, if honestly adhered to, it prevents the issuance of more credit than can be paid.

They'll soon be rolling along

General Bronze Management Wins

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP.)—Two stockholders' committees succeeded in electing representatives yesterday to the General Bronze Company board but failed in their proxy fight to displace the present management.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XLIII.

They went to a small restaurant. As Kevin helped her with her coat, he looked down with a happy smile and gave a little pat to her arm:

"Lucky for me you dropped in tonight. I was feeling lonely and sore."

"Call on me any time you want comfort, old dear. We used to have to beg you for favors, Kevin. Down on our bended knees!"

"I was so old then."

She glanced at his forehead where the hair had receded a little. "You don't seem old now. You seem just the same."

"I'm twenty-nine in a few more weeks."

"It's a thrilling age."

"For what?"

"To accomplish great things, of course. We all expect it of you. Why were you lonely and sore tonight, Kevin?"

"Is that all?" She covered hastily: "They live a more abundant life over there? You were happier?"

Different Life

"It's a different life. None of this frenzied competition—no keeping up with Mr. and Mrs. Jones. You travel third class—doesn't matter—have a better time. Every day you hear good music; you have time to read, time to live.

"But the way to really see Europe is to make a walking tour. You could do it handsomely on $75 a month . . ."

He talked and talked. He had met great men. He described them vividly. He gave her intimate pictures of the staff in the clinic. She felt acquainted with Pfeiffer and his research in bone-healing, and even the girl Pfeiffer loved.

He looked at her glowing eyes, her mouth, parted and dreaming. She seemed lovely to him, warm as a flame, yet strong and sweet. She wasn't a child any more. He was piercingly aware of it.

Jane Cowl made an ardent, appealing Juliet. She played opposite Rollo Peters, a magnificent, convincing Romeo.

"How can she resist him?" Pippin whispered, during the balcony scene. "If a Romeo like that asked me like that, I'd be running into the garden long ago.

Pippin Happy

Kevin gave a flushed grin and squeezed her hand. She was conscious in every nerve of his presence next to her . . . of his black, beautifully set head and his strong fine hand; conscious of his nearness and power. She felt happy and a little dizzy.

When they entered the foyer after the curtain an odd thing happened. Jane Carew and a short, dapper fellow with the profile of a collar ad boy, crossed in front of them.

"Oh," said Jane, smiling into Kevin's face, "you did make it after all?"

"Yes, I expected to, you know."

Jane laughed: "I'm glad you expect right once in a while. A pity to miss it—a fine performance, don't you think?"

They talked on in a friendly way. Pippin knew she was being minutely appraised.

When they passed, she whispered impishly: "Am I wheeling the baby that should have been hers?"

"Maybe you are." He hesitated, then admitted: "Yes, we had a date. I disappointed her several times in the last week or so. She was afraid she might miss the show tonight. I could not give her any guarantee so she decided to play safe and go with a sure bet."

Strangely, it didn't daunt her joy. She tucked her arm in his and hurried to keep step.

Longs for Romeo

"Any time she wants a day off, Mr. Man, I'll be glad to do the wheeling. Thanks, Kevin, it was lovely. Wasn't Jane Cowl surpassing? And he made a strong, exciting Romeo. Imagine having a man say to you: 'Wert thou as far as that vast shore washed with the farthest sea, I would adventure for such merchandise.' It's a pity life isn't romantic, like that."

"It might be—just pick your Romeo!"

"It's just eleven. Suppose we drop into the St. Francis."

"I'd like that."

They got a table and ordered refreshments. Pippin remembered the night of her first dance. Just a ballroom with crystals hanging from the chandeliers. Only roses blooming on the table . . . but the night went down into her memory whispering with enchantment.

She recalled her young fiery dreams. None of the swift-marching, titanic romances for which she hungered had come to pass, yet she sank back now with a happy sigh. When Kevin stood up with a commonplace, "Let's dance," she went winged to his arms.

Drifts in Dream

She rested her cheek against his rough shoulder and let herself drift on in a dream. It seemed unbelievable this was happening—Kevin holding her, his heart thumping against hers. No one danced as he danced. She felt her whole body swaying to his in a buoyant, beautiful, intoxicating rhythm. She didn't want to think . . . she wanted to dance on and on . . . never to speak . . . never to have the music stop.

When they went back to their places, Kevin looked at her. He reached across the table and for no reason at all took her hand. He started to say something, then broke off. But just this—his holding her hand was almost more than she could bear.

He said casually: "It's nice dancing with you, Pippin."

"And with you."

"I feel guilty, Kevin. I should not be here. My final examinations start Tuesday."

"You'll get by."

"I'm afraid of the bio-chemistry."

"I have some good notes. You are coming to supper with Kathleen tomorrow, aren't you? Remind me to give them to you. I'd like to help you, Pippin."

Pippin Feels Older

They regarded each other in silence. She could not take her eyes from his.

After a while he said: "Do you go dancing very much?"

"On Fridays and Saturdays."

"Mostly with Gregg? He's an interesting fellow, isn't he? Not handsome, but a good, strong face. Are you a little in love with Gregg?"

"I like him immensely."

Kevin said: "I thought it was going to be your nice Ensign Bill. You were attracted by him, were'nt you?"

"Yes. I haven't seen him for two years."

"And all those great intrigues you used to talk about? You've not had any."

"I'm older, Kevin. I know you can't trifle with life."

"You let the thought of Vivian affect you too deeply. Because her love affair went wrong are you fearful of all emotion?"

She glanced swiftly into Kevin's face—a pinched white look on her mouth. She had told him nothing of Vivian's secret; only that Vivian killed herself when she feared her mind failing.

But he went on, as though he knew it all: "It's too bad a girl like Vivian had to die. It seems a shame something couldn't be done. She was too fine to be wasted."

He saw that the mere mention of Vivian's name left her sitting here dwindled—all the gay flash gone.

"It's more than a year, Pippin. Death isn't so sad—to drop off in the full flower is well. Think of living on, old, faded—'gray and full of sleep and nodding by the fire.' Will you dance with me again?"

In the midst of the dance, he lowered his head: "You're not weeping on my shoulder, are you? But you can, Pippin—any time you want."

Falling in Love?

When they reached home, Helena and David were sitting in the little room just off the hall. It was a cozy, intimate place where often she said good-night to Gregg. She had counted on a sweet moment with Kevin.

She didn't admit to herself the keenness of her disappointment. She went up to her room. The big white cat rubbed his head against her ankles. She took him in her arms, brushing her face in his deep coat.

She went over and watched a deep crimson moon sinking in the Golden Gate. She could feel yet the touch of Kevin's hand on hers—the stirring contact of his eyes. She thought with yearning and tumult: "Am I falling in love? Is it all returning?"

In a moment she would be 16 again: she would rush over and unlock the old diary, write again: "Only look at me, only put your hands on my shoulder. Wherever you go I will follow—whatever you say, I will do!"

She leaned against the window and thought: "I won't let myself in for it. I'm much too old for that."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Tiny wrinkles at the mouth corners show that the tissues, cushions under the skin, are in a state of depression. Get out the precious jar of skin food, lubricate the skin surface, go in for a series of facial exercises. Smile and unsmile—you will strengthen the muscles, tone tissues. Tilt the head backward and pretend to yawn. Pucker the lips, stretch them wide. Wipe away the cream with a dry cloth, skip over the face with an ice cube.

"GIVE ME LIBERTY OR GIVE ME DEATH"—THE RIDE OF PAUL REVERE

The British sent troops to enforce their measures in America. Resistance grew in the colonies whose delegates met in Carpenters' Hall, Philadelphia, September, 1774, forming the First Continental Congress. This summed up and sent the grievances of colonies to King George III, asking remedy; it also published addresses outlining the just cause to the people of England, Canada, and the 13 colonies. Patriots kept the spirit of liberty aflame in the colonial conventions. Patrick Henry's exclamation in the Richmond, Va., Convention, March, 1775: "Give me liberty or give me death" went down in history.

In April, 1775, Gov. Gage, of Boston, sent a British force to Concord to seize arms-depots, also patriots Hancock and Samuel Adams. Paul Revere in his famous ride through the night (April 18, 19) aroused the Minute Men, who met the British at Lexington. There the first blood was shed, the Revolutionary War started (April 19). OSMOSIS, A MOLECULAR FORCE, NECESSARY FOR LIFE

IBERIANS PASS UNDER ROMAN YOKE BEFORE SCIPIO

Though the Iberian peninsula (Spain) was taken from Carthage after the close of the Second Punic War (202 B. C.), her liberty-loving inhabitants put up a desperate struggle against Roman conquest for many years. They resorted to cannibalism rather than surrender, when starved out by the besieging legions. Finally Scipio Africanus Minor (who burned Carthage closing the Third Punic War, 146 B. C.) subdued the Iberians (133 B. C.). The survivors were driven under the "yoke" to symbolize their passing into Roman servitude. (World History)

MILK—THE PERFECT FOOD

The word "milk" is used in general for cows' milk. The industry concerned with milk and derived products is the dairy industry. A number of typical but widely different breeds of dairy cows have been developed in various countries. The five best known types in the United States and the composition of their milk are shown.

Breed	Water	Protein	Fat	Lactose	Ash	Total solids
	per cent	per cent	per cent	per cent	per cent	per cent
Jersey	85.27	3.80	5.14	5.04	0.75	14.73
Guernsey	85.45	3.84	4.98	4.98	0.75	14.55
Ayreshire	87.10	3.34	3.85	5.02	0.69	12.90
Shorthorn	87.43	3.32	3.63	4.89	0.73	12.57
Holstein	88.01	3.15	3.45	4.65	0.68	11.93

The composition of milk varies with the individual, age, health, food, care, environment, excitement, etc. The quantity of milk given by a cow annually varies between 700 and 2,000 gallons.

As milk is important to health, its purity is guarded by law.

EDUCATION: YOUR STANDING

Women—teamed with a beast of burden and "directed" by a long bamboo! . . . In the laboratory penetrating nature's secrets, becoming leader in science and benefactor of humanity! What causes this immeasurable difference in standing, efforts, achievements, satisfaction, happiness? The answer is: Education.

Education, imparting and gaining knowledge, develops body, mind, character, moderates temper, refines taste, molds habits, prepares human beings to take a decent place in the community. Adequate, free public education is the foremost requirement of physical, moral and economic fitness of any people. (Probl. of Democracy)

He Revolutionized Life

The American Petroleum Institute, which is to hold a convention in Pittsburgh next month, announces plans for another meeting in Western Pennsylvania during the summer which will be of even greater interest, for it is expected to bring oil men from all over the world.

A 30-acre tract of land near Titusville surrounding the location of the oil well drilled by Col. Edwin L. Drake in 1859—the world's first commercial oil well—has been purchased with funds contributed principally by members of the Institute, and is to be formally transferred to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and dedicated as the Drake Well Memorial Park.

Although opinions differ, the consensus is that Drake's well was completed on August 27. Accordingly the four days August 24-27 have been chosen for the dedication of the park and the celebration of oil's seventy-fifth anniversary.

Few events in the world's history are more worthy of commemoration than the drilling of the first oil well and the establishment of the great petroleum industry.

Think how oil has revolutionized life, before our very eyes! From petroleum has come gasoline, and it is gasoline that has made possible the automobile and airplane.

Automobiles, besides giving employment to millions, have brought good roads, the building of which is another great industry.

Automobiles and good roads have made it possible for multitudes of Pittsburghers to live in the country who would be unable to do so if oil had not been discovered and horses still had to be depended upon for highway transportation.

Good roads and motor buses in which children can be transported five miles to school in less time than it took to trudge one mile in the old days are putting the inadequate one-room rural schools out of business and resulting in the establishment of large consolidated schools in which country children enjoy educational opportunities equal to those found in the city schools.

The list of benefits that have come from oil could be multiplied indefinitely.

We are still a little dazed by the rapidity of the revolution. We still fail to realize that the day of the oxcart has gone, that gasoline has reduced distances, and that we no longer need all the school districts and townships and counties and public officials that were necessary when travel was slower.

As we celebrate oil's seventy-fifth anniversary we should get rid of oxcart methods in local government, from the need of which oil has freed us.

Medicine for the Ill

The Destitute Should Be Given Proper Treatment at Public Expense.

It has long been recognized as no more than right that destitute persons in need of medical attention should receive it. Until recently society took the unjust attitude that except in the case of inmates of public institutions the physicians who treated the indigent should themselves bear the expense. A step towards correcting that injustice was recently taken when arrangements were made to reimburse physicians out of public funds for their time and service in such cases.

Another phase of the question is now thrust upon public notice in the charge that thousands of the destitute ill in Allegheny County are suffering because the State Emergency Relief Board has not provided enough money for the purchase of medicines.

Several proposals are made for the correction of this situation. The Sun-Telegraph will not attempt to pass judgment on the merits of the individual suggestions, but it does not hesitate to assert as a general principle that whatever medicines are required for the necessary treatment of persons unable to pay for them should be supplied at public expense.

It is gratifying to learn that the Medical Advisory Committee of the County Relief Board has taken cognizance of the charges and is investigating.

It Is Really Enjoyed

Approval of Classical Music Is Not Insincere, As a Reader Thinks.

We have received a letter from a reader of the Sun-Telegraph, condemning the alleged hypocrisy of the clubwomen of Pittsburgh in voting in favor of symphonies and against jazz and crooners in a poll of their radio preferences.

Our correspondent, apparently of the opinion that no one really likes classical music, is "sick of so much insincerity."

This reminds us of a Pittsburgh railroad official to whom music of any kind meant absolutely nothing and who said that the screech of a locomotive rounding a curve was the sweetest music to him.

Persons so lacking in appreciation of one of life's greatest blessings are to be pitied.

A Tip From England

Pittsburgh May Learn Something from the British Slum Clearance Project.

The Pittsburgh office of the United States Department of Commerce has sent the Sun-Telegraph a copy of a brief report which it has just received from Charles E. Lyon, an assistant commercial attache in England concerning a large slum clearance program to be undertaken in Great Britain under government sponsorship.

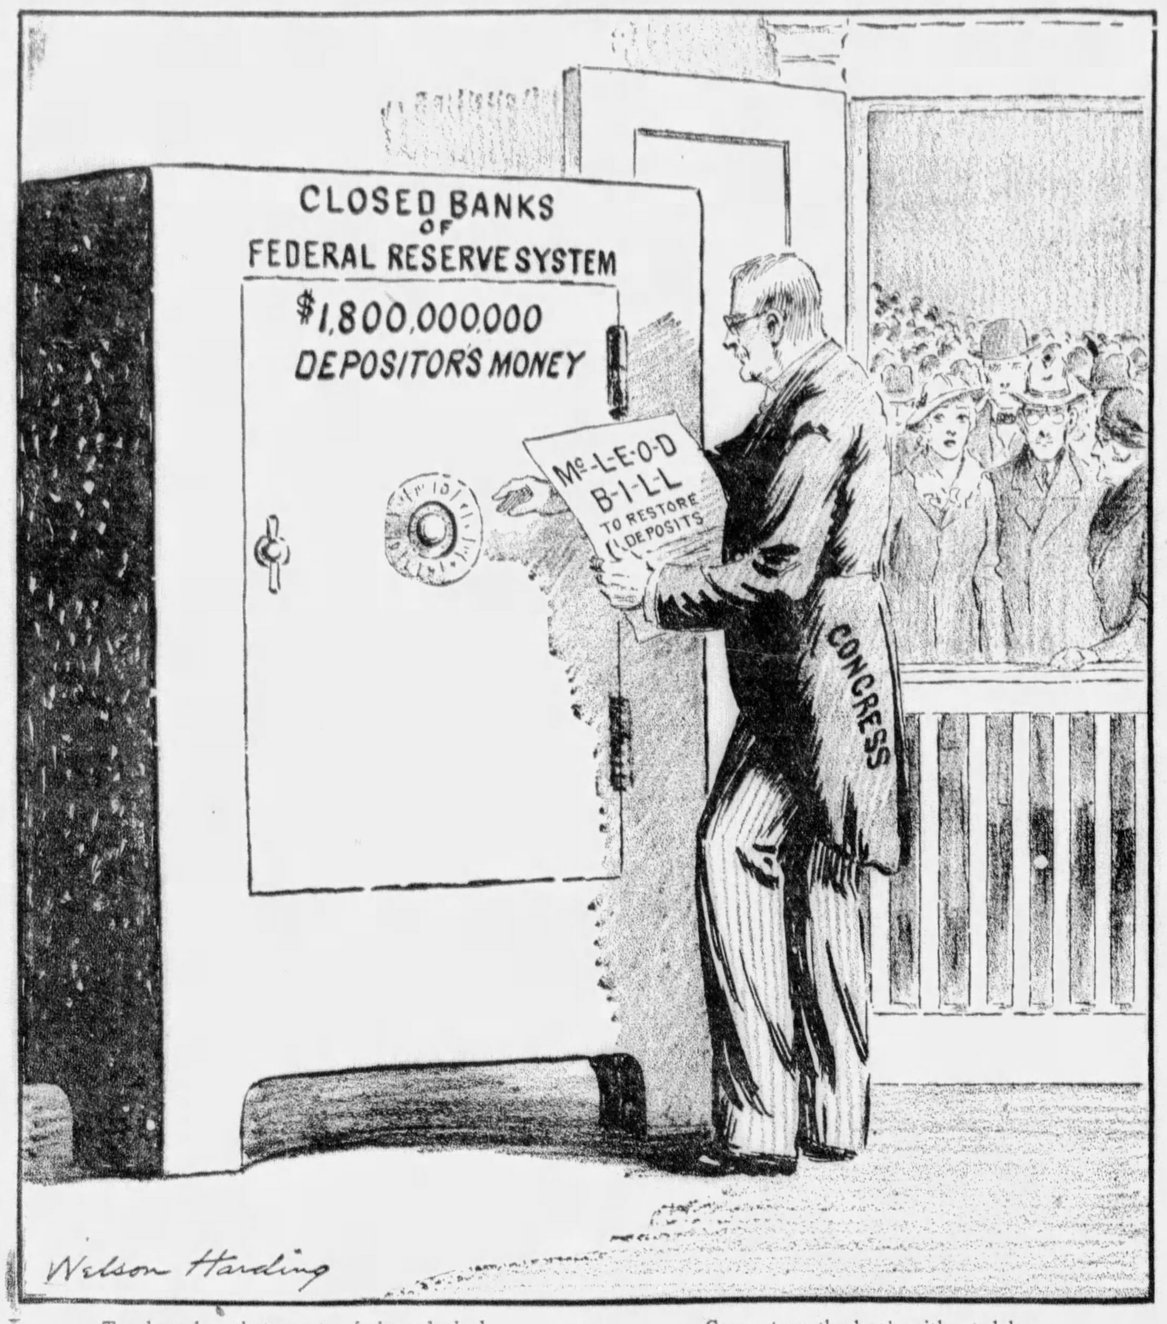
Lyon states that 267,000 slum houses are to be demolished and 285,000 new houses erected. Out of 1,716 local housing authorities that are to be in charge of the work, already 1,428 have submitted schemes that have met with the national government's approval. The program is expected to increase employment and to benefit producers and dealers in builders' supplies. Further details are lacking, except that it is made clear government subsidies will not be granted to aid construction of the dwellings.

Pittsburgh is now engaged in demolishing some of the worst of our slum houses. But no provision has been made for their replacement, and the question what is to become of slum dwellers when the slums are cleared is of lively interest.

The municipal authorities, the Pittsburgh Housing Association and other local organizations that are working on the problem may be able to obtain some valuable suggestions from the plans of the British cities.

You Have the Combination!

By Nelson Harding



Too long has that great safe been locked
While those who saved the money stand
In need of it; and now you hold
The combination in your hand.

Come, turn the knob without delay,
And throw the closed door open wide.
Make good the promise given those
Who thought their savings safe inside.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 13.—Thoughts while strolling: No one ever seems to see the mystery novelist, Dashiel Hammett. And what became of Bert Lahr? Why are all postoffice corridors musty? I like that tabloid description of the tempestuous show girl, Kathryn Ray, as "the All-American heat wave."

Outside of a seaman I never knew anyone who could describe a bosun's chair. Lilyan Tashman knew her doom more than a year ago, but smiled through. Brave lady! George White always looks as though he had just popped out of a barber shop. A jaunty literary name—Nancy Hoyt.

One word description of Jay O'Brien—ramrodish. Elmer Davis is getting gray, too. The waxen white Clare Boothe Brokaw suggests a swallow skimming into a sunset. Nobody can imitate Margaret Anglin reading a poem like Charlie Towne.

About time for the Martin Johnsons to be rounding in. Percy Hammond in overalls and headlight would be a ringer for one of Van Gogh's canvases of a Flemish miner. Fred Stone's youngest daughter, Carol, is about the prettiest redhead the town has seen since Billie Burke's day.

One of my favorite people—Jos. E. Smith. Morris L. Ernst and Irving Berlin bear a resemblance. And so do Queen Wilhelmina and Kathleen Norris. Broadway is no longer a white way. But lemon colored, red and green with those glass tubed lights. Wonder if Ned Sparks eats alum!

* * *

Since restrictions against his "Ulysses" have been lifted, the publishers are trying to lure James Joyce from his Paris retreat to visit New York. The young Irishman whose arrogances were the despair of the Dublin Jesuit teachers now lives in almost complete isolation in a faubourg, suffering from chronic nerve exhaustion and semi-blindness. Although his wife, son and daughter are anxious for him to make the trip, it is not believed he will.

* * *

In one of those ultra haberdasheries, where clerks wear morning coats, the other noon I was teetering between a $2.50 and $4 necktie, swayed by a pronounced tug for the latter. During my see-saw the clerk turned to a Bert Lytell looking gentleman who stepped up beside me. He skidded across the counter top eight samples for lounging robes. "Make these up for me," he said. "You have my measurements." And was gone. The power of suggestion is overwhelming. I not only took both ties but ordered a pair of robins egg blue pajamas.

* * *

Along the same line, I am told restaurants of the de luxe sort have shill wine buyers. After the clientele has had its quota of cocktails, the shills—usually a smartly dressed couple—order wine and the arrival of the iced bucket with the consequent popping of cork inspires others to cut into the grape.

* * *

My first bottle of champagne—a $1.25 pint size—was purchased in the Midland Hotel in Kansas City to impress a girl from home I had not seen in years with my devastating worldliness. She was horrified at my audacity, and refused to have a single drop. So I downed it. It seemed to have no intoxicating effect although I did, departing, shaking hands with the waiter. Still I was always democratic and easy to meet that way.

* * *

There are many, however, who seem not even slightly affected by champagne. Frank Ward O'Malley often tossed off a pint before breakfast and followed with a hard day's work. Albert Keller, the hotel man, on ocean voyages drinks a quart of wine before retiring. The Duke of Manchester is never made whizzy by the vintage. King Alphonso-that-was once downed four quarts at one sitting on the terrasse of Le Coliseé and went sauntering nonchalantly down the boulevard. Erskine Gwynne in his play-boy days considered he was on the wagon drinking a half dozen champagne cocktails at the aperitif hour.

The unseasoned drinker receives the alcoholic wallop. After seven years of teetotalism, a pudding sauce tinctured with rum the other night actually made me floaty. In fact I almost expected to break out in a setting of D. T's.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Are Women Workers Temperamental?

The wise books will tell you a lot about the status of Women Workers in these times ... but they can't tell you half as much as you learn by listening to Ella, the stenog, while she spiels the day's doings to Mabel, the file-clerk ... or by reading letters like this:

Dear Miss Robinson:

Usually I like what you write, but you sure made me mad lately when you said that "Women aren't emotionally as reliable as men in business." There isn't any difference in the emotions of businessmen and business women ... BUT THERE IS A LOT OF DIFFERENCE IN THE WAY MEN LOOK AT THOSE EMOTIONS.

A man can and does kick up as much fuss in the office as any woman. Sometimes it is necessary fuss and sometimes it is plain silliness and bad temper. But no matter what it is, AS LONG AS HE IS A MAN HE CAN GET BY WITH IT. BUT JUST LET A WOMAN KICK UP THE SAME AMOUNT OF FUSS AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS. At once all the men brand her as "temperamental" ... "unreliable" — "unbalanced" ... and, if they don't fire her, proceed to treat her as a child or a half-wit. Yet she may not have said half as much as a man would have said under the same circumstances.

I have had an example of this in my own department. I have had charge of six girls in a certain department of a big insurance company. Before I went there a man had been in charge for 11 years. They had let him run things to suit himself and when I came in, after his death, I found a lot of wasteful, old-fashioned methods in use. Everything needed a good shaking up.

I stood it for a while, for I knew that a new employe should always work his, or her, way in tactfully. Then I laid my suggestions before the higher-ups. They listened, with that polite, patient kind of listening you give a kid. But they didn't do a thing. It was plain that they couldn't imagine a woman bettering a man's methods. I waited for a while, until I had some more figures to show them, and I started in again. Same result.

Then I got mad! I was up against it. If I didn't make good in that department they'd hold me responsible. But I couldn't make good with those old methods. Yet, if I tried to change the methods, they'd give me the dog eye like they had before. But I had to take a chance. So I stood right up and made a yell ... Well, the result was that they gave in. They couldn't deny the figures. And I am now giving results. BUT DO YOU THINK THOSE MEN WILL ACKNOWLEDGE THAT I WAS RIGHT? WILL THEY BE GOOD SPORTS WITH ME, THE WAY THEY WOULD ANY MAN WHO HAD MADE THEM COME TO TERMS? I'll say they won't!

I find I have acquired a reputation for being "awfully temperamental," and they actually fight shy of me.

That's just a sample. Any business woman can give you dozens of similar experiences. MEN WILL CHUCKLE AND BOAST ABOUT SOME MAN'S BLOW-UP ... AND PROBABLY GIVE HIM A RAISE IN SALARY ... BUT THEY CALL A SIMILAR BLOW-UP IN A WOMAN "TEMPERAMENT" OR "INSUBORDINATION" AND HOLD A LASTING GRUDGE AGAINSE HER FOR IT.

Maybe some day women will achieve a real equality in the business world out it hasn't come yet. It's still a man's world ... AND MEN STILL REGARD WOMEN AS INTRUDERS AND VIEW THEIR ACTS THROUGH PREJUDICED EYES.

If a woman wants to get along with men today she still has to flatter them and pretend to agree with them, while scheming to get her own way. That is terribly irritating and humiliating to any woman with honesty and pride, but what else can she do? If she tries to play the game openly and forcefully like a man they all resent her. The weak men resent her strength and the strong men suspect it. They won't LET her be honest. That's the truth.

That's Elenore's story ... Elenore Stewart, do YOU stick by it?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

They Call It 'Pride'

Tell me on what your fiance or your Boy Friend prides himself—and I'll tell your fortune without any cards, trances or palmistry.

* * *

Because pride is the key to a man's character; and the only difference between a successful man and a racketeer is that the first prides himself on his achievement, and the second prides himself on being "slick."

The great trouble with this world, today, is that there is so little pride—or shame—left in it. And you can't have a sense of pride, unless you are capable of a sense of shame. Most "Moderns" seem to be ashamed of nothing, if they can "get away with it."

* * *

Pride is the acid test, which brings out all the gold, all the dross and most of the BRASS in human nature.

* * *

Pride DOES things to you! It strengthens one man's backbone—and inspires another man to put up "a good FRONT." It prompts one woman to take a menial or inferior job rather than be "dependent"—and impels another woman to remain chained to poverty and charity rather than be seen in an employment agency.

* * *

* * *

It inspires one man to refuse to marry the girl he loves and break her heart, because he can't afford to support her—and impels another man to keep his word and marry a woman he has ceased to love.

Pride gives one girl the strength to smile valiantly when she finds herself a wall-flower or a wash-out—at a party—and gives another girl the will-power to stay at home all her life rather than be a dud at a party.

* * *

Pride makes one woman have a face-lift and dye her hair rather than admit that she's "getting along"—and another woman encourage her hair to go white rather than admit that she's ASHAMED of getting along.

* * *

Pride helps one woman to grit her teeth and stick to her "bad bargain" rather than acknowledge her marriage a failure—and spurs another woman to get a divorce, hustle for a job and advertise her disillusionment to the world rather than live on and SMILE throught a lifetime of mock happiness.

* * *

You can see how easy it is to judge a man (or woman) by his sense of pride; because everybody has a different interpretation of the word. To some it is honor, to some it is snobbishness, to some it is vanity or conceit or bravado.

But, in the long run, pride is that combination of self-esteem and cold fear which inspires half of us to the highest and bravest and best that is in us—and drives the other half to yield to the weakest and pettiest and worst that is in us.

* * *

So, if you are looking for the key to a man's character, find out first whether he prides himself on driving a swanky car—or on the fact that it's PAID for.

The Ancient Capital of the Queen of Sheba, Which Two French Aviators Say They Have Found

By Edwin C. Hill

SIR H. RIDER HAGGARD, British author of so many absorbing novels—"King Solomon's Mines," "Allen Quatermain," and many more—once led his adventurers to a purely imaginary city of magnificent buildings and towers, and walled away in the savage African jungle. One thinks of Haggard's prophetic imagination when we read that two French explorers by air, Capt. Corniglion-Milinier and Andrew Malraux, took motion pictures to support their account of the great capital of the Queen of Sheba, which stands today in marble whiteness against the black lava of the desert of southwestern Arabia.

For that very ancient capital of the great queen, who knew King Solomon, was vaster than Babylon or Ninevah. A report to the New York Times, from Paris, tells us that Sheba's capital stretches for three miles along a ridge of volcanic rock, with every feature distinct—from its crumbled outer wall to its massive defense towers and its palaces rising ninety to one hundred feet from the sands. The ancient world hides many once splendid cities, buried now by the drifting sands which converted even the Garden of Eden into a desolate waste.

* * *

Held by Wild Arab Tribesmen

BUT Sheba's capital escaped that blight of sand and remains a marvel of the world. The two Frenchmen had a view of it from only three hundred feet above the earth, soaring and swooping over the glistening towers of marble, and driven to upper altitudes by the rifle fire of the wild Arab tribesman who now, alone with the jackals and the hyenas, possess the amazing ruin. And they saw enough to know that the old, old traditions of the queen's power and riches were hardly exaggerated, for the city must have held a population of at least two hundred thousand in the days when Arabia was a paradise.

And it fires the imagination to know that there still exists the capital from which the queen rode forth with her long train of camels to visit King Solomon in his capital of Jerusalem. Truth is ever stranger than fiction, as timeworn as that saying may be, and another proof of that fact is that the greatest of American engineers—mining engineers—John Hays Hammond—discovered in South Africa, in Rhodesia, the fabled mines of King Solomon—the mines of incredible richness, from which Solomon the Great drew his treasures of gold and precious stones.

But that, as Rudyard Kipling would say, is another story and must await another telling. It all moves one to the reflection that the world is very old, that our modern progress in the Age of Machines and of Electricity may be a wonderful thing, but that the ancients had glory which, dimmed by time, emerges now and then, with blinding refulgence, to dazzle our modern gaze.

Huge Gold Output Of the Transvaal

A WANDERING prospector, pick and shovel on his back, trudged through the hills which the South African Dutch called Witwaters Rand, meaning the Ridge of White Waters. Experts had been over the ground before him and had reported that there was not a ton of gold in the section. The miner, Walker by name, stumbled, unloosed a stone with his toe and, looking down, saw—GOLD!

And since that day, less than 50 years ago, those 60 miles of hills in the South Transvaal have yielded more than 8,500 tons of gold. Half of the present yearly supply of new gold for which the nations of the world are bidding the fantastic price of $36 an ounce, comes from these mines. California and the Klondike have been pretty well worked out, but the Rand goes on to confound the experts and to produce more than one hundred million dollars worth of gold a year.

The original find brought the usual stampede from the four quarters of the globe to create Johannesburg, now a most modern city. But these goldfields were not of the type where a fortune could be dug out by hand or washed out from the creeks. Machinery, potassium cyanide and an army of cheap labor are essential to making the dirt pay in the Transvaal. The gold runs only $6.50 to the ton and it costs $4.50 to bring it up. The millions of tons of sand which dot the landscape are the monuments to the sweat and blood of millions of blacks and thousands of whites who dug that sand from depths as far as a mile and one-half into the earth so that the gold might be reclaimed from them.

Of the 250,000 employed in the gold industry, 220,000 are unskilled blacks, contract labor recruited through their chieftains in British South Africa and Portuguese East Africa, and paid 50 cents a day and their keep in the compounds maintained by the gold companies. The Roosevelt money policy has the mines in the Rand working at full blast.

An endless stream of small wooden boxes, containing small yellow bars resting in sawdust, flows from the Cape of Good Hope. And what matters if one of the boxes is found by Scotland Yard to contain only scrapiron. Surely it is only a drop in this ocean of gold.

Cruise Gives President Time to Think

By James T. Williams, Jr.

ONY those with whom meditation is not an unknown privilege but a daily habit can evaluate the benefits which will accrue both to President Roosevelt and to the public interest by his recent cruise in southern waters.

In the early days of the presidency the occupant of the White House found abundant opportunity to commune with his thoughts, to think out the great problems that challenge the best that a President can give to their study and contemplation.

This was also true of the patriots of the early days of the Republic. Patrick Henry, of Virginia, had a rule that he followed his life through. It was to withdraw to his room at the twilight hour and spend at least an hour in meditation. Even members of his own family never intruded upon him during this hour of his daily solitude. Many a President must have wished in recent years that such a privilege could be his.

Calvin Coolidge, when asked whether he thought the presidency was too heavy a burden for any one man to carry, whether in reality there should be an assistant President, replied to his questioner with an emphatic negative to both questions. Mr. Coolidge insisted that a President, to be able to shoulder the burdens of his office without undue strain, owed it to himself and to the government not to do anything which, under the Constitution, could be delegated to one of his subordinates. Only in this way, as Mr. Coolidge believed, could the occupant of the White House find the time to think about the great decisions which only the President can make.

* * *

T. R. Took Time To Meditate

THE first President Roosevelt frequently combined outdoor exercise with meditation. One could almost set his clock by the regularity with which at half past four every afternoon Theodore Roosevelt left his office to go for a walk or a ride, in the course of which he might ride or walk for long stretches in silence. When he visited the Grand Canyon after he left the White House he broke his silence not more than once or twice in the ride from the rim of the canyon down "the bright angel trail" to the banks of the Colorado River, where he served his guests a picnic lunch. Meditation was not an unknown art to him and he so ordered his life that he was not deprived of the time and surrounding essential to meditation.

Many presidents in recent years have wished that Congress would provide a country retreat near Washington to which the President could go over the week-end and get away from the routine work of his office and spend his time in thinking out his larger decisions. But Congress has neglected to do this.

By getting away from the White House, from the cabinet and the Congress and the press and the daily round of visitors President Roosevelt has been able to make a fortnight's cruise in southern waters under conditions ideal for meditation. The expectation is that next week Congress will begin to feel the renewed vigor of his leadership and that the country will not have long to wait for the guidance which his party leadership in both Senate and House so sorely needed.

* * *

May Soon Agree On Program

THIS probably means that Congress will soon agree upon a legislative program that will make an early adjournment possible. If Congress remains in session until midsummer, Mr. Roosevelt will get legislation that he strongly favors but he will also run the risk of getting in addition some legislation that he will have to veto. And vetoes are not always sustained even under the administration of so popular a President as the country knows Mr. Roosevelt to be.

In this administration the President is his own best political advisor. No member of the cabinet is as wise in the ways of poutics as he is. The mistakes made by his administration to date have been made in large part not by the President but by cabinet officers or subordinates who flattered themselves that they were better politicians or wiser in statecraft than the President.

From now until the end of Congress it is probable that the leadership of the President will be more to the fore than ever at both ends of the avenue. In which event the country will be grateful that the President had the vision to break with established custom and go to sea for a fortnight in the midst of a session of Congress.

There has seldom been a time when meditation in high places was more needed than it is today. If the cabinet and the leaders in Congress would follow the example of the President by spending less time in making speeches and more time thinking, the whole country would be the gainer, beginning with the Congress.

ISN'T IT SO?
